How to Cure Anarchy.
He and She Ran Away.
The Lawn Tennis Line.
Flying at Railroad Rates.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

A BOY of 17, calling himself a Communist, appeared before Magistrate Sabbatoni, who said to him "what you need is for me to have you in a two-by-four room. What I would do to you! I'd blacken your eyes and give you some real American spirit."

THAT, you will admit, is a perfect plan for discovering the spirit of anarchy, which disregards established law, and legal procedure.

IN New Jersey the wife of a Baptist clergyman runs away with a chicken farmer, member of the congregation.

She advises her husband to get a divorce, the chicken farmer leaves directions for the care of chickens and his three children.

THIS is shocking news, but we should read it, having in mind the great number of clergymen's wives and chicken farmers that stay faithfully at home, leading monotonous lives, with little thanks to the clergymen's wives from the congregations, and often few eggs for the chicken farmer from his hens.

Faithfulness is the rule, and is never advertised.

THE United States Lawn Tennis Association has drawn the line, barring Negroes from all championship tennis matches.

It says "this is no reflection upon the colored race." It is PRECISELY a reflection upon the colored race, and that being the case, why not say so?

White tennis players may ban black players and vice versa. No need to be hypocritical.

THIS is important to railroads and their stockholders.

Universal Air Lines will compete with railroad rates, passengers paying exactly the costs by rail, plus sleeping car fares.

On the financial horizon that is a cloud about the size of a dividend that ought to make railroads thoughtful. Airplanes will soon fly from the Atlantic to the Pacific between sunrise and sunset, for one-quarter today's railroad charges.

AS sad a sight as you ever saw was Wall Street's Christmas tree the day after Christmas.

Many former possessors of paper profits must have looked at that tree in front of the exchange with some bitterness. It had on it only two or three little dull red bulbs, soaked with rain, partly withered. It was an appropriate tree for those that hung up their stocking in Wall Street and on Christmas day couldn't find even the stocking.

THIS crime wave, dangerous for law-abiding citizens, is dangerous, occasionally, for the criminals also.

Miss Ruth Orloski, 18, very blonde, tells the police she ran from her criminal companions in Jersey, after they had held up stores, and killed one man. She ran because "they planned to take her for a ride."

"They had me marked," says the young lady. "But they couldn't get me into an automobile."

THIS modern person, under $25,000 bail, hoped her former companion and sweetheart "will burn for that murder in New Jersey," for, says she, he is "only a rat." Her word "burn" refers not to his conscience, but to the electric chair.

BEGINNING January 1, China proposes to manage all China, abolishing "extra territorial" rights of Western nations that have had their own especially guarded residence districts, and their own courts in China.

Now Americans, British, etc., will have to live in China, as Chinese live in America and Britain. It is an interesting experiment, and perhaps premature.

THE British know positively that a war doesn't pay. They face a "slump year" in industry. Losses in stocks, heavy taxation, labor in power, are some things that worry Britishers that were rich, and now feel poor.

ACROSS the channel in France, on the other hand, everything is booming, nobody idle. And the French are persistently drawing on Britain's supply of gold.

ONE who keeps track says "of 10 presidents of the 10 big banks in New York City, only one was president 10 years ago, namely Louis G. Kaufman, of the Chatham-Phoenix."

He might add that of those ten big banks, several probably will have new presidents ten years hence. Changes are good, however.

When Louis G. Kaufman came to New York, the late Judge Gary, head of the steel trust, said "that's a smart man, he will make a lot of money." The judge was right.

PROF. MICHELSON says "man's greatest work, no matter in what field, is accomplished between the ages of twenty-five and forty-five. This has been true in my own case."

MAN'S "greatest work" in science should BEGIN at forty-five, it will begin later than that when men become really civilized, and educated.

For great work a man needs experience and education. The first forty-five years are not too long for a real education.

PRESIDENT MAY DIRECT CAMPAIGN

Reorganization of Federal Enforcement Machinery Believed Part of Scheme

By WILLIAM S. NEAL,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—President Hoover devised the basic feature of the proposed reorganization of the government's international border forces to check rum smuggling, it was disclosed here today.

The plan laid down by the President calls for the transfer of all of the customs forces, prohibition agents and immigration inspectors on the Canadian and Mexican border into a border patrol unit within the coast guard.

SHAKE-UP PLANNED

In addition he favors the complete division of rum smuggling suppression and other activities of the coast guard, such as life saving and ship rescue work.

This disclosure, together with other information trickling through official sources to Congressional drys, lent weight to the belief that Hoover has not only given much personal attention to the prohibition situation in the past, but that he will be the actual generalissimo of the federal dry army in the future.

Official word that the law enforcement commission, presided over by George W. Wickersham, will make a report to Congress on prohibition soon after January 6, was taken to mean that Hoover had demanded action from the commission. The commission has been under fire by drys for delay.

ADOPTS OLD BILL

In devising a border control scheme, Hoover adopted in part a four-year-old bill introduced in the House by Representative Grant Hudson, (Rep.), of Michigan, with suggested changes.

"It is true I discussed the border patrol bill with Mr Hoover," said Hudson. "In the past I have provided in the bill that the unified border patrol should be under the department

POLICE TRAILING SUSPECTS IN 'HILL' KILLING

Policeman Slain in Pistol Battle Following Holdup Of Store in Emmett Street

Scores of detectives and police today were searching the Hill district for three Negroes who killed Plainclothesman James E. Hughes, Negro, during a gun battle in Center avenue, near Francis street, last night.

The trio entered the grocery store of Harry Langer, at 10 Emmett street, held up the manager, Morris Pechersky, of 77 Arthur street; Agnes Ford, of 310 Soho street, and Robert Parker, of Hillside street, a customer. They looted the cash register of $100 and took $11 from Pechersky and $15 from Parker.

BOY POINTS OUT TRAIL

The bandits then ran up Emmett street into Center avenue.

A call to the Center Avenue Police Station brought Lieut. James Hoban and Plainclothesman Hughes to the scene. While Lieut. Hoban was gathering details of the holdup, Hughes entered an automobile with Theodore Purdue, 11, Negro of 15 Hillside street, an errand boy in the store, who witnessed the robbery, and began scouring the neighborhood.

In Center avenue, near Francis street, Hughes sighted three Negroes.

"There they are," Purdue shouted to the policeman.

HUGHES GIVES CHASE

Hughes leaped out of the machine, revolver in hand, and commanded the three to throw up their hands.

One of the Negroes leaped behind a pole and opened fire on Hughes. His accomplices joined in the shooting. Hughes emptied his revolver at the thugs, and then fell with two bullets in his chest. One of them had penetrated his heart and caused death.

THUG BELIEVED WOUNDED

One of the bandits was believed to have been wounded. Hughes was taken to Passavant Hospital and pronounced dead.

Immediately after the fatal shooting Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh ordered detectives and patrolmen from other stations into the Hill district. More than a score of Negroes were rounded up, but none was identified.

Purdue, whom the bandits did not molest during the holdup, told

TOWN HALL SITE IN OAKLAND OPPOSED

Proponents of Downtown And North Side Locations Decry Plan Board Choice

Despite the recommendation of the Schenley Farms site for the Pittsburgh Town Hall by the County Planning Commission, proponents of other sites today doubt that the county commissioners would decide finally on the Oakland property.

Workers for a downtown hall site are still full of fight and those working for the North Side location found consolation in the report that a minority report recommending the River avenue and Anderson street property would be submitted to the County Commissioners by the three members of the Planning Commission who voted for that site.

J. C. Chaplin, president of the Allegheny County Town Hall Association, who led the promotion of a downtown site, declared that he did not accept the action of the Planning Commission as indicating final selection. With other members of his executive committee he said that a meeting of the association probably would be called within a few days to consider what course the downtown advocates would pursue.

UP TO COMMISSIONERS

Workers for all sites still expressed the opinion that the County Commissioners remain to be convinced of the respective advantages of the various properties offered and that the question remains to be fought out before that body.

Some of the expressions follow:

J. C. CHAPLIN—The place for the Town Hall is in the Golden Triangle downtown. In justice to

POLICE IN 100 TOWNS HUNT OFFICER'S SLAYER

Highway Patrolmen Deceived By Child in Auto, Shot Down Without Warning

By AL GOUGH,
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 28.—Police agencies in more than 100 cities and towns were still combing the tri-state district this morning for a "trigger" woman and child accompanied by two gunmen companions who shot and killed a state highway patrolman and wounded another in an encounter on the New Castle-Butler road yesterday.

The woman, described as a blond about 35 years old and weighing about 140 pounds was the killer, police say. Her two male companions, meanwhile, kept up a steady stream of gunfire directed at the other patrolman, who escaped death by the narrowest of margins.

REWARD OFFERED

Corp. Brady Paul is the dead man, patrolman Ernest Moore, his companion, suffered wounds in the head and nose. One bullet clipped off the end of his nose and the second creased his skull, inflicting a four-inch scalp wound.

Developments thus far in the hunt were these:

Offering of $1,000 reward by Lawrence County Commissioners for "information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayers."

Start of a systematic search for fingerprints and any other possible clue by state police bertillon experts from Troop D, Butler, who are examining the automobile used by the killers. The machine was abandoned and another car stolen for the "getaway."

Maintenance of an unrelenting vigil on all roads leading in and out of the state with highway patrolmen and state police searching automobiles and closely questioning occupants.

BURKE POSSIBILITY

Possibility that one of the gunmen is Fred Burke, fugitive Chicago gangster, accused of the "Moran massacre" there, the Frankie Uale slaying in Brooklyn and other killings, was being borne in mind.

Authorities expressed themselves as satisfied that the slayers were experienced gunmen and desperadoes of the "worst kind," fleeing from some other crime.

It is believed they held up the P. H. Butler store for cash to aid in their get-away, and finding themselves blocked by the two highway patrolmen answering the alarm broadcast over the newly-installed automatic police typewriter system, they preferred to shoot it out.

NO CHANCE TO DRAW

Moore's account of the battle revealed that neither he nor his

LOVELORN MAN KILLS SELF

The death of Frank D. Smith, 41, of 205 Sixth street, West Newton, whose body was found last night on the porch of a Baldwin Township home, today was classed by the coroner's office as suicide, because of a girl.

Smith, they said, had driven to the home of S. R. McKee, Clairton road, stepped from auto to porch and shot himself. A revolver was found beside him.

Miss Nan McKee, to whom Smith left a note found in his auto, said he had called on her previously, but that he was married and that she had forbidden further visits. She said he had threatened her life.

The note:

"Nan—I bid you goodby. I'm sorry this must happen, but I love you and can't stand your treatment of me. God bless you."

Smith, said to be the father of two children, was chief clerk at the Smithdale mine office of the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

LINDY'S PLANE SIGHTED HERE

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who yesterday gave news services concern when, accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh, he departed from the Valley Stream (N. Y.) airport in a fog, is apparently "pushin' along" toward the West after having flown over Pittsburgh.

A plane resembling Lindbergh's passed over Bettis Field late yesterday afternoon and it was revealed today the noted flyer and his wife had landed at an Akron airport a short time later.

"Oh, I am just pushing along," was Col. Lindbergh's comment, according to an Associated Press dispatch, when questioned as to his destination as he was about to leave Akron.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is expected to arrive in Columbus Monday morning for a conference with T. A. T. officials. It was first reported, when the Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh hopped off from Valley Stream, N. Y., yesterday morning, that the famous fliers were coming directly to Columbus.

WOMAN AND GUN TRAP BURGLAR

I. was 4 a. m. Mrs Mary Hutton, of 700 Ivy street, East End, was awakened by a noise in her bedroom. A burglar was in the room.

From beneath a pillow she took a revolver.

Mitchell explained he was merely seeking a place to sleep.

Mrs. Hutton's daughter, Rachel, 17, led the visitor to the front door and directed him to the street. Later Mitchell was arrested. He was held for court on a charge of entering a building.

Mrs. Hutton's second daughter, Clara, 15, testified that she recognized Mitchell as a boy who attended the school at which she was a pupil.

John D. III Walks Off With 'Better' Scarf

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, III, has been greatly embarrassed Leaving early after the wedding of Annie G. Colby and W. H. Vanderbilt, he discovered he had the wrong scarf. "It's a better scarf than mine, too, I guess," he remarked as he rushed back into the Colby mansion to rectify his error.

Rockefeller Host to Kin At Christmas Party

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Max Oser, Swiss riding master; his wife, the former Mathilde McCormick, who is a granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and their three children, were among the guests last night at the aged magnate's annual Christmas party.

The party began at 8 o'clock. The windows of the Casements, Rockefeller's winter lodge, glowed with the mellow lights from the great Christmas tree.

Although Rockefeller was host, members of the household surprised him with a special music feature. The nonogenarian is very fond of Christmas carols. The tree was laden with gifts from Rockefeller to his guests.

Mathilde Oser arrived for the holidays several days ago and was followed by her husband. Among other guests were Gen. Adelbert Ames, close friend and golf partner of Rockefeller, and David Rockefeller, 14, son of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

4 RUM RUNNERS FLEE; DROWN

DETROIT, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Four members of the crews of three rum running boats are believed to have been drowned last night in the Detroit River, into whose icy waters they plunged to escape arrest by customs border patrolmen. Two other members of the crew were rescued from the rived by the inspectors, who also seized the smugglers' boats with a cargo of liquor valued at more than $30,000.

The seizure was made about 150 feet off Wyandotte. The officers had stopped the three boats coming from the Canadian shore. As they drew alongside the four men jumped into the river and struck out for a fourth boat. This craft, according to the officers, was capsized by the combined efforts of the four men to climb aboard.

P. R. R. Division to Be Built in Miniature

GREENWICH, Conn., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Milton Cronkhite is building on his estate a miniature of the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad at a cost of $35,000. Everything, even the scenery, will be on a scale of a quarter of an inch to a foot. He will have 600 pieces of rolling stock.

PANTAGES GOES TO HOSPITAL

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Alexander Pantages, multimillionaire theater operator, today faces the more agreeable prospect of confinement in the detention ward of the county hospital as a result of his request for release on bail while awaiting appeal from conviction for attacking Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer.

Upon completion of medical summaries last night Superior Judge C. W. Fricke denied showman's application for [illegible], ordering instead his transfer to the hospital ward.

"Pantages is suffering from prison neurosis or prison psychosis," said Judge Fricke in his ruling. "It does weigh upon the defendant's mind and does affect his physical condition. But he has an exaggerated idea of his condition of health and believes it to be extremely serious, which the facts do not warrant."

Richmond Banker Killed by Hunter

ESTILL, S. C., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—John C. Easley, of Richmond, Va., vice president of the Southern Bond and Mortgage Company and the Title Insurance Company, was shot and killed accidentally yesterday on a deer hunt by the son of his host. Mrs. Charles A. Harper said that her 16-year-old son, William, fired the fatal shot. Young Harper, riding behind the dogs on a drive, shot at a deer. The bullet struck Mr. Easley in the temple.

Helen Wills Interrupts Honeymoon for Tennis

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Helen Wills Moody still maintains her keen interest in tennis.

She and her husband, Frederick S. Moody, Jr., were back aboard their honeymoon yacht Galatea today after an interruption of their cruise yesterday, during which Mrs. Moody played two matches and won.

Slipping quietly into San Diego Harbor yesterday, the newlyweds temporarily abandoned the sea. While Moody kept a business engagement, his wife played a few conditioning sets of tennis on the courts of the naval hospital.

Mrs. Moody first met Allen Blade, local clay court champion, defeating him 6-3. She then teamed with Dolf Muehleisen, San Diego County champion, to administer defeat to a team composed of Blade and Bob Muench, University of California player.

WOMAN SOUGHT AS KILLER OF HIGHWAY PATROLMAN

HUNT WIDENS IN ROAD SLAYING

companion had a chance to draw their guns from their holsters before they were "covered" by guns in the hands of the woman and the two men.

"One of the men fired point blank at me from the car," he related. "This bullet took off the end of my nose and as I crouched to get a chance at the other man, who was in direct line of my fire, the first gunman fired again, his bullet creasing my head.

"The woman had left the machine with gun in hand," Moore continued, "and was advancing on Corp. Paul on the other side of the machine."

The presence of the child allayed their suspicions at the outset, Moore said, and the gunfire came as a surprise.

STEAL CAR FROM COUPLE

Leaving their victims lying in the road, the woman and her companions leaped back into the car and sped away. A short distance off they came upon a roadster in which were riding Miss Elsie W. Nickum, 30, and Ray C. Horton, both of New Castle. Blocking the road with their machine, the bandits forced the couple to leave the car and the woman, with her child and companions, crowded in and drove off.

Miss Nickum and her companion did not learn of the shooting of Corp. Paul and Patrolman Moore until they reached home. Miss Nickum confided in her mother that she was incensed rather than fearful of harm during the holdup, but upon learning of the desperate character of the bandits, she collapsed from nervousness, according to her mother.

The child in the company of the desperadoes, Miss Nickum told authorities, was a boy, probably four or five years of age. During the holdup, he sat quietly in the car and was lifted out by the woman, she said.

OFFICER TELLS STORY

This is the actual story of the gun battle as related to the Commander of Troop B, State Highway Patrol, by Moore., who miraculously escaped death from two bullets by the fraction of an inch.

"The child's presence in the automobile deceived us. We were looking for bandits and coming upon a car with an apparently innocent youngster in it threw us off guard for an instant—just too long.

"When we got the flash from Butler to be on the lookout for the bandit car, we started out with only a meager description of the machine. Of occupants, we knew nothing.

"Corp. Paul and I stationed ourselves just on the outskirts of town to flag oncoming cars. We had just taken our position in the middle of the highway when this machine came along. The driver slowed and came to a stop.

DECEIVED BY CHILD

"Corp. Paul advanced to the driver's side and I followed. The Corporal asked for the driver's license. He handed out his billfold and Corp. Paul told him to take the license card out.

"Glancing inside, I saw the child and figured it was not the car for which we were looking, so started around the back to look over the rear license plate.

"The driver evidently alighted as I started back. He must have emerged from the car with his gun in his hand, for as I reached the rear of the machine, I heard Corp. Paul say 'pull your gun, Moore, he's got me covered.'

"I turned. Paul was in front of me and almost at the same instant the woman jumped out with a pistol in her hand. She covered me and I jumped back of the car, pulling out my pistol as I did so.

FELLED BY BULLET

"I ran around the other side intending to get the drop on both from behind, but as I came around the machine, the man inside opened fire, the bullet snipping my nose. I dropped to a crouch and succeeded in reaching the front of the car, Paul meanwhile backing away from the woman who followed relentlessly. The driver then turned to me and as I rose with my finger pressing on the trigger to let him have it, the fellow inside fired through the windshield and I dropped stunned, the bullet searing across my head and knocking me out.

"That's all I remember. The rest is hazy. I have a recollection of pressing the trigger, but I don't know what I was shooting at. When I came to the corporal was staggering across the road and someone was helping me into a truck."

ALL ROADS GUARDED

Every available highway patrolman and state policeman, doubly armed with rifle and pistol, was detailed to some important post along the highways. Throughout the daylight hours an airplane from Butler skimmed low over the district with eager-eyed highway patrolmen searching the unfrequented country roads for a sign of the bandit car.

Innumerable "tips" came in to the joint headquarters of highway patrolmen and state police in the Colonial Hotel here throughout the night. Every one was run down but not one tangible clue was uncovered.

FUNERAL ARRANGED

A brother of the slain highway patrolman arrived here last night and set about immediately to arrange for the removal of the body to the family home at Hickory.

Clad in complete service uniform, the body of Corp. Paul lay in state in the Kelly funeral parlors today while hundreds of friends and associates paid their last respects. Accompanied by an honor guard, the body will be removed to Hickory sometime tomorrow.

Corp. Paul had been a highway patrolman four years and most of the time was stationed in the New Castle-Butler district. He made his home at Hickory, Pa., with a sister, Mrs. J. C. Ray.

The dead officer leaves his mother, Mrs. Vento M. McGuggin, of Washington, Ia.; two brothers, V. M. Paul, of Hickory, and Malroy Paul, of Woodville, Pa., and two sisters, Mrs. Ray and Miss Ruth Paul, of Woodville.

About two years ago when Corp. Paul attempted to interrogate three robber suspects near Allison Park, the bandits seized him and drove away, later throwing him to the road. Two of the bandits were captured after a chase by Justice of the Peace A. T. Lorch, of Allison Park. They were convicted.

EIELSON FLEET NEARLY READY

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Dec. 28.—(INS.)—In the clear calm of a 28 below zero temperature six Canadian airmen today were putting the finishing touches on the work of assembling three cabin planes which are to join the air fleet which is to search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, Arctic airmen lost between North Cape and Teller, Siberia.

MOSCOW, Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Boris Chukhnovsky, the Soviet aviator whose spectacular flights over the Arctic from the ice-cutter Krassin, last year were instrumental in the rescue of part of the crew of the missing dirigible, Italia, was expected to leave for Northeastern Siberia today to lead the Soviet expedition in search of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, missing American airmen.

Meanwhile, Soviet officials already have ordered out sledge parties of natives to search the desolate Siberian region where Eielson and his companion are believed to have come down more than six weeks ago.

OAKLAND HALL SITE OPPOSED

all the citizens of the county who will pay for the building, it should be in the geographical and trade center of the community, convenient for transportation and close to the leading hotels, stores and highways.

H. F. MOORE, manager William Penn Hotel—The site recommended is decidedly off-side. It is no better than launching the Town Hall in the Allegheny River.

F. J. OESTERLING, North Side architect—This recommendation is not final. The County Commissioners have yet to hear from the citizens.

A. H. BURCHFIELD, Joseph Horne Company—Any opinion I would express would be personal. The Town Hall Association no doubt will give expression to the views of the business men generally on the advantages of a downtown site.

JAMES RAE, president Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce—I have no comment to make.

SITE HELD ISOLATED

WALTER ROSENBAUM, of the A. Rosenbaum Company—I would prefer to speak through the Town Hall Association before accepting any selection as final.

F. F. NICOLA, Schenley Farms Company—Being the owner of the property of the site recommended, I do not care to make any comment.

W. J. STRASSBURGER, Grant Building Company—The Planning Commission has recommended a very poor choice. The County Commissioners realize that they have a great problem confronting them. The fact that 71 out of 74 cities having convention town halls have these buildings in the business areas ought to be proof that not all are wrong. A town hall is a commercial venture, and how are we to make it pay if it is not convenient to railroad terminals, bus stations, through highways, hotels, theaters, stores and shops? We understand that we must take the town hall to the people. The Schenley Farms site is inconvenient, insufficient in size, inaccessible, isolated.

OAKLAND LOCATION

The County Planning Commission by a five to three vote decided to recommend the site in Oakland known as the "Nicola site." It is bounded by Tennyson, Ruskin and Fifth avenues and Bigelow boulevard. It is flanked on the west side by the Masonic Temple.

When the commissioners may act is problematical. County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong is ill and has been confined to his home for more than three weeks. Commissioner E. V. Babcock is in Florida and will not be back until in January.

County Commissioner Charles G. McGovern said yesterday afternoon that he had not yet been informed of the action of the planning commission.

"If they confine themselves to one site I think they are making a mistake," he said. "What they should do is submit several sites that would be suitable for the building and leave the selection to the commissioners."

DIVORCE GIVEN KIP; ALICE TO FIGHT ON

No Property Settlement Is Included; Rhinelander to Make Home in Las Veges

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Leonard Kip Rhinelander, member of a wealthy New York family, has obtained a divorce here from his octaroon wife, Alice Jones Rhinelander. The divorce which was granted yesterday, was not contested and Mrs. Rhinelander was not represented in court.

Rhinelander, who came here a year ago to establish his residence preparatory to the filing of divorce proceedings against the daughter of a New Rochelle, N. Y., Negro coachman, was present when the decree was granted. He said he intended to continue residence in Las Vegas.

CLAIMS LIFE ENDANGERED

Kip cited in his complaint that he had separated from his wife after she had "by her wiles and artifices taken advantage of his youth and inexperience, and so dominated him that he was induced to leave his family, until they became estranged from him, causing him great mental distress and humiliation.

He was 22, his wife 28 at the time of their marriage.

The document further alleged that the "acts and conduct of the defendant" had endangered Rhinelander's life and mentality.

Rhinelander's attorney said the divorce decree included no property settlement, and that none had been agreed upon.

ALICE UNCONCERNED

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Dec 28.—(INS.)—Alice Jones Rhinelander, divorced by her husband, Leonard Kip Rhinelander, at Las Vegas, Nev., yesterday, seemed little concerned today over the court's action.

She insisted the action of her husband would not affect the two suits she has pending against young Rhinelander and his father. She also asserted that no matter what legal action her husband had taken in Nevada her property rights in New York would not suffer.

Aged Woman Killed By Hit-Run Driver

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Julia Antell, 64, was killed here by a hit-and-run driver after having been knocked to the ground by another machine. Joseph Fait, driver of the machine which brushed against Mrs. Antell and caused her to lose her balance, reported the accident to police and was released on his own recognizance.

Fait said that he leaped from his car to pick up the woman, but before he could reach her another car ran over her, and the driver continued on his way without halting.

of justice. At the request of the President I changed the bill to put jurisdiction in the coast guard. It is also the President's belief it would be better to divorce the liquor and smuggling activities of the coast guard and its life-saving corelated work."

The treasury's announced plan of seeking an agreement with Canada to limit ports of entry on the border, however, took Congressional drys by surprise. Hudson said the plan had advantages, if it could be worked out without arousing too strong protests from farmers and others who cross and recross the border frequently.

HURT BUSINESS, FEAR

Senator Schall (Rep.), of Minnesota, questioned the wisdom of limitation of ports of entry, fearing it would hurt the tourist business along the Minnesota border by causing tourists to drive long distances to a customs house.

President Hoover's plans for complete reorganization of federal enforcement machinery are expected to be carried out through removal and appointment of some new district attorneys, prohibition administrators and other officials.

3 GANGSTERS SLAIN BY SLEUTHS

Racketeers Die in Gun Fight When Trapped in $10,000 Labor Extortion Plot

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—Chicago police today were to continue their war to stem the inroads of racketeering interests after a detective squad ambushed a trio of racketeer gunmen and shot them all dead when the hoodlums attempted to capture a legitimate labor union late yesterday.

A cleverly arranged trap with five detectives posted about the offices of the Tire Workers and Repair Vulcanizers' Union awaited the arrival of the three gunmen.

Realizing that they had been lured into an ambush, the trio, all of whom have criminal records, opened fire in a desperate attempt to shoot their way out of the union offices.

William Wilson, notorious racketeer, was the first to empty his gun. His pleadings for mercy were cut short by a volley which tumbled his body to the floor. William (Humpy) Quan slumped down on top of him, and a few seconds later the body of John Ryan, known as a booze gangster, fell, his hand still clutching a sawed-off shotgun.

Five minutes after they had entered the union offices bent on violence, the trio were dead. One of the detectives, Raymond Doherty, was wounded in the left hand, but otherwise the squad escaped unhurt.

Yesterday's raid on the union offices climaxed a series of threats made by the three gunmen in the past two weeks in their attempt to extort $10,000 from Michael Powers, president of the union.

Labor leaders lay the battle to a racket war which has been growing more intense here as the various gangs have been driven to failure in the alcohol business and have consequently turned to legitimate unions as a source of support.

police he had seen the men before and gave a good description of them.

Relating the holdup to police, Miss Ford said she saw the Negroes loitering in front of the store about four hours before the robbery.

GIRL FACES GUNS

"When they entered the store one asked for a package of cigarets," Miss Ford said. "As I turned to the shelf for them the three pulled out revolvers and ordered Pechersky, Parker and myself to throw up our hands. One of them, in his haste, was unable to open the cash register, and he forced me to open it for him," she continued.

Miss Ford said that she had quit her job in the store several months ago because of the numerous holdups there. Her experiences in these had affected her health then, she declared.

Auto Injuries Fatal To Gillespie Man

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 28.—Edward Neff, 22, of Gillespie, is dead in his home as the result of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven by Jake Eskin, of Fayette City, while walking along a highway near Fayette City. Eskin is held under bond for the coroner's inquest. Neff suffered a fractured skull in the accident and never regained consciousness.

Man and Wife Hurt In Crash of Truck

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—When a truck crashed into a parked van on the Lincoln highway near Irwin last night Stephen Mike, 42, of McKeesport, and his wife, Mrs. Katy Mike, were injured seriously. Both were brought to the Westmoreland Hospital here.

Recaptured Auburn Prison Youth Tells of Riot

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28.—(INS.)—A move was begun today to take Joseph Caprico, the 20-year-old Rochester convict, back to the Auburn, N. Y., state prison from whence he escaped during the riot and bloodshed of last July 28.

Pacing his cell here yesterday after his arrest the youth talked freely of the mania and bloodthirstiness that was loosed when the rioting convicts made their break for freedom.

"They went wild with excitement when the 1,600 browbeaten prisoners found their chance for freedom after being cooped in their narrow cells for months on end," he said

"Most of us were mad. The releasing of pent-up emotions brought on the riot more than did the realization that freedom was at hand."

Caprico described a fellow convict who went insane beside him as the two men tried to scale the prison wall with their bare hands.

"He ripped out his fingernails on the rock. They bled horribly, but he felt no pain. He grabbed frantically for my legs when he saw I was getting ahead. I know he would have killed me if he had gotten hold of me."

Caprico was arrested through a fake license on the stolen car in which he made a nine-day trip across the continent after the prison break.

The boyish prisoner denied that he took part in the violence.

HOOVER DODGES DOLLY-ALICE FEUD AGAIN

Mrs. Gann, Mrs. Longworth Absent From State Dinner To Ortiz Rubio of Mexico

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—For the second time in a few weeks, the White House has dodged the Dolly Gann-Alice Longworth social precedence feud, by not including them in invitations to state functions.

The guest list for the state dinner last night in honor of President-elect Ortiz Rubio, of Mexico, and Senora De Ortiz Rubio, contained neither the names of Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Gann, nor Speaker Longworth and "Princess Alice."

The other occasion when they were left off was the state dinner to the Japanese delegation to the London naval conference, when it spent a few days here. The last occasion on which Mrs. Gann was a dinner guest at the White House was when Premier Ramsay MacDonald and Miss Ishbel MacDonald were the guests of honor. The Longworths arrived in town from Cincinnati that night "just too late" to attend.

Official honors at an end as far as the capital is concerned, President-elect Ortiz Rubio, of Mexico, was honored in private life today when George Washington University conferred upon him the honorary degree of doctor of laws. He later motored to Annapolis.

HOOVER GETS STATE, CITY PLANS

Vast Total Reached With 22 States Yet to Report to President on Programs

By M. L. RAMSEY
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Comprehensive reports on trade and industrial trends since the December 5 business conference are expected shortly after the first of the year, President Hoover announced today.

An $825,100,000 program of public works construction has been mapped out by state and local governments for next year, President Hoover has learned.

This represents the initial response to the President's plea for speeding up of public construction to absorb unemployment and further his movement for business stabilization and progress.

The full total will be much larger, the President said, as 22 states have not yet reported and some of the other 26 made only partial reports. Mr. Hoover hopes to have complete reports after the first of the year, when the results will be made public.

Each governor is undertaking a survey of the public works that can be undertaken prudently by state, municipal and county governments.

Christmas trade measured up to last year's volume, the President announced, on the basis of reports gathered by the Commerce Department. He considered this showing "very encouraging" in view of the mercantile community's recent expectation that the stock market crash would cause a 10 to 15 per cent drop in holiday buying.

Some lines encountered a moderate decline in holiday trade as compared with last year, the President said, but others were more active.

Business over the country is reported in the main "at normal levels," the United States Chamber of Commerce announced after a partial survey.

THOMAS' FATE HELD UP

Judge Harry H. Rowand who yesterday ordered three gambling houses raided, when Robert Thomas, 23, of 570 Oakwood avenue, pleaded guilty to 29 charges of false pretense, having obtained $680 on forged bank checks, has not as yet set a date for sentencing Thomas.

Thomas gave the court the location of the places. County detectives raided alleged "bookie shops" in Diamond street and in Frankstown avenue. They were unable to find anyone at a Market street address, said to be the most important of the three.

Duquesne Fireman Killed in Car Crash

William Taylor, 40, a captain in the Duquesne fire department, was instantly killed at 1:30 a. m. today when his automobile crashed head-on with a street car in Eighth avenue, Munhall. Taylor, who lived on North Second street, Duquesne, had been a fireman 17 years, being promoted to a captaincy 10 years ago.

Boy Hurt by Truck On June 29, Dies

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 28.—George W. Barnhart, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Barnhart, east of Slippery Rock, died from infection of the right leg caused June 29 when he was hit by a truck near his home. The truck, driven by Page Westlake, of the Slippery Rock Park Association, skidded on the highway near the Barnhart home.

SUSPECT HELD IN BANK KILLING

BOWLING GREEN Ky., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—One of the three bandits who Thursday shot and killed J. Robert Kirby, Smith's Grove bank president, after robbing the bank at Oakland, this county, was captured here early this morning and taken in an automobile to Nashville, Tenn., for safe keeping.

The man, Elmer Grayson, former resident of Indianapolis, was found in the home of Blaine Duff, a relative by marriage, after officers had been close on his trail for five hours.

The other two bandits were believed to be in Bowling Green and officers were guarding all roads leading out of the city and investigating possible hiding places.

Mother and Girl Burned to Death

CALAIS, O., Dec. 28.—Mrs. James Pierce, 52, and her daughter Ethel, 16, were burned to death when their residence located on a farm east of here was destroyed by fire. A defective flue is believed to have started the fire. Three other children, Thorn, 13; Mildred, 9, and Manuel, 7, jumped from a second story window to safety.

Death of Woman Caused by Poison

Martha Keiffer, 70, of 4 Salter way, died today in the Presbyterian Hospital from poisoning, according to the coroner's report. She was admitted to the hospital yesterday afternoon.

RUSS LEAVING MANCHURIA

TOKIO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Restoration of peacetime conditions in Manchuria proceeded steadily today.

Julius Rudy, newly-appointed Russian manager of the Chinese Eastern Railway, arrived in Mukden, accompanied by other Soviet officials, to confer with Chang Hsueh-Liang, governor of Manchuria. Simultaneously it was announced Soviet forces that had established themselves on Chinese territory in Western Manchuria were being withdrawn.

A Soviet communique broadcast from Habarovsk said Khailar, the most important city in the occupied zone, was evacuated last Monday.

Man Hurt in Fall Against Breadknife

Richard Shaw, 40, of 2602 Sarah street, was in South Side Hospital today as a result of falling against a breadknife in the hands of Mrs. Shaw in their home last night. His condition was not regarded as serious.

Mrs. Shaw told Lieut. Joseph Henninger, of the South Side Station, that her husband came into the kitchen as she drew the knife through a loaf of bread, and that when she turned to face him he stumbled and fell against the blade.

Investment Broker Sued for Divorce

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Alice Corey Dawes has brought a separation suit against her husband, Byron Fay Dawes, New York and Washington investment broker, alleging misconduct.

The Dawes were married in Paris in October, 1920, and have two children, Fay and Edward.

Man and Woman Die As Train Hits Auto

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 28.—Officials of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad reported that the Cleveland Wheeling Express struck an automobile at a railroad crossing at Leesville, O., killing Jess Clark, 45, and Mrs. Blanche Ball, 70, both of Leesville.

'Deaf Mute' Cured By Magistrate's Questioning

"I am deaf and dumb," Herbert Bradley, 38, a Negro, wrote on a piece of paper when arrested last night at Smithfield and Carson streets, as a suspicious person.

Today in South Side Police Court he repeated his tactics before Magistrate John J. Sweeney.

"You know you can both speak and hear," said the magistrate.

"You're right, judge," admitted the Negro.

He was turned over to detectives for questioning. He at first gave his home as Philadelphia, but later said he lived in Altoona.

GIANT AIR LINER TO BE REBUILT

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—As a result of its recent trials, Great Britain's giant new dirigible, the R-101, will undergo, among other modifications, a surgical operation.

The big ship will be cut in two parts and a section 75 feet long and containing a gas bag capacity of 500,000 cubic feet inserted before the halves are put together again. The length of the new ship will be 800 feet, which will make it larger than its twin, the R-100, and hence the largest dirigible in the world.

The new section will give the ship an additional lift of 15 tons.

Mexican Air Chiefs, Reported Dead, Safe

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Mexican aviation circles were overjoyed today at advices of safe arrival of Gen. Juan Azcarate, chief of the Mexican army air service, and Col. Pablo Sidar at Mazatlan, after a flight yesterday from Valbuena Field.

Early reports that both had been killed in a crash near Toluca were received by their fellow fliers with dismay, and for a while given so much credence that military and civil airplanes were sent to search for the wreckage of their ship.

WOMAN ROUTS PURSE THIEF

Police today were searching for purse-snatchers who robbed three women and were frustrated when they attempted to rob another last night.

Mrs. A. Weiss, of 1709 Plato street, beat off two men who attempted to steal her purse on Mt. Joseph street, near Cherryhill street. Mrs. Weiss routed the pair with a baby's nursing bottle.

Four youths, traveling in an automobile, stole the purses of Miss Clara Stearn, of 5636 Rural street; Miss Mary Greer, of 1424 Bennington avenue, and Mrs. G. R. Baird, of 421 Charles street. The bags contained small sums in cash.

New Kensington Man Hurt in Motor Crash

W. E. Ward 23, of New Kensington, was in Allegheny Valley Hospital, Tarentum, today suffering from fractures of both jaws and lacerations of the head and face as the result of an automobile crash in Ninth avenue and Ormond street, Tarentum, shortly before midnight.

Ward lost control of his car, which crashed into a street blinker, demolishing it and wrecking his car. He was removed to the hospital by Tarentum police.

Auto Crash Victim Dies, Driver Held

Injuries suffered when his automobile collided with another on the Perry highway, Ross Township, Christmas Day, caused the death last night in Suburban General Hospital of Michael Ebitz, 32, of 68 Oakwood avenue, West View, according to a coroner's report. George J. Wertz, of 1406 Firth street, North Side, alleged driver, of the other car, was ordered to post bond at the coroner's office.

Note to Milk Man Reveals Tragedy

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—A milk man found a note pinned to the door of a house, informing him that Sydney Ellard, 35, had killed his wife and planned to take his own life and asked him to notify police. The couple was dead when police arrived.

Warehouse Plans To Get Huge Clock

A large electrically illuminated sign has been erected on the top of the terminal buildings of the Pittsburgh Terminal Warehouse and Transfer Company system of 40 warehouse units. The sign, which gives the trade name of the company, with the words "accessible to you" on it, overlooks the Monongahela River, facing the downtown district and is visible for a great distance. A 12-foot clock, electrically controlled, will soon be placed on top of the sign.

BESSIE LOVE, BROKER WED

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP.) — Bessie Love, screen actress, took her place in Hollywood as Mrs. William Ballinger Hawks.

At the altar of St. James Episcopal Church, Miss Love last night became the wife of the prominent young Beverly Hills stock broker.

It was an event which captured the cinema city's social fancy, and the personages of moviedom filed into the upholstered pews to witness the ceremony and extend wishes for happiness.

Hawks made his responses solemnly as the marriage lines were read by the Rev. Ray O. Miler. He smiled, however, when the flashlights boomed and the radiant bride hung upon his arm, her ivory satin wedding gown billowing about her ankles.

Gas Station Youth Killed in Holdup

KINGSTON, Pa., Dec. 28.—(AP.) — Joseph Pollard, 18, attendant in a gasoline service station here, was murdered early today in a battle with a lone holdup man, who fled with about $100. State police of the Wyoming barracks captured a suspect walking along a road leading to Wilkes-Barre. The holdup man was reported to have left his coat and hat behind when he fled and it was said the coat matched the trousers and vest of the suspect. The victim was shot twice in the abdomen and a blood transfusion was attempted in an effort to save his life.

JUDGE BANS U.S. DRY CASES

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—The federal government was barred from prosecuting liquor law cases in the courts of Maricopa County by a decision of Superior Judge M. T. Phelps yesterday. The order resulted from a controversy between government and county officials over the price of meals for federal prohibition prisoners in the county jail.

It all started Monday when the county board of supervisors refused any longer to house and feed federal prisoners at the existing rate of 75 cents daily per man. The board demanded $1 a day.

Then John H. Udall, federal prohibition administrator for Arizona, announced he would file all federal liquor law violation cases in the county instead of in Federal Court. By this transfer, it was explained, the county would be forced to care for federal prisoners if convicted in county courts.

Poison Liquor Kills Youth, Two Held

BELLAIRE, O., Dec. 28.—Charged with making and selling poison liquor to Samuel David Fleaming, 20, of Bellaire, causing his death, Joseph McMahon, 21, of Shadyside, O., and Clifford Ebeling, 18, of Pinch Run, were placed under arrest, charged with second degree murder. The warrants for the arrest of the pair were sworn out by Coroner J. W. Neal, of Belmont County.

100 Korean Reds Arrested in Tokio

TOKIO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Police moved quickly against a crowd of Korean students and laborers here today and arrested 100.

Officials said the Koreans were preparing a demonstration in favor of the release of 180 of their countrymen, arrested Tuesday night on charges of membership in a Communistic secret society. Many of those held are students at Tokio universities.

Herminie Man Killed By Shifting Engine

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 28.—Struck by a shifting engine on the Hempfield branch railroad tracks near Herminie, John Barbocsky, 41, of Herminie, was fatally injured. He was found in an unconscious condition several hours after the accident.

Aged Farmer Found Burned to Death

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 28.—George Eagleston, 77, wealthy farmer, who lived alone, was found burned to death in front of his home at Pughtown, W. Va., near here. Police believe he ran from the house when his clothing ignited from blazing paper.

KEISLING HEADS SAFETY FORCE

Police Chief Christ H. Keisling, of Carnegie, was named president of the United Police and Constables' Association, formed last night at a meeting in the Carnegie Library, Carnegie. Police and constables from 20 communities of the Southwestern section of Allegheny County attended. Friendlier co-operation in police matters is the aim of the organization.

Other officers elected were Motorcycle Patrolman Gregg Manning, of Crafton, vice president; Constable Paul McBride, of Ingram, secretary, and Sub-Patrolman W. H. Geary, of Mt. Lebanon, treasurer.

The next meeting of the association will be held in American Legion Hall, Carnegie, January 10.

W. T. Alberson, Ohio Publisher, Dies at 83

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Dec. 28.—William T. Alberson, 83, former postmaster here during the Wilson administration and manger of the Ohio Building at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893, died at his home here yesterday, after being in a comatose condition since last Monday. He suffered a stroke of paralysis two years ago. He established the Daily Times here and had published the Ashland Press, Mansfield Shield and Coshocton Daily Times. In 1894 he was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention which nominated Grover Cleveland for president. Surviving are two daughters, Jessie and Susie Alberson, at home.

Woman Bank Theft Suspect Arrested

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Barbara Dell, alias Barbara Dalton, was arrested here on a fugitive warrant from Detroit, charging armed robbery in connection with an $18,600 holdup of a New Boston, Mich., bank in October, 1926.

The woman, also known as Mrs. Phil Ingraham, was held here for several days a week ago when county officials believed she might have been implicated in the holdup of the bank.

$250 Prizes for Letters On 'How to Hold Mate'

Starting within a few days, the Sun-Telegraph will publish a new serial story from the pen of Beatrice Burton, made famous for her "Sally's Shoulders," "The Flapper Wife," "The Hollywood Girl" and other serials that deal with the trend of young womanhood of this so-called jazz age.

The new story is a thrilling romance under the title "Lovejoy." In it Miss Burton has taken the theme of marriage and divorce and built around it a most fascinating and dramatic story, in which she goes straight to the heart of the problem that looms as a threatening cloud over thousands of American homes today.

Preceding "Lovejoy," the Sun-Telegraph wants to get the opinion of its thousands of readers on the question "How to hold your husband" and "How to hold your wife."

The Sun-Telegraph in convinced that there are many readers who, from personal experience, may have some unique and valuable suggestions in answer to these questions—whether they are married or single.

The Sun-Telegraph wants these ideas in writing—in letters of not more than 250 words.

$250.00 IN GOLD FOR BEST LETTERS

The Sun-Telegraph offers $250 in gold for the best letters submitted. The prizes will be divided as follows: For the women—First prize, $50 in gold; second prize, $25 in gold; third prize, $10 in gold; next eight prizes, $5 each in gold; next 50 prizes, two tickets each for the best attractions at Warner Brothers leading theaters in Pittsburgh.

The above list is duplicated for men readers.

The contest will start in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph tomorrow and will end Sunday, January 12 All letters must be in before Tuesday, January 14. Address all letters LOVEJOY EDITOR, THE SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

If your mind is not set quite clearly on the questions suggested in this contest, you will be interested in a series of articles on the subject of modern day romance by leading writers of fiction and eminent authorities on divorce, which will appear in the Sun-Telegraph from time to time until the opening installment of "Lovejoy."

But you do not have to wait to read these articles. If your mind is set and your opinion is formed, you can send in your letter immediately.

Remember—$250 in gold for the best letters and 100 pairs of tickets for the best shows at the leading motion picture theaters of Pittsburgh.

Sun-Telegraph Boys Hold High Revel at Shows

What a glorious holiday week the Sun-Telegraph carrier boys are having. First they were at a big theater party Monday and Tuesday, and now another special party for tomorrow afternoon at the Aldine Theater.

The holiday attendance at this theater has been so big that Manager Jack Simons couldn't take care of the carrier boys on any day but Sunday, but he says "bring them all in Sunday afternoon and I'll arrange a marvelous special program for them including the fine feature talking picture, "Untamed," with Joan Crawford from the Penn Theater, a newsreel and some wholesome comedies."

On top of that, the Sun-Telegraph is going to give every boy a pound box of "Teenie Weenie Toffies," a new candy put up in tins under the Monarch brand by Reid, Murdock & Co., of Chicago. That'll be just the thing to top off the day.

Incidentally, the Aldine is carrying over a splendid picture for New Year's week—Ronald Colman and Ann Harding in "Condemned"—an all-talkie. Yes, there's a midnight show New Year's Eve.

PASTORS TAKE NEW YEARS AS THEME

Work of Year Just Ended Reviewed and Glimpse Taken Into the Future

Sermons pertaining to the advent of the new year will be delivered in many churches of the district tomorrow. Music appropriate for the occasion has been arranged as special features of these programs.

Special music and two sermons, dealing with the happenings of the present year, will feature the closing services of the year at the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, Bellefield and Fifth avenues. At the 11 o'clock service the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Robert MacGown, will speak on "Retrospect," while at the 8 p. m. service the theme will be "The Conclusion of the Whole Matter."

In the Fourth United Presbyterian Church, Friendship avenue and Roup street, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Walter Lowrie Ritter, will speak on "The Closed Book" at the morning service. At the evening service the pastor's theme will be "The Uncertain Future." Additional Christmas music will be rendered by the quartet at both services.

Peculiar Method Used by Miner To End Life

CHARLEROI, Pa., Dec. 28—A lazy man's effort at suicide was hinted in the peculiar method employed by Dominick Nick, 40, a coal miner of Gallatin, to end his life. He was found dead from strangulation by Mike Ledeck, who lived with him. He was lying face down on the bed, with his throat across a loose cord stretched between the bedposts. The weight of his head caused pressure at the throat, shutting off his breath and resulting in strangulation.

Do you cross your fingers when you step on the starter... on cold, frosty mornings?

WHEN the mercury's been almost out of sight all night--and you climb into the car on a bitter, cold morning--are your fingers crossed when you step on the starter?

Or, like thousands of motorists using AMOCO-GAS, are you confident of a quick start--a sure, smooth-running hum?

AMOCO-GAS snaps you through traffic on the coldest mornings with nary a splutter. AMOCO-GAS saves strain on your battery, reduces the use of choke and consequent crank case dilution, makes motoring as much of a pleasure in December as it was in June.

Uncross your fingers and snap them at Jack Frost. Fill up with AMOCO-GAS today.

Hollywood News and Notes About Coming Theater Fare

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

IF 5,000 young men are puzzled by the unrest of 5,000 certain young women in the town these days, the answer is Rudy Vallee. To 5,000 Pittsburgh flappers, debutantes and schoolgirls Rudy has sent very personal letters, wishing them all a very merry Christmas and an extremely happy New Year.

It is all a press agent's stunt, of course, at the expense of the town's Romeos. And if we were Greta Garbo's press agent we would even things by having Miss Garbo wish all the young men of Pittsburgh a ridiculous St. Valentine's Day and a riproaring Fourth of July.

We are not in sympathy with Rudy's devastating invasion of the Pittsburgh territory. Certainly it must be discouraging to our future business men to discover, after they have each purchased outright two movie tickets, two street-car chips and two cholocate sodas, that all the while she was hugging an intimate message from that handsome, innocent vagabond lover.

We are no less than piqued by a situation which has found its way insidiously into the business of mailing Christmas cards. It is mere man's habit of having his Christmas cards addressed by his secretary, his stenographer or his office girl. The inviting pale blue envelope arrives, its feminine handwriting hinting that here at last is an intimate greeting from the beautiful heiress who has been your secret admirer since last December 26. You slit the envelope nervously and discover that Elim Wheel, the plumber, of Mingo Junction, wishes you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year and if the plumbing goes wrong call Mingo Junction 12345-R-6. Is romance dead? We ask.

HONEST SECRETARY KEEPS HIS BOSS BUSY REACHING FOR PHOTOGRAPHS

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28.

BLESS your heart, lap an eyeful of this. He is a muck-a-muck—meaning he can save money out of his salary. He has a secretary who dislikes to—er—lie.

When a "non persona grata" (sold to me as good Latin) calls this partik movie exek on the 'phone, his sekretry gives the voice the usual "just a moment, please," business.

The exec shakes his head, reaches in the second drawer of his desk, and pulls forth a photograph.

"I'm sorry," the sekretry regrets to the hopeful other-end-of-the-wire, "but Mr. Hootnanny is looking at a picture and can't be disturbed!"

Of course, Joseph March planted himself on the map with "The Wild Party" and "The Set Up."

Howard Hughes.

Howard Hughes—the "Hell's Angels" shooter—has Mr. March under a long term contract at a rising scale salary said to start with $750 a week.

Yet it was little more than three months ago that this same Mr. March trailed into town to go to work for M. G. M. He reported at the studio and nobody knew who in thunder he was. More. They didn't know how he got there. Except some one had sent him. And inasmuch as big toes are easily injured, no one at the studio stepped on a possible big toe by precipitating Mr. March through the gate. He remained at M. G. M. He remained, drawing salary, until his three-month contract had expired!

Then he left. Then Howard Hughes snapped him up. Then Mr. March astounded a stony industry by actually writing dialogue for "Hell's Angels" that was used in its entirety. Then he was loaned to Tiffany to touch here and there the dialogue for "Journey's End."

Old Buchanan Play for Gary

AND now, Mr. Hughes has loaned Mr. March to Famous Players to dialogue Gary Cooper's next outloud, "Civilian Clothes." This is a play of old, penned by Thompson Buchanan, the writer who married Joan Lowell before she wrote "Cradle of the Deep," and is now getting his freedom from her since the book splashed over the literary top.

Reginald Denny

Mr. March is 29. He is a former newspaperman. Also a former managing editor of the New Yorker. He feels quite kindly toward the flicks. After all, it isn't every mortal who can vacation for three months on good pay and then plunge into an even better paying contract that will see him writing, supervising and mayhap directing ere long.

El Brendel has figured out that 'tis only a week from Christmas to New Year's, but from New Year's to Christmas it's a whole year. I like caramels, too. . . .

There's nothing like a robust rumor to set off a colyum the Saturday before January 1. Dabble along into the talky Reginald Denny plans to make, "The Dark Chapter." They do be a-saying that Florence Eldredge will heroine for Reggie. Miss Eldredge is married to Frederick March, who romances for Mr. Paramount. She has made a coupla two-reelers for Christie. E. H. Griffith was to have directed Denny in "The Dark Chapter," but what with that and this, another megaphoner will take charge and Eddie begins work shortly on some other flick.

New Art in Dance Will Be Seen Monday

A new dance art which has proved appealing in Eastern cities will be shown Monday night, December 30, in Carnegie Music Hall, the first appearance here of Harald Kreutzberg and Yvonne Georgi. These young European modernist dancers have appeared in New York, Boston, Washington and Chicago. In each city they were booked for a return date.

Kreutzberg first came into prominence in America in the Max Reinhardt production of "Midsummer Night's Dream." Later Reinhardt introduced him in a dance recital in New York as an exponent of a new dance art. Kreutzberg then returned to Germany and selected Yvonne Georgi as his partner. Both are from the same school in Germany, and both have worked in the ballets of the Berlin and Hanover operas.

Their program will be interpreted music by Chopin, Scott, Milhaud, Mozart, Debussy, DeFalla, Prokotieff, Scriobine and Wieniawski.

Mr. Bushman, Sr., Has Great Danes

SCREENALITIES: Francis X Bushman, Sr., has quite a large kennel of blue-ribboned Great Danes . . . Lois Moran confesses she has written three short stories that average in length between 2 and 3,000 words. Lois also confesses she is going to send them out under a pen name. She doesn't care what happens to her vanity . . . Paul Feyos, the director, lost his temper when the nocturnal chorus of cats increased in numbers. He popped with firearms at one of 'em and sent the unsuspecting critter to cat heaven . . . Frank Albertson tells the yarn about an actor friend who dropped his account in the market avalanche and his accent followed after! . . . Aggie Herring, W. K. character actress, is one of the few emoters being kept busy these busy-less days. Miss Herring is playing in two Fox pictures at once—with John McCormack and another megaphoned by Irving Cummings . . . Over at the Larry Darmour Studios there's no smoking allowed on the set. The director usually parks his cigar—a good cigar—in the cigar garage nearby. Invariably, some smoke craver will stroll along and grab the parked nicotine. A group of injured banded together to get even. They planted one of those exploding things in place of a waiting cigar. Only the exchange was made unbeknownst to the director. Nobody swiped the "plant." The director returned to get his seegar and after the first puff the thing exploded, blacking his face beautifully. There's a search warrant out for the jokesters and a solid boot awaiting 'em. Ah, "thees" Hollywood . . . and—that's all.

NOVEL SLANT IN STANLEY TRIANGLE

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

The eternal triangle looms large on the Stanley talk screen again. But this time, in "Second Choice," the movie-makers treat it with a novel slant. They have the heroine marry the man of her second choice. Furthermore, the film lasts long enough to allow her loveless marriage to develop into a marriage of love. Which makes a nice ending for any picture and a nice beginning for any New Year.

Dolores Costello, looking very alluring and showing improvement in talk screen technique, portrays the girl. When jilted by her sweetheart, who becomes engaged to another girl because that girl's papa has money, she then turns around and marries a rich young boy. Meanwhile, "first choice" discovers he cannot stifle love for his first girl, so he breaks his engagement too late! The heroine is married to the other man.

Chester Morris is "first choice" and all the underworld activity he has had on the screen in the past hasn't spoiled his Don Juan antics. Jack Mulhall does well enough as "second choice." Much of the action takes place in an atmosphere of country clubs and butlers. The production is pretty good entertainment—that is, if you don't take your "talkies" too seriously.

"Hello 1930" says Dick Powell, the band and the Rockets on the stage. And they have the Ritz Brothers, those three collegiate sillies, to help them. The brothers provide a hilarious time. Mr. Powell and his happy smile do nicely without the megaphone and with a medley of popular songs.

An organlogue and overture are on the bill.

MUSIC

Mendelssohn Choir

Carnegie Music Hall

The Mendelssohn Choir of Pittsburgh gave its annual performance of Handel's "Messiah" in Carnegie Hall last night before a very large audience. Ernest Lunt directed, and assisting the choir was a very able quartet of soloists.

J. Fred Lissfelt

While applause can frequently intrude and break the most beautiful effects in music, and it did occasionally last night, the acknowledgement of excellent singing was so spontaneous with the listeners there was a willingness to forgive the noise-makers. The fine demonstration that followed the chorus, "For Unto Us a Child Is Born," was typical, and the singing of the choir therein was as fine a bit of choral singing as one could hope to hear.

Honors for the soloists must go to Dan Beddoe, a tenor well-known to us for his long service in sacred music, and whose voice weathers the years without any diminution in accuracy or, decidedly, in beauty. His style is of the purest; he never whimpers; his virility strengthens the natural sweetness of his tone, creating effects that are utterly satisfying.

The soprano was Ruth Schaffner, whose opening recitative gave no promise of the fine singing in her later arias. Grace Leslie, contralto, has sung here before; though her music is most convincing, the voice lacks life. Sigurd Nilssen, basso, completed the quartet, a singer of immense dignity, pleasing voice, and whose declamation could be made far more effective with more attention to clarifying his diction. Earl Mitchell played the organ accompaniment. All in all, the concert was another landmark in the choir's achievements.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Heinroth Organ Recital Program

"Death and Transfiguration," a symphonic poem by Strauss, is one number on Dr. Charles Heinroth's organ recital program for Saturday evening at Carnegie Music Hall. The program:

Suite "The Good-Humored Ladies" . . . Scarlatti
Allegrette Scherzando, from Eight Symphony . . . Beethoven
Symphonic Poem "Death and Transfiguration" . . . Strauss
Chant Sans Parole . . . Tchaikovsky
Adoration . . . Borowski
Toccata "Tu es Petra," from "Byzantine Sketches" . . . Mulet

Love Awakes

Dolores Costello marries the man of her "second choice" in the picture by that title in the Stanley and lives to find she really loves him.

Hotels Here Plan New Year Parties

New Year's Eve in the William Penn Hotel will be celebrated with three public parties running simultaneously in the Ball Room, the Urban Room and Pirate Hall. Don Bestor will have general charge of the orchestras and entertainment at the three parties. Another party is planned for the Fort Pitt Hotel. Tommy Dixon and his Sultans of Tempo will furnish the music there.

Sisters Are Love Rivals in Film At Enright

Sisters seeking the same man is the theme of the Enright photoplay, introducing itself in a new bill yesterday. We've witnessed sisters aiding each other on the screen to win the ideal man. Now Cupid has pitted them against each other in the film version of Ernest Pascal's "Wedding Rings."

Lois Wilson fails to win the prize love offering, so well portrayed by H. B. Warner, when Cupid shoots the first arrow. Olive Bordon, as her flirting sister, is the lucky one. It's lucky for the audience that she was, because otherwise there would be no plot.

One husband does not fill Olive's demand for love. In fact, she runs wild and free to see how many can be ensnared, only to cast the falling man back into the pile once he belongs to her. That causes her downfall. The actual plot, that weaves the conflict of hearts to a happy ending is entertaining, but not surprising. It attempts to move with pathos, but falls a little shy of being very emotional.

But, all in all, it's entertaining, and what with the stage offering and short film subjects, the bill has balance. Herman and O'Brien are a couple of happy harmonists; Allan and Canfield submit a favorable comedy program; Betty Veronica adds touch and Jay Mills masters the ceremonies as usual.

BARRYMORE IN NEW PLAY

Ethel Barrymore will be seen for the last time in Pittsburgh in G. Martinez Sierra's play, "The Kingdom of God," in the Alvin today, matinee and night. On Monday she will appear for the first time here in Lili Hatvany's "The Love Duel," adapted from the Hungarian by Zoe Akins.

A comedy for New Year's week, "Children of Darkness," will be presented in the Nixon, commencing Monday evening. Basil Sydney and Mary Ellis will be starred, supported by Charles Dalton, Walter Kingsford, Eugene Powers and J. Kerbey Hawkes.

COMEDY IN PITT

When "Getting Gertie's Garter" was produced a few seasons ago by A. H. Woods, it was one of the comedy hits of the decade. Next week the George Sharp Players will present it in the Pitt.

Karl Dane, the famous "Slim" of "The Big Parade," plays a gob in Uncle Sam's Navy in "Navy Blues," which stars William Haines, and which comes to the Penn Monday. The cast includes Anita Page.

Many songs are featured in Warner Brothers' revue, "Show of Shows," which is on a second week in the Grand.

"CONDEMNED" TO STAY

Another New York playright who has come to devote himself permanently to working with talking pictures is Sidney Howard, who adapted the scenario of "Condemned," the new Ronald Colman starring picture, which will enter the second week of its showing in the Aldine Monday. "Condemned" is the third Goldwyn picture in which Mr. Howard has had a hand, the other two being "Bulldog Drummond" and "This Is Heaven."

Rudy Vallee's "The Vagabond Lover" opens a second week in the Sheridan Square today.

"Tanned Legs," with Arthur Lake, June Clyde and Ann Pennington among the players, opens on the Harris talk screen today. There will be a stage show also.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: Do you believe that prohibition is enforceable?

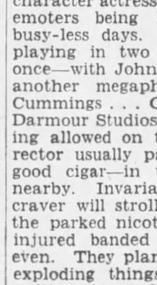
ANNE HOELLERMAN, East End, assistant purchasing agent: Prohibition cannot be enforced. I don't want it to be. I think it's a punk law. We have no reason or right to limit human freedom. We're taught that this is a free country, but people will soon learn that that's a lot of hokum if we keep on passing such wrong laws.

Anne Hoellerman

JOHN O. FELMLEY, Wilkinsburg, equipment construction installer: "Yes, I think they can enforce it. The Jones law is making it tougher for the bootleggers. The way they've been raiding the different places I've been in, it looks as though they'll be able to clamp the lid down in a while. I hope so."

John O. Felmley

GRACE DAURIA, Homestead, secretary: "I don't think so. People will always find a way of getting their booze. I approve of the law, understand. If it could be enforced it would be a wonderful thing for this country, but it never will be."

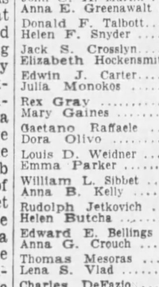


Grace Dauria.

ARTHUR BROWN, Wilkinsburg, radio operator: "Oh, I like my beer! Who said that? From general appearances, prohibition doesn't seem to be enforceable. They swoop down and raid one place, the next day it opens up next door. As long as you're able to buy supplies and material in every drug and grocery store, people will drink. You'll have to raid every house and person in the country before you stop it. You may close the saloons, but you can't tell the people what to drink—milk, whisky, water, coffee, rum, or gin—or all of them. They'll do what they want. I guess, in spite of prohibition."

Arthur Brown

VELERIE M'BRIER, Wilkinsburg, secretary: "No, I don't When you watch the people staggering down the street, you realize how far we are from enforcement. It doesn't look as though it could be. It used to be that, if anyone wanted a drink, they would stop in a saloon or their home and that would be that. And girls very rarely indulged. Now, however, just as many girls as men drink, and it's carried to excess. Drinking is more intense and widespread."



Velerie M'Brier

LAURA M'CLELLAND, North Side, program director: "It doesn't appear to be, does it? I am in favor of prohibition, but it looks futile. When you tell people they mustn't do things, they sort of want to just because they shouldn't. And that's what's happening here. This country, of all others, isn't built for prohibition. I guess. It all comes back to our old battle for individual freedom. We even want to be free to do things that are bad for us, worse luck."

Laura M'Clelland

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 28.

WHEN we honor Mr. Byrd and all his heroes on their return, don't muff this baby. He didn't pilot an airplane. He made no scientific research, but he did the finest job of newspaper reporting done during our generation.

Two years with one little bunch of men, doing the same thing practically every day; yet he made it interesting. Some of our finest writers couldn't even make the war interesting. This Russell Owen took an old Malamute dog, having pups, and we thought it was a birth in our own family. He wrote about a sea gull down there, and we were more interested in it than we were a Senate investigation.

Don't just give the little boy a great big hand, but this to Mr. Ochs, of the New York Times, "give the kid a great big raise." That fellow could write on the tariff and make you read it. Incidentally, if you don't know it, he was the best writer on aviation in the world, before he ever heard of the South Pole.

Yours,
WILL.

Eddie Cantor Rises to Say:

BALTIMORE, DEC. 28.

PRESIDENT HOOVER breaks a precedent by visiting President-Elect Ortiz Rubio at the Mexican Embassy. Now you can imagine how proud I felt when Senor and Senora Ortiz Rubio paid a visit to me last Monday in Baltimore.

They spent almost three hours in my company, and, while I did all of the talking and sang four or five songs, I think they were well pleased, as were the 1,700 other people in the theater.

If an invitation is forthcoming, I might break a precedent myself by visiting the President of Mexico next summer, but he will have to promise me at least one good "Kosher" meal.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Miss Stone Engaged To Wed

FROM now until New Year's social life is going to be as gay as the week before Christmas. And even the week after New Year's will offer many social events for the debutantes.

During the last few days we've been hearing of some particularly interesting betrothals and marriages, as we always do during the Yuletide season.

One of the most interesting I'm going to tell you about today. The Stephen Stones, of Forbes street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marian Stone, who came out last winter, I believe, to Edward Purcell Mellon, II, son of the Thomas Alexander Mellons, of North Negley avenue.

AND I've still another engagement to tell you about. The William Rice Jarvises, of South Graham street, announce the betrothal of their daughter, Jewel Lowry Jarvis, to Andre Petrovich Maximov, son of Mrs. Juliette de Maximov, of New York, and the late Pierre Vassilovich Maximov, Privy State Councillor to Nicholas III, and Russian Minister to Egypt, Montenegro, and the Argentine.

Jewel is a graduate of Winchester School and Smith College, class of 1927. And she spent her junior year in Paris. She studied at the Sorbonne, of course, and at the University of Grenoble. Her fiance is a graduate of Yale, class of 1927, and of the Yale Law School, class of 1929.

THE dinner dance the Frank Ward Severances, of Sewickley, were to give this evening in the Allegheny Country Club in honor of Mary Robinson and Peggy Milligan, has been postponed because of the illness of Mrs. Severance, did you know?

AND I heard of another entertainment for young folks home for the holidays. Mrs. Charles William Heppenstall, of Woodland road, gave a tea yesterday afternoon in her home for her daughter, Rachel Eleanor Heppenstall, who is home from New York for the Yuletide.

THE last, but not the least in importance, of the debut tea dances of the season was that which the Franklin Cadwallader Irishes, of Devon road, gave yesterday afternoon in the Pittsburgh Golf Club to present to society their petite, dark-haired daughter Lydia.

The debutante, in eggshell lame, received with her mother in dahlia velvet and her father.

Mrs. Irish asked to assist her Mrs. Grant McCargo, Mrs. George Greer Coolidge, Mrs. Howard Heinz, Mrs. Matthew Taylor, Mrs. Clinton Lowrie Childs, Mrs. Percy E. Donner, Mrs. J. Judson Brooks, Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, Mrs. James Verner Scaife, Mrs. James M. Magee, Mrs. Thomas A. McGinley, Mrs. John Wheeler Lawrence, Mrs. George S. Oliver and Mrs. Samuel Alfred McClung.

THE Pittsburgh Club ballroom, looking very "wintery" with frosty ...e trees and smilax, was the scene last night of a ball the Thomas A. McGinleys gave in honor of their attractive debutante daughter, Mary Elizabeth Floyd. And there was moonlight dancing, with the light furnished by a large old moon.

Green and silver and white decorations were used throughout the clubhouse with the exception of the dining room where yellow tapers and baskets of yellow roses and eupharbia were used as accent.

The bud was charming in a gown of white transparent velvet with a skirt of tulle. And her flowers were orchids. Mrs. McGinley wore gold silk moire and lavender orchids.

ADDED to the many events of exceptional interest of the week end is the wedding this evening at 6:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's father and mother of Helen Frances Smyser, daughter of the Albert Ernest Smysers, of Roup street, and Donald P. Talbott, of New York.

The Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of Shadyside Presbyterian Church, will officiate at the ceremony, to be followed by a reception.

Dorothy Whiting Doty, of New York, will be maid of honor, and Raymond Talbot, of Philadelphia, will be his brother's best man.

And the out-of-town guests will include the James S. Smysers, of Boston; the Charles J. Talbotts, of Philadelphia; Mrs. H. S. Kurtz, of Harwich, Mass.; Mrs. Alfred Nicolovius, of New York; George B. Palmer, of Chicago, and Dr. Bruce Gill, of Philadelphia.

THE Frederic Schaefers, of Devon road, will entertain with a luncheon in their home New Year's Day in honor of the Holfdan Lees, of Brookline, Mass., formerly of Pittsburgh.

DR. AND MRS. FRANK C. IAMS, of Allison Park, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret Taylor Iams, to Charles Beal Brenneman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard B. Brenneman, of Wildwood, which took place Thursday evening in the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. C. M. Iams, grandfather of the bride, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate family. The bride, who was unattended, wore an orchid traveling suit with a felt hat to match, and a corsage of orchids. Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Brenneman will be at home after February 1 in Gibsonia road, Wildwood.

THE Canadohta Club for Girls will hold its fourth annual reunion in the Hotel Schenley tomorrow afternoon at 1:30, with campers from Cleveland, Canton, Youngstown, Akron, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania attending. Music and plays will be part of the entertainment.

* * *

MRS. EMMA O. LILLICH, of Savannah avenue, Wilkinsburg, entertained in her home yesterday afternoon to announce the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary Dorothy Lillich, to Norman N. George, son of Mrs. J. N. George, of East Liverpool, O.

Miss Lillich is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and a member of the Delta Zeta fraternity, and Mr. George is a Case man and a member of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY H. SILVERMAN, of Phillips avenue, Squirrel Hill, will entertain tomorrow evening with a dinner at 6 o'clock and a reception from 8 to 11 o'clock in the Mercantile Club, Beacon street, in honor of their father, H. Silverman, who will be celebrating his seventy-fifth birthday.

* * *

MRS. MARTHA F. OGLESBY was honored with a reception in commemoration of her seventy-fifth birthday on Thursday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. C. Schweitzer, of Bon Air avenue. The guests were members of the Ladies Aid Society and Mrs. Oglesby's Sunday school class of Christ Evangelical Church, which the Rev. and Mrs. Oglesby established 40 years ago. Luncheon was served by her daughters, Mrs. W. G. Byman and Mrs. A. C. Schweitzer.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. SAMUEL CHARLES DENNER, of Port Jarvis, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Arline Virginia Denner, to Henry Weiner, of Pittsburgh and New York.

Miss Denner attended the Harriet Melissa Mills School and Mr. Weiner Mercersburg Academy. He is a graduate of Yale.

MRS. E. CORNELL EMANUEL entertained in her home in the King Edward Junior Apartments last night to announce the engagement of her sister, Miss Janet D. Reid, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. William J. Reid, of Aiken avenue to A. Victor Crookston, Jr., son of Col. and Mrs. A. V. Crookston, of McPherson boulevard.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM A. REED, of Wood street, Coraopolis, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Emma Reed, to Arden Allen Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Young, of Oil City, Pa.

THE Keystone Athletic Club will observe its first anniversary on January 1. There will be dancing and supper on Tuesday evening.

* * *

MRS. L. O. MAINES, of Morrowfield avenue, Squirrel Hill, who has been spending the last three months in Southern California, is returning on the steamship Pennsylvania through the Panama Canal and is stopping a few days at Havana, Cuba.

* * *

A HOLIDAY card party will be held today from 2 to 5 o'clock in Oppenheim-Collins for the benefit of the inmates of the Vincention Home for Incurables, Perrysville.

Costumed Aides Dance Minuet at Brilliant Southern Club Ball

IF one may classify it sartorially and decoratively, the charity ball given last night by the Southern Club was certainly one of the most brilliant of these annual affairs that the organization has ever held. About 600 guests attended and some particularly charming gowning was seen, an added touch of the picturesque being given by the colonial costumes of the young girls who served as aids.

The ball was held, as usual, in the Hotel Schenley where the supper room and its entrance to the ball room had been decorated to represent a garden. Moss-and-silver-hung evergreens were banked at one side and lattice work and trellis, to which clung wistaria blossoms, were effectively utilized.

Dancing was general with the exception of the minuet which the costumed aids did and which served to introduce little Nancy Metcalfe, who offered a gracefully done specialty solo. The only other program feature was the singing of "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" by Mrs. Margaret Leyda to piano accompaniment of Mrs. Adlaine Merrill Biddle and violin obligato by Miss Mary Redmond.

Mrs. James McFall, president of the club, was gowned in ivory satin and carried an arm bouquet of red roses. Each of the aides carried an old-fashioned nosegay. Mrs. Arthur B. Lynn, former president, was especially lovely in a model of gold and black lame and Mrs. Carl C. Moore, chairman for the ball, wore canary satin caught at one side with a rhinestone ornament. Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh came in wine colored lace and chiffon and Mrs. Robert F. Metcalf in silver lace. Mrs. Charles M. White looked more than ordinarily charming in yellow moire with which she wore blue slippers and carried a blue chiffon dance kerchief. Others noted in the ballroom and the ante room were Mrs. John A. Steel, who wore gray crepe and lace; Mrs. Fanny Loney Hooff, the club honorary president, in black crepe; Mrs. William O'Lee, in blue crepe; Mrs. John William Rese, in a stunning frock of peach chiffon with dotted tulle skirt; Mrs. Frederick C. Baird, whose gown was of white satin; Mrs. J. Audley Pierce, in orchid satin; Miss Nan Bunton, in hydrangea blue velvet with large lace bertha; Mrs. William A. Hemphill, in cream taffeta, and Mrs. John Atlee Horner, in finger nail satin.

WITH memories of last year's junior program still fresh in their minds, members of the Women's Club of Ingram are looking forward to the Christmas meeting Monday, when the juniors will entertain them. Under Mrs. W. P. Hackney's leadership the girls will present a playlet, "Cherry Reads the Message," written by Mrs. Chester F. Johnston, drama chairman of the Congress of Clubs. In the cast will be Gretchen Welch, Ida May Rollins, Grace Holmes, Thyrsa Bell Hughes and Bessie McClatchey. Mrs. C. A. Rinehart is directing. The social committee will serve during the social hour and the hostesses will include Mrs. J. M. Rayburn, Mrs. A. J. Reber, Mrs. Guy Richardson, Mrs. C. A. Rinehart and Mrs. S. M. Rex.

MISS BEULAH KENNARD, of New York, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. James Stephen Martin, of Walnut street, for a week and is being entertained informally by her friends. Miss Kennard, who has not visited Pittsburgh for two years, will be remembered as a prominent member of the Twentieth Century Club, a founder and former president of the Pittsburgh Playground Association and one of the early members of the Allegheny County Civic Club.

* * *

MRS. H. E. RAMSEY, Jr., was in charge of arrangements for the Christmas luncheon given today in the home of Mrs. Cornelius D. Scully, Howe street, by the Pittsburgh Goucher Club. News from the college was brought by Miss Marie Louise Edel, editor-in-chief of the Goucher Weekly.

THE Pittsburgh Mount Holyoke Club is having a bridge luncheon in the Hotel Schenley this afternoon in honor of the students who are home for the holidays. The honor guests include Mary Auld, Ruth Cooke, Jeanne Hays, Harriet Vera, Elizabeth Darragh, Florence Feicht, Adeline Pates, Helen and Jean Streeter, Nancy Anderson, Anna B. Carroll, Mary Cline, Frances Gillespie, Jane McCarrell, Jean McIlroy, Jean Speller, Nancy Wise, Margaret McElderry, Elsie Ward, Mildred Haas and Helen Singleton. Miss Josephine Coxe, Miss Marguerite Kupferberg and Miss Emily Irvine form the committee on arrangements.

DORMONT NEW CENTURY CLUB will have its midwinter party Friday afternoon in Dormont Masonic Hall and Mrs. E. J. Clark, social chairman, is now receiving responses. The South Hills Harris Theater has invited the women's clubs of the community to be its guests Thursday night in celebration of the thirty-second anniversary of the motion picture industry. Mrs. J. W. Young, Jr., president, will speak on behalf of the New Century organization.

THREE-MINUTE papers on Christmas in England, Norway, Spain, France and Italy were given as the program yesterday before the Carnegie Woman's Club. Mrs. William Wrenshall, Mrs. Homer Nixon, Mrs. Frank Terry, Mrs. Floyd Wallace, and Miss Phalla Gruver wrote the papers, but Miss Gruver's was read by Mrs. Harry Herron. Mrs. L. B. Worley and Mrs. Harry Howell contributed current topics under the caption "March of Events" and there was carol singing by the club. Mrs. T. I. Cotton was hostess and Mrs. John Conrad, leader.

MRS. AMBROSE NEVIN DIEHL, motion picture chairman in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will address the literary luncheon meeting of the Outlook Alliance Thursday in the Congress of Clubs.

SOME Christmas surprises are promised for the Authors' Club Christmas dinner to be given tonight at the Garden Tea Room.

WINE SHADES POPULAR IN ALL MATERIALS FOR WINTER WEAR

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 28.—Wine is popular as a color just now. In the evening one sees dresses and ensembles of various lovely burgundy and claret shades, so much so that the color card of a textile house must read something like a wine list. These dark wine shades are lovely in velvet, and are seen in the form of some very attractive ensembles furred in sable, mink and kolinsky. It is predicted that much red will be seen next season, and this would not be surprising, as many of the leading houses are now showing resort clothes in various shades of red, and town ensembles lavishly trimmed with fur in wools and tweeds of the darker wine tones. Green in various shades is also destined for much attention next season, and so perhaps it would not be entirely out of place to call both red and green signal colors!

PATOU, who early in the season sponsored the attractive dahlia shades, is just now showing plenty of green in both the lighter and the darker hues. Sketched here is an afternoon frock of crepe sokol in a luminous shade of green. Smart simplicity achieved through infinite and intricate detail is the keynote of the model. Circular set-on bands trim the bodice and the very interesting bloused sleeves, while the wide but softly-hanging skirt is formed of a series of empiecements, making the circular godets, that lend fulness and animation to the frock.

THE very latest in ensembles is also shown here. It is from the house of Worth, and would be equally at home in town or country. It is of wine-colored tweed with a silk jersey jumper in matching shade with stripes of beige. Blue fox—a very flattering fur—makes the huge collar on the full-length circular coat, a coat which fits in at the natural waistline. The eminently sensible walking skirt is laid in groups of pleats at intervals, and is set onto a hip-yoke, as is typical of many of the new skirts for sports and practical daytime wear.

Becker, Old-Time Variety Star, Dies

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Gustav Becker, 63, former variety actor, is dead. Years ago when vaudeville was known as the varieties, Becker was known as "The Great Drawee," and he and his company, Mambo, a Negro, and Frisco, a dog, played in the principal cities of the world. Before going on the stage Becker was a baker boy employed in the royal kitchens in Germany.

RALLY PLANNED BY HOLY NAME

At a meeting of delegates from the parishes affected, plans were formulated to hold a district rally of the Holy Name Society in the Roxian theater, McKees Rocks, Pa., on Sunday evening, January 5, at 8 p. m. Jno. L. Skarry, of Holy Innocents parish, is chairman of the committee on arrangements, assisted by J. B. Lutz, Paul S. Aaron, Attorney D. J. Buckley, Thomas M. Riley, L. B. Houlihan and T. J. Coleman.

The meeting will be addressed by Rev. Father James M. Delaney, diocesan director of the Holy Name Society; J. B. Collins and other prominent speakers. The attendance will include members from the following parishes: St. James, St. Martin and Guardian Angel, West End; Holy Innocents, Sheraden; St. Phillip's, Crafton; St. Francis de Sales, St. Mary's, Our Mother of Sorrows, St. Vincent's, St. Cyril & Methodius and St. Mark's, McKees Rocks; St. Joseph's, Coraopolis; St. Columbkill, Imperial; and Holy Trinity, Moon Run.

FATHERS, SONS MAKE MERRY

Five hundred fathers and sons gathered in the Chamber of Commerce last night, with the party on "Pop."

Following a dinner with orchestra and singing, both by soloists and the diners, a vaudeville show, magician and all, furnished the lads young and old with an evening of entertainment.

With the Rev. Edward Blakeney, pastor of the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church opening the affair with an invocation; Mary Jane Shea, dancer; Arthur James, monologist; Mascarro, magician, and Cy Hungerford, cartoonist, presented a program of entertainment. The Red Arrow Quartet sang.

Dan T. Felix, chairman of the event, presented the sons with boxes of novelties and souvenirs.

Bishop Hurt Fatally When Hit By Auto

DAVENPORT, Ia., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—The Right Rev. Theodore N. Morrison, Episcopalian bishop of Iowa, was injured fatally when struck by an automobile as he was crossing the street in front of the Episcopalian residence. The car was driven by Miss Margaret Volz, of Davenport.

Sawders to Give Views of Mexico

An illustrated lecture by Capt. James C. Sawders, authority on Mexico, will be given tomorrow afternoon in the Lecture Hall of Carnegie Museum. Capt. Sawders' impression of Mexico will be the theme of this talk.

HEARST ON AIR SHOW BOARD

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—William Randolph Hearst has accepted a place on the honorary national committee of the New York aviation show, it has been announced. The aviation show, which is to again to be held under the auspices of Aviators' Post No. 743, American Legion, will open at Grand Central Palace on February 7.

Mr. Hearst's acceptance of membership on the national committee came in the following telegram to Commander Rex Gilmartin:

"I shall be happy to serve again on the honorary committee of the second annual aviation show at the Grand Central Palace from February 7 to 15. Thank you for the opportunity of doing so."

Mr. Hearst was keenly interested in the progress of the show last year, the first of its kind held in New York City. The show of 1929 broke attendance records at the Grand Central Palace and it is expected that the 1930 display will attract almost a quarter of million persons.

BIG SCHOOL SITE IN SPRINGDALE

Improved facilities for the site of a contemplated new high school in Springdale were provided last night when borough council passed finally an ordinance vacating Ridge avenue from Colfax avenue east, a distance of about 300 feet. Erection of the building will be subject to a bond issue election, not yet laid before the citizens of the borough.

Several applications were received for the position of borough manager, J. F. Pierce, who has held that position four years, having resigned. Action was deferred pending the re-organization of council early in January.

W. B. White, president of council, presided.

Six Accountants Win C. P. A. Degree

Having passed the state examinations last November, six members of the post-graduate class of the Pittsburgh School of Accounting have been granted the degree of C. P. A. The degree was given to E. J. McLuckie, E. W. Graham, A. P. Skillicorn, Nathan Malyn, B. A. Scheinboltz and C. L. Young.

Postal Employes To Meet Tomorrow

A special meeting of the Pittsburgh branch of the National Alliance of Postal Employes will be held tomorrow at 6 p. m. in the Center Avenue (Negro Branch) Y. M. C. A. Legislation affecting wages of laborers in the postal service will be discussed.

Good Will Rule Used At Penitentiary

Undismayed by prison revolts elsewhere, with attendant rioting and murder, the trustees and warden of Western Penitentiary have proffered good will greetings to the inmates as the New Year approaches.

The December issue of the "Echo," official paper of the penitentiary, carries this statement of Warden S. P. Ashe and the board of trustees to the inmates:

"We take this occasion to state our satisfaction with your excellent general conduct maintained during the closing year, and congratulate you for the fortitude displayed in patiently bearing the necessary conditions imposed under the law. We voice the earnest wish that despite the unfortunate circumstance, Christmas will afford you a liberal measure of good cheer and trust that the New Year will bring to each of you renewed strength of heart and mind."

'Public Improvements Promote Progress'
Convinced that public improvements exert an important influence upon the progress of any community, the Board of County Commissioners of Allegheny County on January 1, 1924, initiated a program of major public works, many of which are already effectively serving the citizens, while others of vital importance are being rapidly brought to completion.
COUNTY PARKS — Improvements costing over $600,000.00 now under way or almost completed. Two championship golf courses, one in North and one in South Park, almost completed. South Park course seeded and ready for play in 1930, while North Park course may be ready for play on nine holes before the 1930 season is over.
Two swimming pools, one in each park, will be constructed during 1930. Swimming pools to adjoin a system of lakes and lagoons in both parks, to accommodate 10,000 people daily in each park.
Refreshment pavilion, South Park, just completed.
Other major improvements to follow in summer and fall of 1930.

MELLON GROUP IN BIG CAR MERGER

Standard Steel, Osgood Bradley Plants to Become Part of Pullman Concern

Merger of three car building companies affecting Pittsburgh and Pittsburgh industrialists into a $400,000,000 corporation lacked today only the approval of stockholders, according to a dispatch from Chicago.

Pullman Inc., headed the merger, acquiring the stock of the Standard Steel Car Company and the Osgood-Bradley Company and the subsidiary corporations of both.

The Pullman Car and Manufacturing Company, a subsidiary, will be operated by Pullman, Inc., separately from the newly-acquired groups.

Upon approval and completion of the merger, J. F. Drake, president of the Mellon-controlled Standard Company, will become chairman of the board of Pullman, Inc., the announcement late yesterday said.

D. A. Crawford is slated to remain as president of both Pullman, Inc., and the Pullman Company, while C. A. Liddle will remain president of the Pullman Car and Manufacturing Company. The Standard and Osgood-Bradley companies will be operated as one group, it was announced, with P. H. Joyce, a vice president of Standard, as president.

Pullman stockholders vote on the merger in Wilmington, Del., January 28, and at the same time pass on the proposal to issue an additional half million shares of stock.

Pullman, Inc., will take over fixed assets of the two merged groups in stock payments, while miscellaneous assets will be bought for "cash or its equivalent."

SURVEYS TRADE IN EUROPE

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 28.—America has no need to fear European competition in mass production, Assistant Professor Kalman J. DeJahasz, of the school of engineering, Pennsylvania State College, said on his return from a three months survey of conditions on the continent.

Europe, Professor DeJahasz said, excells in hand work because of the cheap labor, but lacks the efficiency developed in the United States, and the facilities to compete in mass production.

The use of political agencies, such as the tariff, to foster unsuitable industries has resulted in a decrease in efficiency, he said, and the determination of virtually all of the countries to become independently self-sustaining has added to the confusion.

To Open Part of New Line in May

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company is planning to start operations over the first section of the Connellsville extension by May 1. The initial portion of the line to be put in service will cover 18 miles of the proposed 38-mile improvement. The balance of the new road will be completed by August or September, according to estimates made at the office of the chief engineer of the road.

The portion to be completed in May will carry the road's tracks to the east side of the Monongahela River. This will permit the starting of service to several important industrial plants. Among these will be the mills of the Pittsburgh Steel Company at Monessen and the Donora plant of the American Steel and Wire Company.

Most of the grading on the first 18 miles has been completed. The work of erecting the steel on the high level bridge over the Monongahela is also under way. Construction has also been started on the tunnel near Jacobs Creek.

To Meet Western Maryland

THE extension to Connellsville will close the gap between the Pittsburgh and West Virginia and the Western Maryland and will make the development of F. E. Taplin's proposed trunk line from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Seaboard possible so far as trackage is concerned.

While the actual consummation of the plan, calling for the consolidation of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia with the Western Maryland and the Wheeling and Lake Erie, still faces many obstacles, the proposal will be helped by the favorable attitude of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This body in its national railroad consolidation program seeks the consolidation of the three roads and the inclusion of the new trunk line in the Wabash system.

Until the commission is able to force the Baltimore and Ohio to let go of its holding in Western Maryland and the Van Sweringens to dispose of their Wheeling and Lake Erie stock, the unification of the three lines cannot take place.

Holdings in W. & L. E.

THE Pittsburgh and West Virginia has made large investments in the stock of the Wheeling and Lake Erie in order to fortify its position in the railroad merger struggle. The last balance sheet showed that it owned $1,290,000 of preferred and $5,920,000 of common stock. It has also applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to acquire the Western Maryland. The road offered to pay $18,673,000, plus carrying costs, for the Baltimore and Ohio holdings or any other figure which the commission might name.

In financing the extension of its lines, the Pittsburgh and West Virginia has sold $6,000,000 of 4½ per cent first mortgage bonds and will shortly offer $2,000,000 in 5 per cent short term notes. The notes will be replaced by permanent financing at a later date.

Traffic to Gain

THE completed extension is expected to bring a large amount of new traffic to the Pittsburgh and West Virginia. Its loadings of manufactured products such as steel will be increased. This will tend to reduce the effect of the violent fluctuations in coal traffic which now comprises about 65 per cent of its business.

In the coming year, however, the greater part of the benefits of the extension will not be received while the road will have the burden of the increased indebtedness. This will tend to reduce the surplus after charges.

Profits Gain

THE company's income account for the first 11 months of 1929 showed a satisfactory gain over 1928 but incomes in November dropped sharply in comparison with last year. The slump reflects the depressed condition of both the steel and coal industries in the Pittsburgh district. December will probably show a more pronounced decline.

In the 11 months ended November 30, 1929, net income was $2,004,016 after charges, equivalent to $6.62 a share on the 302,351 shares of capital stock outstanding. This compared with $1,899,325 or $6.28 a share in the corresponding period of the previous year. The stock is on a $6 annual dividend basis.

In November gross income slumped from $396,258 in 1928 to $332,523 in 1929. Net income after charges dropped from $171,625 in November, 1928, to $125,538 this year. The general expectation in this district is that industrial activity will be lighter in the first quarter of 1930 than it was in the same period of 1929. Most predictions for the subsequent months of the year are optimistic. The road's volume of traffic will closely follow the trend of industrial activity.

CHEW AWARDED CONTRACT

Officials of the City of Pittsburgh have awarded the contract for the furnishing of the equipment for the main kitchen and cafeteria of the Allegheny County Home at Mayview to the Chew Company. This kitchen will be furnished with the latest equipment that is possible to buy. Most of it was selected personally by Director of Supply, Col. Bertram L. Succop, Dr. J. S. Hammers and Joseph McDonough while they were attending the hotel men's convention in New York City early in November.

When finished, it will be one of the largest and finest institutional kitchens in Pennsylvania. It has been designed to feed approximately 3,000 inmates and 300 to 400 attendants. The latter will be fed by the cafeteria method. The cafeteria has been worked out by Dr. Hammers to make it as home-like as possible.

In connection with the cafeteria will be several small private dining rooms for the use of the officers of the institution and visitors.

The cafeteria counter will be constructed of a steel framework and then faced on the front and ends with a tile that will harmonize with the other decorations. In the front of the counter will be inserted a tile crest of the City of Pittsburgh, worked out in black and gold. The top of this counter will be of stainless metal cut out for the steam table, salad pans, pastry display, coffee, water and ice cream sections. All items such as tables, sinks and canopies will be constructed of a stainless polished metal.

China, silver and glassware from the employes' cafeteria, which is in connection with the main kitchen, will be washed by an automatic electric dish washer.

The food for the inmates and employes will be prepared in the large kitchen and then distributed to the different buildings. This food will be delivered in large containers by means of insulated food carts. The kitchen will be ready for use in approximately three months.

Austin Car Buys Thompson Valves

CLEVELAND, Dec. 28.—Thompson Products, Inc., has received release orders on 200,000 valves for Chrysler and Oakland.

In addition to these releases, inquiries have been received from American Austin Car Company, and Continental Motors for valves in lots of 300,000 and 200,000, respectively.

WEATHER HELPS VOLUME OF STORES

Activity Marks the Holiday Buying, But Industrial Output Shows Decline

Holiday buying was very active the first two days of this week, and sales of the larger stores were large, although it is not known as yet whether the total holiday business was equal to that of a year ago, according to R. G. Dun & Co.

The heaviest snow of the winter stimulated demand for heavier shoes as well as for rubber footwear, and some other seasonable lines were also benefited to some extent. There is little activity in the jobbing trade, as buying has been for filling purposes. Little demand is anticipated until inventories are completed.

There is a slow demand for lumber and building material. Plumbing and heating supplies are less active. The demand for groceries has been fair, while tobacco and confectionery for the Christmas trade moved in considerable volume.

OUTPUT LOWER

Industrial operations are at a considerably lower rate this week, some plants closing down for several days on account of the holiday. Steel mills are probably averaging from 50 to 60 per cent of capacity. Not much improvement is anticipated in the rate of operations until early in January.

Window glass factories are operating at the lowest seasonal level of recent years, while manufacturers of plate glass are also operating at a considerably lower rate than they have been. Production in November, however, was about 5 per cent higher than in November, 1928. Gradual improvement is anticipated after the turn of the year.

Demand for electrical equipment has been quite well maintained and prospects continue favorable. Sales of radios and radio equipment have been large this month, although a number of discontinued lines have been offered at a considerable reduction, which has interfered to some extent with the sale of standard lines. The output of crude oil shows comparatively little change, although the demand is at a lower rate.

COAL UNCHANGED

Bituminous coal situation shows little change, domestic demand being quite active, but industrial demand slow. Prices are steady. Western Pennsylvania grades of run-of-mine coal are quoted per net ton as follows: Steam coal, $1.25 to $1.75; coking coal, $1.50 to $1.75; gas coal, $1.65 to $1.75; steam slack, 80 to 90 cents, and gas slack, $1 to $1.10.

COPPER MARKET UNCHANGED

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Demand for lead and zinc was fairly active in the non-ferrous metals markets in the past week, but buying of copper continued at about the same slow rate as in recent weeks, Engineering & Mining Journal reports. The call for tin showed improvement, most of the inquiry coming from the automotive industry.

Scarcely any change took place in the market for copper during the week. Prices were unchanged and while the sales total was slightly higher than in the preceding week, it means little in view of the fact that the daily average was a little less than 400 tons for the period. The tone of the market is generally regarded as better, due to the moderate improvement in the industrial situation.

Although lead sales did not reach the volume of the preceding week, the fundamental strength of the markets continues. Prices are unchanged at 6.10 cents St. Louis, and 6.25 cents New York. No variation from these prices seems to exist in any direction, though for deliveries beyond January, producers are unwilling sellers, feeling that should demand pick up after the holidays, somewhat higher prices might be justified.

Good sales of zinc were booked during the week at from 5.45 to 5.50 cents St. Louis. The bulk of the business done was at the low figure.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

STEEL OUTPUT TO SHOW GAIN

Average Ingot Production Rate for December to Be Under 60 Per Cent

By B. E. V. LUTY

Steel mill operations during the past week were kept at a minimum sufficient to meet the demand of rush orders owing to the inconvenience caused by the holiday interruption. Most departments were closed; however, it was necessary to run a few on account of the aforementioned bookings.

For weeks buyers have been very conservative, resulting in their placing rush orders at the last moment.

Finishing operations were decreased more than steel production, but even steel production had quite a dip. The average rate of steel ingot production for the whole month is probably under 60 per cent and it would not be very surprising should the official report show only about 50 per cent.

BUYING LIGHT

While buying was particularly light on account of the holiday, there is some accumulation of business and there is also a moderate volume of orders placed recently and definitely dated for shipment after January 1, to keep the material out of inventory, whereby mill operations next week will be well above this week and quite possibly above last week.

Of course the rate of steel production has rounded the turn and is about to engage in the regular seasonal increase. This is expected to be slower than usual and to reach a lower peak than in recent years. In view of the general attitude of the buying trade, the curve of production during the first half of the new year will likely be a flatter one, the peak rising less above the general level. The peak has usually come in March, with a sharp decline to June, but next year there will probably be less peak and less decline, with a relatively steady rate throughout the half year.

FIRST QUARTER BOOKING

The very light production of December is not a precursor of correspondingly light production in January. Rather, it makes a basis for heavier production since the lightness of production in December was due in part to a particularly rigid curtailment of inventories all along the line and some replenishment would be in order.

There has been only a small amount of contracting for steel products for the first quarter of the new year. Ordinarily there is much more contracting for that quarter than for other quarters of the year, but for years the contracting habit has been waning. There is no particular advantage in contracting when there is ample capacity for prospective demand and mills are very flexible as to increasing or decreasing production, and when prices are quite unlikely to advance while there is always possibility of an accident in the other direction.

FABRICATED LETTINGS

Contract was placed a week ago for the structural steel for the new Empire State building to occupy the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria in New York, involving about 50,000 tons of steel, making one of the very largest jobs on record. Fabricated structural steel lettings reported unofficially in the trade in the last three weeks have averaged 42 per cent above the year's general average, marking a sharp upward reaction in this activity, as the official report for November showed the month to be 31 per cent under the average of the preceding 10 months, in sharp contrast with October, which was a high month. Prospects are that the official total of fabricated structural steel lettings for the year will be around 3,900,000 tons, representing an 18 per cent increase over last year, which was record high. Shipments are in the neighborhood of 300,000 tons less than bookings, whereby the fabricating shops will enter the new year with a larger order book than a year ago, and at that time they were regarded as quite comfortably fixed.

Some small orders for rails have been reported in the week, about 20,000 tons. While year-end rail production has been heavier than usual, on account of early buying, the orders in the aggregate have been above the average and the rail mills will have more unfilled tonnage January 1 than usual, practically all for delivery over the first six months.

Freight car buying has lagged in the last few weeks, falling quite short of predictions. There may be delay on account of the holidays and negotiating for a close price, but there is a possibility that with so many idle cars the railroads will be disposed to put more of their expenditures into improvements that will decrease costs and increase efficiency.

YEAR'S INGOT OUTPUT

The freight car shops, however, have quite a volume of business on books, and this, with the large structural and rail tonnage on books and a steady and large flow of steel to the farm implement works, makes quite a substantial backlog of business for steel mills, to which is to be added a seasonal increase in the flow of steel to other consumers, including the automobile industry.

Total production of steel ingots in the year now ending will be approximately 54,600,000 gross tons, with a probable error of a few hundred thousand tons, against 50,325,393 tons in 1928 and about 30,280,000 tons in both 1912 and 1913, the two best pre-war years. The comparison is purely statistical. It is much more illuminating to note that record production for 12 consecutive months was about 56,750,000 tons, in the 12 months through last September. That compared with about 47,000,000 tons in the 12 months through May, 1927, showing a 21 per cent increase in two and one-third years, radically out of line with the long range trend previously shown, at 2 to 3 per cent increase per annum. Next year can be a good average year, from the long range viewpoint, by having a production of not over 50,000,000 tons.

EXPANDS GROUP INSURANCE

Employers througout the country have been joining with workers in the purchase of group life insurance as a Christmas remembrance. The Equitable Life Assurance Society, of which Thomas I. Parkinson is president, has added a large number of leading firms to the list of those helping employes to provide for their families in case of death.

In this city Braun Brothers & Co. and the Caslon Press, Inc., have been among the organizations recently taking Equitable group policies for their workers.

Fewer Persons Ride Trains Each Year

Passenger business of the railroads, which has been dropping since 1920, still is on the decline, although the loss of 1929 was less than for any year since 1920, except 1925. All the loss occurred in day-coach business. Loss for the first eight months of 1929 was about 1 per cent as compared with 6 per cent in 1928, and passenger business was about 34 per cent less than in 1920.

HIGH RECORDS MADE IN GLASS

Plate Glass Production Up To New Peak Level, But Window Glass Suffers

Reviewing the year ending it is pleasing to find that a large majority of the branches of the glass industry enjoyed a fair measure of prosperity, says a review of conditions made by the National Glass Budget.

Production and demand for plate glass both established new high records. The window glass business turned out to be a sad disappointment. The rolled and wired glass arm of the industry had its unsatisfactory period, but ended in fair shape. Good demand prevailed throughout the year for glass containers and manufacturers of flint glassware were kept busy.

Concerning the outlook for 1930, reports from dependable authorities agree that fundamental business conditions are sound. Year-end inventories of glass and glassware in both the manufacturers and distributors warehouses are low.

Movements now under way will have an encouraging effect on industry, which will mean an increase in the volume of employment. All signs for the coming year are encouraging and better economic conditions should prevail in the immediate future, is the opinion held by the Department of Labor at Washington.

BUILDING DEMAND

Large construction programs to be developed by municipalities, state government, public utilities and heavy expenditures for improvement by railroads have been assured for the coming year through the President's conferences with outstanding leaders in business. The maintaining of present wage rates will be of inestimable value. All this augurs well for the outlook for the glass business.

The year 1929 began with seven firms in the United States engaged in the manufacture of plate glass. During the year another company was added to the number. There was unusual activity in evidence in the industry throughout the year. Up to the end of November the total production of domestic works was placed at 142,115,998 square feet. This is by far the largest amount of plate glass ever manufactured in the United States during any previous year. It is possible that the production during the month of December will be in the neighborhood of 10,000,000 square feet, making the total for the year slightly above 150,000,000 square feet.

To the total of the domestic production can be added 10,292,587 square feet of plate glass that was imported in the 10 months ending with October, 1929.

TARIFF CHANGED

On January 17, President Coolidge issued a proclamation invoking the flexible provisions of the tariff act of 1922, privileging him to apply certain increases in the tariff rates of duty on certain sizes of cast, polished plate glass.

By the first of February it was apparent that the automobile business was going to be unusually active and that a large amount of plate glass would be consumed in that industry. It is now thought that there will be from 75,000,000 to 80,000,000 square feet of plate glass used during this year in the glazing of automobiles.

The jobbers of plate glass moved at least an average amount of plate throughout the year. Indications are that the mirror industry bought more plate glass than customary during the past 12 months.

The demand for one-eighth inch plate glass showed an increase over any previous year. This grade of plate seems to be growing in popularity. Production of this thickness of glass is being increased in keeping with demand.

CAPACITY GAINS

Many changes have taken place in the equipment operated in the factories. The changes adopted tend to increase production, maintain quality and lower production costs. There will be a productive capacity in 1930 that will amount to close to 50,000,000 feet more than was made this year. A possibility is that the growing popularity of laminated glass, used extensively in automobiles, banks and in other ways, will consume part of the product of this increased capacity. Stocks of plate glass were said to be lower throughout part of the year than they had been any time for the past 10 years. All of the glass that was made was being shipped at the middle of the year. Stocks on hand then were estimated to equal about two weeks' requirements.

As the year ends factory output exceeds demand. Throughout the year the market has been firm. Manufacturers worked diligently in the interest of the jobbing trade and the public at large. The industry is on a sound basis, and will start the new year in a fairly satisfactory manner.

Manufacturers and distributors of window glass will mark 1929 as one of the most unsatisfactory years encountered in the last quarter of a century. Production of domestic factories this year will be in the neighborhood of 7,500,000 boxes, each containing 50 square feet with shipments from manufacturing plants in the neighborhood of 500,000 boxes less than was made. During the year the market has not been as stable as it should have been. The situation became so serious that it was found necessary to bring production closer to market requirements. As a result the window glass industry finds itself in a better position to enter the new year than existed at the beginning of 1929.

President Hoover, on May 14, taking advantage of the Presidential privilege of the Flexible Provision of the tariff act of 1922, proclaimed increases in the duties on window glass, the new rates amounting to about 45 cents per box. They became effective in 30 days from the date of signing.

Steel Floors Permit Taller Buildings

Electrically welded steel flooring, which materially reduces the weight of a building while adding to its strength, recently was tested and hailed by architects as a means of erecting taller skyscrapers than have heretofore been possible. Known as the battledeck type of flooring, the material, consisting of steel plates and structural-steel beams, is "stitched" together with an automatic welding machine developed by the General Electric Company.

PREPARING FOR NEW HUDSON

An entirely new model Hudson and a new Essex will be shown in display rooms throughout this territory soon after the first of the year, according to an announcement made by J. R. Pierpoint, president of Pierpoint Motor Company, distributors of Hudson-Essex in Western Pennsylvania.

"We are delivering quite a number of the present Hudson-Essex models, which, in view of the new model announcements, we are offering at reductions of $105 to $657.50. These present model cars have met with much favor during the present year and are considered the buying opportunity of the season.

"The new model Hudson is an 'eight' and, in view of that fact, we are having quite a few calls for this year's big F-head super-six motor, a motor which was recognized by those who knew as being one of the finest motors of its type ever put in an automobile.

"Annual changes in motor car models have become a vogue rather than a necessity. The wise buyers pick up tremendous bargains in purchasing the present day models at a reduction which the dealer feels that he must make in order to be fair with the public."

Change in Milk Delivery Is Success

The inauguration of daylight delivery of milk and cream by the dairy companies of Pittsburgh has been accepted with almost universal satisfaction by the people of this district, according to the Liberty Dairy Products Corporation.

In any change as radical as this, many obstacles had to be overcome, but the people of the community soon discovered the value of getting their dairy products in the day time and it is doubtful now if the consumers would tolerate a return to night time delivery.

The Liberty Dairy Products Corporation was one of the pioneers in the movement for daylight delivery. Drivers for the first time can spend the nights with their families.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

New York Bond Market — Local Market Active

STOCKS DRIFT DOWN UNDER PRESSURE

Renewal of Selling Sends Long List Off at Opening. G. E. One of Strong Spots

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Stock prices drifted downward on a renewal of selling pressure at the opening of today's market. Allied Chemical dropped 2¾ points and Columbia Gas, American Smelting, Safeway Stores, Union Carbide and Westinghouse Electric yielded a point or two. General Electric was one of the few strong spots, opening 1½ points higher.

Short selling stimulated the early decline, which was not directly associated with any development in the day's news. Weekly mercantile reviews reported that holiday trade this year made favorable comparison with a year ago, but signs of recession were reported in several of the leading industries.

Recent trading has been largely of a professional character, with small investors and traders showing an inclination to stay out of the market until the year-end adjustments have been completed. Selling for income tax losses will have to be completed today and Monday for ordinary transactions, although cash sales for such purposes may be made on Tuesday.

A rather thin market was disclosed for some of the high-priced specialties. R. H. Macy dropped 5 points, Columbian Carbon 4, Auburn Auto 3½, and National Biscuit, North American Co., A. M. Byers, Simmons Co., Standard Gas and Electric and J. I. Case yielded 2 to 3 points before the end of the first half-hour.

American Can, DuPont and General Railway Signal pointed upward in the early trading.

American Bankers Elect Hal Lemon

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Hal Y. Lemon, vice president of the Commerce Trust Company of Kansas City, Mo., has been elected chairman of the newly-created commission on banking practices and clearing house functions of the American Bankers' Association. The commission is to serve as an integrally organized department of the association, charged with the responsibility of studying and finding solutions to practical every-day banking problems and disseminating this information to the members of the association. Fred W. Ellsworth, vice president of the Hibernia Bank and Trust Company of New Orleans, is vice chairman.

Mail Orders Freight Policies Adjusted

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—Statements made in the mid-winter sales catalogs issued by Sears, Roebuck and Montgomery Ward show that both companies have modified to some extent their policies of prepaying freight on all shipments of heavy merchandise.

Freight will not be prepaid on certain items such as batteries, fencing, farm implements and poultry and stock feed. Presumably, these items and some others mentioned are those on which losses from freight prepayment have been heaviest.

Asks Receiver for Submarine Boat Co.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Isaac Gross, of Jersey City, counsel for Max Doyne, stockholder, asks that a receiver be appointed for the Submarine Boat Corporation of New York, in an equity suit filed in Federal Court in Newark. Bill of complaint alleges "current liabilities will far exceed current or liquid assets," and says company has been operating at a loss since 1924.

Newton Steel Plant Ready in February

CLEVELAND, Dec. 28.—The new $7,000,000 plant of the Newton Steel Company at Monroe, Mich., will be in operation early in February. Completion of the mill will double present Newton capacity of 20,000 tons of sheets monthly.

Operations at the Newton Falls plant of the company are recovering rapidly with renewed buying by automobile companies.

Hayes Body Cancels 2% Stock Dividend

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The Hayes Body Corporation has notified the New York Stock Exchange that directors of the company have rescinded their former resolution declaring a 2 per cent stock dividend. The payment was to be made January, 1930, to stockholders of record on December 24, 1929.

Lima Locomotive Gets Large Order

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Lima Locomotive Company received an order for 15 locomotives from Chicago Great Western Railroad.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

Water Is Rising In Oklahoma Oil Pool

TULSA, Dec. 28.—The water level in Oklahoma City pool has shown a substantial rise in past few days, despite the fact that a number of very prolific producing wells have been completed, some of which flowed at the rate of 30,000 barrels a day. The producing outlook of the pool now is not as great as was indicated by these wells, owing to the rise in the water level. The Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Company, a subsidiary of the Cities Service Company, has brought in its No. 1 Wheeler in section 13-11-3W flowing

A Happier New Year Likely In Wall Street.

—By B. C. FORBES—

IT looks as if owners of stocks, who didn't have a very merry Christmas, will have a somewhat happier New Year. The market acted somewhat better yesterday and on Thursday. When those who have been selling to establish tax losses want to re-buy next month, they may find offerings surprisingly scarce.

The atmosphere in Wall Street is still bluer than elsewhere. Too many houses have lost their courage completely and are dismissing employes, trimming salaries and—foolishly—cancelling their advertising.

Now is the time to go after business, not to curl up in a shell.

MESSRS. RYAN AND KELLEY, of Anaconda and other copper leaders have achieved a stronger co-operative spirit in their industry than oil men have achieved in theirs. Despite something resembling a "buyers' strike," the chief copper producers have proved able to maintain the 18 cents price, a price permitting producers to make a good profit. Also, this price means good wages at Butte and elsewhere, because wages rise and fall automatically with copper prices, a wage-fixing arrangement which has proved workable.

Has it occurred to large consumers of raw materials and other things that, if they depress prices unduly they will create conditions ultimately injurious to themselves?

IF any business corporation had made as many overcharges as the income tax department at Washington, and had been compelled by the courts to make as many refunds, how long would it have retained its customers?

E. H. Harriman once commanded a board of directors, "Vote first and talk afterwards." The Treasury Department's motto apparently is, "Pay up first, protest afterwards." Bureaucracy can do that. Business can't.

INSTEAD of a complaint, one workman writes:

"I am glad I work for a co[illegible] any like this one. It is engaged in a line that has a future. They adapt themselves to changing business conditions. The management expects plenty but is decently tolerant of mistakes within reasonable limits.

"Business is a game they a[illegible] trying to play aggressively and they cannot play it right unless we play it with them. For 10 years they've kept me steadily employed on full time, sometimes perhaps when the volume of work didn't exactly warrant them in keeping me on. They realize their civic responsibility for keepin[illegible] steadily employed. That's why I'm glad I work for them.

"Please publish this because some employers will read it. It is very difficult for a worker like me to go to the men above because they might think I was trying to get a raise. Continuity of employment is a blessing and those of us who enjoy it have lots to be thankful for."

THE head of a large wholesale grocery concern writes:

"We are interested in developing some plan in our business to help the morale and increase the interest of our employes. We thought perhaps we could inject the spirit of a game in our work and make it more interesting. Could you give us any suggestion?"

Could you?

Resigns

WALTER C. CARROLL

Mr. Carroll, who resigned as chairman of the board of the Oil Well Supply Company of Pittsburgh at the meeting yesterday.

TRADE ACTIVITY LOWER

Commercial transactions during the week ended December 21, as measured by the volume of checks presented to the banks for payment, were greater than in the preceding week, but showed a decline from the corresponding period of 1928, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce. Steel plants were operating on a lower level than in the corresponding period of last year. Receipts of wheat, cattle and hogs at the principal markets were lower than in the corresponding week of 1928. The distribution of goods, as indicated by the volume of freight car loadings for the latest reported week, was lower than in the same period of a year ago.

The general index of wholesale prices was somewhat stronger than in the previous week but was lower than a year ago. Iron and steel prices were fractionally higher than in the previous week but were somewhat lower than in the corresponding week of 1928. Copper prices were unchanged from the previous week but were higher than a year ago, while prices for cotton averaged lower than in either period.

Interest rates on both time and call funds were unchanged from the preceding week, but were substantially lower than at this time last year. Bond prices were lower than in either the previous week or the same week of 1928. Business failures were less numerous than in the preceding week but showed a slight gain over last year.

Pass Shenandoah Common Dividend

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Directors of Shenandoah Corporation have taken no action on the common dividend Three months ago an initial dividend of 1½ per cent in common stock was declared on the common stock, at which time it was stated that it was the intention of directors at that time to continue payment of stock dividends quarterly.

The board declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1-32nd share of common stock on the optional 6 per cent convertible preference stock payable January 14 to record January 4.

Latin American Air Mail Rates Reduced

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Effective January 1, the Postoffice Department will make a general reduction in air mail rates to Central America, South America and the West Indies. Increased volume of this mail is responsible for the change, which amounts to as much as 10 cents and 15 cents a half ounce for some countries.

Lake Ore Shipments For December Off

Iron ore shipments from Lake Erie docks to interior furnaces during the first 23 days of December totaled 253,762 tons, comparing with 592,371 tons in the similar 1928 period.

Christmas Buying Equal to Year Ago

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—It was stated at the White House that the various reports to the Commerce Department show that Christmas trade, as a whole was fully up to last year.

Bond Offerings for Week Show Decline

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—New bond offerings for the week ended December 27 totaled $8,468,000 composed entirely of municipal issues, compared with $225,509,000 a week ago and $27,104,000 in the similar 1928 week.

Trading in Rubber At Record High

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Sales turnover in December delivery of crude rubber on the New York Rubber Exchange reached a record high for any month at 44,793 contracts or 11,982 long tons.

Building Trend Upward in Cities

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Advance figures taken from a copyrighted statement issued today by the National Bureau of Economics and covering the period from 1909 to 1928, inclusive, show that the upward trend of the value of construction in the leading cities has been steady since 1922. During these seven years the money put into urban construction, estimated in current dollars, amounted to $41,799,000,000. Construction on the farms during the same period reached $3,853,000,000, or a total for farm and city of $45,652,000,000. The total construction value for 1928 was $7,789,000,000.

Pig Iron Sales Are Holding Strong

Sales of pig iron in the New York district this week amounted to between 4,000 and 5,000 tons, a good showing considering the holiday interruption and nearness of the inventory period.

Altogether there is some 10,000 tons of business under negotiation in the district. Sentiment continues good with makers and dealers looking for a fair amount of business in the near future. Prices show little change.

Ingot Industry To Discuss Practices

The Federal Trade Commission has authorized a trade practice conference for the nonferrous ingot metal industry representing more than 75 per cent of the national production, according to an announcement issued by the commission.

Philadelphia Firm Gets Tax Refund

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Philadelphia Electric Company received a refund of taxes from government amounting to $776,023 for over-assessments during the years 1924 to 1927, inclusive.

U. S. Commerce Chamber Technical Heads Forecast New Year's Developments

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—What kind of business year will 1930 be?

Weary of perfunctory, generalized forecasts, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States asked its technical departmental heads to set forth briefly what are the things most likely to be of concern to the industries with which they are dealing.

"Agriculture will continue to ask whether nation-wide marketing operations, such as are being encouraged and organized by the Federal Farm Board, will in fact solve the problems with which co-operative associations as well as individuals in the past have had to contend," William Harper Dean, manager, agricultural service department, will point out in the forthcoming issue of the Nation's Business, organ of the chamber.

"Interest in the possibilities of large scale farming will undoubtedly continue to grow," he added. "Not the least consideration before American agriculture is the tariff."

E. D. Borden, manager, domestic distribution department, will say:

"The new alignments in distribution, one of which is the voluntary chain, will be leading topics in this field in 1930 Independents group together, usually in connection with one wholesaler or more, to form a voluntary chain."

RESERVE PROBLEMS

John J. Connor, manager finance department, will point out:

"In the domestic field will be a number of problems pertaining to the Federal Reserve System, particularly proposals for congressional investigation of the system and for changes in its policies and practices, as well as problems relating to chain and group banking and the need of modernizing the national banking system."

Dealing with trade abroad, E. L. Bacher, manager, foreign commerce department, will point out:

"The American exporter has to take merchandise produced under high American wage scales, but with mass production advantages, and sell that merchandise in foreign markets against products produced with lower wage costs, In many export lines domestic and foreign prices are so delicately balanced that a change in any one of a number of factors might disturb the equilibrium.

"For the American importer the main consideration during 1930 will be the effect of any new tariff law which comes into force in the United States."

Surveying the needs of factories, E. W. McCullough said:

"Recent events have produced or undoubtedly will cause hesitation among many classes of buyers which should spur us on to greater and more effective methods of saving in all production and marketing methods.

MUST WATCH OVERHEAD

"The haunting bugbear of overhead, both in selling and production operations, will compel further concentration, so that step by step economies in 1930 will offset any possible slackening in demand and really insure a more satisfactory closing of that year than can be forecast now.

"Therefore, I feel that the two primary urges before us are the insuring as far as possible of steady employment to those who will work and the intelligent planning and budgeting ahead of both production and sales operations."

W. Du B. Brookings, manager of the natural resources department, will say:

"The efforts of the petroleum industry in California to reduce the waste of an unreplacable natural asset, the continued success of the curtailment programs in certain oil fields in Texas and Oklahoma, and the self regulation of the copper industry with consequent stabilization at profitable levels will be watched with the keenest interest by all units of the natural resource industries.

"When it is demonstrated that such groups can maintain a solid front against the disruptive 'bear' attacks of buyers, the demands of contract purchasers and the internal pressure from royalty owners, bondholders and shareholders, then the other natural resource industries will fall in line."

TRADE EXPERTS MEET

The leading clinicians and diagnosticians of business assembled yesterday for their annual convention at Washington under the auspices of the American Economic Association and affiliated bodies

C. V. Cox, of the University of Chicago, presented a list which measured the accuracy of business forecasting agencies [illegible] 1921. Mr. Cox compared the prediction with the event, bringing his studies up to the close of last year. On the basis of adequacy of forecasts of general business activity, Mr. Cox ranks the well known economic soothsayers as follows:

Copper Stocks Show Big Increase During November

ALTHOUGH the price of copper metal has been maintained at 18 cents a pound, many speculative interests insist this has been accomplished at the expense of production and of favorable trade statistics. Increase of 36,615 tons in stocks of copper in November was the largest monthly gain in a number of years. The surplus of refined metal is now at 126,919 tons, the largest since December 31, 1924. There is some fear in stock market circles that this large supply will begin to press the market unless there is an early improvement in buying.

The street continues to comment on the prediction of President Farrell of the U. S. Steel Corporation that there should be improvement in operations in the near future because of the well known conservatism of this authority. Considerable discussion also is heard of the recent evidence that automobile companies are showing more interest in placing contracts and specifying for deliveries for next year. One important factor which could bring a sharp turn in the steel industry is the small surplus carried by consumers. Stocks probably are below what they have been in many months, so there is no large supply to be worked off by consumers when general conditions again improve.

MANY circulars have appeared in the financial district on Chrysler. One student points out that figuring the company's capital stock at $33 a share, with the Dodge debentures at par, Chrysler now is appraised in the stock market at around $198,000,000, compared with a high of $683,000,000 as of October, 1928. In April, 1925, $146,000,000 in cash was paid for Dodge alone by bankers who took the company. Chrysler, as of September 30, last, had $56,922,351 in cash, call loans and marketable securities. The company had spent more than $50,000,000 in the past few years in plant improvements, and has a capacity of well over 1,000,000 cars a year, compared with an actual production of around 450,000 units in the current year.

Money ruled firm at 6 per cent on demand yesterday with brokers engaged in placing funds expressing the opinion that the current rate would probably hold until after the turn of the year. Scattered calling was reported done with total withdrawals estimated around $25,000,000, or substantially under the total taken out of the market Thursday. Followers of the credit situation are not particularly willing to venture a forecast on the outlook for collateral money rates just now. It is freely admitted that gold exports are going to be a factor, with their influence depending in a large way on what the Federal Reserve does to offset the effect of such losses. Yesterday's engagements of $11,250,000 for France, incidentally, brings the total of exports of the metal since the beginning of November to upward of $98,000,000.

THE building industry has made a poorer showing in 1929 than in any year since 1925. Throughout the year residential building has pursued a downward course under the influence of high credit costs and an overbuilt situation. Commercial and industrial construction has registered substantial expansion, but aggregate results for the first 11 months fell 12.2 per cent under those of the like period of last year. Prospects are that the building construction industry will check its downward trend within the next few months with a slight up trend in activities as the year progresses.

Directors of Lambert are scheduled to meet for dividend action the early part of next year and it is possible that stockholders are again in line for an extra payment. Company had a highly successful first six months and should profits closely approximate those of that period in the final half of the year, the board following its usual liberal policy might readily declare an additional payment. It is pointed out that the operating subsidiary of Lambert has had a satisfactory record for half a century and it has suffered little, if any, during periods of depression.

Business Failures Total 396 in Week

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—With the returns covering five business days only, owing to the holiday, business failures throughout the country this week number 396, compared with 498 defaults for six days last week, and 359 reported to R. G. Dun & Co. for the five-day period a year ago.

New York Telephone Wins Rate Case

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The Federal Statutory Court handed down a decree in the New York Telephone Company rate case enjoining the Public Service Commission and the Attorney General from enforcing any rate which does not allow a 7 per cent minimum return, thus enabling the company to increase its rates at once.

Autosales Company Passes Dividend

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Autosales Corporation has omitted the 75 cents quarterly dividend on the preferred stock, due at this time.

DRUG MERGERS COMPLETED

The drug field during 1929 went through the most revolutionary year in its history, according to Herbert R. Mayes, editor of the American Druggist.

"The most pronounced changes took place among wholesalers," he said. "Sixty-three formerly independent service wholesalers, representing about 30 per cent of the total number of service wholesalers, were merged into the McKesson & Robbins organization. Over 100 independent wholesalers aligned themselves more definitely with the Druggists' Supply Corporation, organized for the purpose of volume buying. The largest mutual wholesale houses, organized as an association, have announced their intention of offering their mutual system to independent service wholesalers.

"Drug, Inc., the largest manufacturing unit in the industry, added materially to its holdings by acquiring Bristol-Myers. Several less important mergers occurred, although a few of large proportions, pending for many months, were dropped as a result of the break in stock market values.

"In the retail field, chain stores made the greatest progress, increasing their volume and number of outlets. Chain development in this field suffered one important set-back through failure of the Neve chain in New York and its subsequent sale to Whelan.

"The industry as a whole appears to be in sound condition. Manufacturing plans for 1930 calls for no retrenchment. Advertising appropriations in the majority of cases reported are larger than for 1929."

Rights Offered by Calif. Edison Co.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28.—Directors of Southern California Edison Company have voted to offer to holders of both preferred and common stock of record February 28, 1930, right to subscribe for one new share of common at $25 for each 10 shares of either preferred or common held. Warrants will be mailed March 20, 1930, and stockholders may exercise rights from March 25 to April 21. Rights expire April 21.

SHOUP PREDICTS GOOD 1930

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Paul Shoup, president of Southern Pacific lines, predicts prosperity and good business for 1930, based on a survey recently completed by the railroad.

"As far as the railroads here on the Coast and Southwest are concerned," he said, "I am quite sure that they have never entertained any other thought than that of going ahead. They are all committed to meet the growing needs of this country. They will spend the necessary money and effort during the coming year to that end just as if there had been no financial problem interjected through the stock exchange difficulty.

"I might say that as far as the Southern Pacific Company is concerned, west of El Paso and Ogden and south of Portland, Ore., we have quite an extensive program. We expect to spend, in additions and betterments to our lines, and expenditures for rolling stock, a larger sum in 1930 than we did in 1929, several large projects, such as our Suisun Bay bridge and San Jose cut-off, now being under way.

"I believe I can say that in this territory, including all of our various enterprises in which we are engaged, our total expenditures for labor, materials, extensions, additions, improvements, and betterments of all kinds during the year 1930 will be in the neighborhood of a quarter of a billion of dollars."

Though appreciative of the effect of any important change in American economic conditions upon the life of its people as a whole, Mr. Shoup said, "I do not think we should take the situation and what has happened as a result too seriously, any more than we should take an occasional lack of rain too seriously. It does bring us problems and trouble, but we should remember it has always rained."

Griffiths, Mastro Win.

FAREWELL GAME OF JONES AND CAGLE

THE last chapter except one in the story of the football season of 1929 will be written in Palo Alto this afternoon, when Capt. Christy Cagle leads the Army team into battle against the Stanford gridders of old Pop Warner. You never can tell in modern football. Upsets occur frequently, and an eleven that appears to have little or no chance on paper may suddenly rise to a new peak and spill the dope in all directions. As far as the form sheets may be trusted, however, it looks as if the Soldiers are doomed to take another on the chin.

Christy Cagle.

Neither team boasts anything approaching a clean record, but whatever edge can be found is on the side of Stanford. The Generals did not win a single major game this year. They were tied by Harvard, and defeated by Yale, Illinois and Notre Dame. The Cardinals lost to Southern California and Santa Clara, but in their victory over California later they showed power surpassing that displayed by the Cadets at any time during the campaign.

STANFORD'S triumph over California, too, demonstrated that Warner still is in a class of his own when it comes to pointing an eleven for a particular game. After Southern California had defeated Stanford 7 to 0, and then lost to California 15 to 7, Stanford's chances against California looked none too promising from the angle of comparative performances, yet Pop brought his eleven right around and smashed California by the decisive score of 21 to 6.

All of which bore out again an old football saying that Warner can win almost any big game that he sets his heart on winning. Needless to say, he wants to win this big intersectional event today, so it is strongly probable that he will have his machine running in a fashion too smooth for the Army to stop. Recollections of the 26-to-0 beating that Stanford gave them in New York last year will hardly serve to boost the Army's confidence, either, and when the effects of the strange climate and the longest trip they ever made are figured in, it looks like another losing day for the West Pointers.

BUT the game is likely to be a real battle, for all that, well worthy of the interest with which its progress will be followed by the whole country. Rarely has a contest that meant so little in the football rankings presented so much color.

Any game in which the Army appears always holds an additional kick for the public; both teams, and Coaches Warner and Biff Jones, as well, occupy positions in the front line of football prominence; it is the Army's first trip to the Pacific Coast; the post-season nature of the affair gives it the whole sport stage for the day, and the intersectional flavor completes a setting that makes the struggle a gripping standout.

Biff Jones.

ANOTHER feature of the combat on the Coast is the fact that it will draw the curtain on some notable gridiron careers. It will be the final game for Christy Cagle, Army captain and all-America halfback, and one of the most brilliant stars of recent years. With him will pass out Murrel, a backfield mate of rare class, and among the others who will no longer be part of the Army picture after today is Coach Jones himself. Biff will join the long parade of outgoing or shifting coaches that has already seen Charley Crowley step down at Columbia, Lou Young at Penn, Jimmy Phelan at Purdue, Lou Little at Georgetown, Enoch Bagshaw at Washington, John McEwan at Oregon, and Bill Wood at Wesleyan, with others to follow.

WHETHER they win or lose, the members of the Pitt football team will bring back with them gold football watch charms as mementos of their game with Southern California in Pasadena next Wednesday. The announcement comes officially from Hal Reynolds, president of the Tournament of Roses Association, which has decided to make the awards to the players of both the Pitt and Southern California squads.

Members of the Panther team of 1927, which met Stanford in the Coast classic, will also receive gold footballs, the Association having voted to award these mementos to the Pitt, Alabama, Stanford, Georgia Tech and California players who performed in the last three Tournament of Roses games. The footballs have not been presented in the past, but the innovation will be made retroactive to include the teams named.

ONE more old-timer in baseball has reached the end of his string after hanging on until past the 41-year mark. Otis (Doc) Crandall, best known around the major circuits as a pitcher and pinch-hitter for the New York Giants, has been released by the Los Angeles club, of the Pacific Coast League.

Otis Crandall.

Crandall, one of the hardest-hitting pitchers of his time, went to the Giants from Cedar Rapids in 1908 and remained with the McGrawites until the end of the 1913 season. He entered the Federal League and was with St. Louis in that circuit when the league died in 1915. Otis has been in the Coast League for the last 12 years. He hopes to get a job as a major league scout.

CRANDALL is the last of the Giants of 1908 to pass out as an active player. All of the others who were on the New York roster when Doc joined the club long since ceased to figure in diamond activities, though a few remain in coaching, scouting or minor league managerial roles. One, Spike Shannon, formerly of Oakmont, is a minor league umpire. The Giants had a star pitching staff when Crandall came up, consisting of Christy Mathewson, Joe McGinnity, Dummy Taylor, Rube Marquard, George Wiltse and Leon Ames. The catchers were Roger Bresnahan and Tom Needham, with Fred Snodgrass also starting in as a backstop; the infielders were Fred Tenney, Fred Merkle, Larry Doyle, Arthur Devlin, Al Bridwell. Buck Herzog and Sammy Strang, and the outfielders were Mike Donlin, Cy Seymour, Josh Devore, Shannon and Harry McCormick.

THE Pacific Coast League may send up another slugger to the big show, to follow Roy Johnson, Earl Averill, Smead Jolley and Gus Suhr. The latest player for whom a major league tryout is in prospect is Outfielder Fuzzy Hufft, of the Mission club.

If they can't make a deal with the Senators for Goose Goslin, the Browns, it is said, plan to buy the release of Hufft. The latter's throwing arm is none too strong, but he is a good fielder and turned in a batting average of .369 last season, his hits including 39 home runs.

EVEN in the present crippled state of the Pittsburgh hockey team, the trip to New York on which the Pirates will depart tonight may be featured by a performance on their part that has not had a parallel this season. The Bucs may win two games in succession for the first time in the campaign. They trimmed Detroit, 3 to 1, here on Thursday night, and inasmuch as it is the feeble Americans whom they are to face in Gotham tomorrow, a second straight win is at least within the bounds of possibility.

One of the three victories credited to Frederickson's skaters this season was scored over the Americans here, and probably nothing on the order of world-beating form will be required to turn the trick

CARNEGIE TOPS YOUNGSTOWN 'Y,' 33-30

Chick Davies' Duquesne University passers made a splendid home-season court debut last night when they took over Adrian College, of Adrian, Mich., 35 to 17, in the Duke gym. Ganzy Benedict, captain of the local quint, who was injured recently in an automobile crash, left his hospital bed yesterday afternoon and last night watched his mates from the sidelines. He could not be induced to stay away.

DUKES SPARKLE

The point-a-minute attack of Adrian failed miserably. It didn't even prove half that hot. Although Patchett tallied on a foul for the first blood, Brud Stephens shortly after came back to give the Dukes a slight lead with a field goal. After battling nip and tuck for several minutes, the Bluffites started a scoring spree on the visitors that saw the Daviesmen sporting a 24-to-9 margin of advantage at half time.

Patchett, Parry and Stephens were the game's stars. Among the spectators was Sam Watters, secretary of the Pittsburgh National League Pirates, who is an Adrian alumnus. It was Adrian's first contest of a nine-game trip in this section of the country.

Carnegie Tech, which opened its season with a 33 to 30 victory in a battle with the Youngstown Y. M. C. A., at Youngstown last night, moves on to Toledo to play St. John's College tonight.

PITT CHANGES DATE

A change has been made in the Pitt floor schedule whereby it will play Nebraska on the home court next Saturday night instead of Thursday night, the game having been set back to permit the Cornhuskers to play West Virginia University at Morgantown on Thursday. The Duke lineup:

Duquesne—35.		Adrian—17.
Abele	F	Fisher
Lubic	F	(C) H. Patchett
McGeever	C	W. Patchett
Stephens (A.C.)	G	Geisler
Parry	G	Reed

Score by halves:

Duquesne	24	11—35
Adrian	9	8—17

Field goals—Duquesne, Abele, Lubic, 2, Stephens 3, Parry 6, Vernon 2; Adrian, Fisher 2, H. Patchett 3.

Team fouls—Duquesne 7 out of 14; Adrian 7 out of 12.

Individual fouls—Duquesne, Vernon none out of 1, Abele 1 out of 3, Lubic 1 out of 2, Stephens 3 out of 5, Parry 2 out of 3; Adrian, Fisher 1 out of 1, H. Patchett 3 out of 6, Geisler 1 out of 2, Anderson 1 out of 1.

Substitutions—Duquesne, Vernon for McGeever, McGeever for Vernon, Wilder for Parry, Adrian, Anderson for W. Patchett, W. Patchett for Anderson, Bryan for Fisher.

Referee—Brickley. Umpire—Slack. Time of halves—20 minutes.

TECH TOPS YOUNGSTOWN

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 28.—Carnegie Tech basketeers defeated the Youngstown Y. M. C. A. quintet in the opening game of the season for the Pittsburghers here last night, 33 to 30. And the score indicates just how hard the rivals fought for the laurels. The Y passers pressed the collegians closely all through the game and the form of the Tartan presages one of the most successful floor seasons for Carnegie in the past couple of seasons when only mediocre teams represented the Skibos in basketball.

Coach Hogan has moulded a team which is certain to make its presence felt in collegiate basketball this winter. At least that is the impression formed here as the Tartans exhibited fine teamwork.

Nease and Webster were the outstanding stars for the Carnegie five while Grennen and Herman were the top scorers for the locals. Herman caged six field goals and two fouls and Grennen contributed three goals from the field and four from the free line.

Webster was the most prominent point getter for the visitors being responsible for one-third of Carnegie's markers. He made five field goals and one foul. Nease caged five two-pointers and a foul for a total of seven. Leonard was also a factor in Carnegie's victory with three field goals. The lineup:

Tech—33.		Youngstown Y—30.
Nease	F	Schively
Webster	F	Santangelo
Merton	C	Grennen
Weiss	G	Herman
Schumaer	G	MacDonald

Substitutions: Carnegie — Fox, High, Leonard, McCurdy; Youngstown—Moses, Mullins. Field goals—Nease 3, Webster 5, High, Leonard 3, Merton 2, Santangelo, Grennen 3, Herman 6, MacDonald. Fouls—Carnegie 5, Youngstown 8. Referee—Morgan.

PIRATES LEAVE FOR NEW YORK TONIGHT

By CARL W. SHATTO

With Joe Miller, who never has tasted of defeat during his managerial career, in command, the Pirate puckmen will take off for New York this evening to do a little jousting with Lionel Conacher's Americans in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Miller began his career as pilot Thursday. Since he took over the reins the Bucs have won one and lost none, and if determination is all that a team needs to bag a win he still will be batting 1.000 when the Corsairs return home on Monday.

Hib Milks, skillful forward whom Miller succeeded as boss, will confine his battling to an attempt to defeat a severe attack of grip. Hib's condition was reported as improved today and he has succeeded in shaking off every threat of pneumonia, but he still is confined to bed. It is not likely that he will be able to return to the lineup for some 10 days.

LOWREY AT CENTER

Frank Frederickson, original player-manager, will not be released from a Toronto hospital until next Tuesday, and Herb Drury will not be able to test his broken hand until late next week. This means that Jerry Lowrey, by nature a wing, will have to continue as pivot until one of the three regular centers is able to get back into action.

Lowrey handled the center ice job in creditable fashion Thursday when he participated in the scoring of two goals as the Bucs tamed the Detroit Cougars, 3-1, but his effectiveness was limited largely to attacking.

On December 14 the Pirates met the Americans for the first time this season and overwhelmed the New Yorkers by 8 to 1. If the Bucs had their full strength available they would figure to stop Conacher and his mates without much trouble, but the locals may find Milks' absence a big handicap in their attempt to repeat their

Dempsey Turns Down Vaudeville Contract

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey has turned down an offer of 20 weeks in vaudeville work so he can return to Chicago and attend to his promotional boxing ventures in the Coliseum.

The former world heavyweight champion advised Leonard Sacks, his business representative, of his decision to decline the vaudeville offer. Dempsey's next attraction in the Coliseum will be a 10-round bout between James J. Braddock and Leo Lomski, both contenders for the world light-heavyweight title, January 17.

DALLAS DINES PITT PARTY

DALLAS, Dec. 28. — (AP.) — There was more extra-fancy football talent in this city yesterday than was ever before gathered under one roof in the Southwest. There were more all-America and near all-Americas than you could comfortably shake a stick at.

There were, to begin with, the undefeated University of Pittsburgh Panthers, claimants of the national title, passing through on their way to Pasadena, Cal., where they have an important engagement with the University of Southern California on New Year's Day.

They shared interest with the outstanding stars of the Southwest and Midwest, who are engaged in a strenuous training grind for their benefit tussle here on New Year's.

Last night, the members of the three squads sat down together at a banquet given by the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. The program included, among other things, an address by J. Waddy Tate, mayor of Dallas.

It was a notable gathering. Around the festal board were such nationally-known stars as Pest Welch, all-America halfback, of Purdue; Uansa and Donchess, all-America halfback and end of Pittsburgh; and a raft of other

BUD GORMAN TO BATTLE M'FOWLER

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

A heavyweight match of an unusually high order has been booked for McKeesport next Thursday night by Promoter Jim McGirr, who, in the face of a number of small houses this season, is taking a chance and guaranteeing the principals in the windup more money than he has been averaging at the box office. In order to break even, he is tilting his prices to $1, $2 and $2.50 for the show.

Bud Gorman, of Kenosha, Wis., and New York, will be the principal attraction, pitted against Ike McFowler, of Johnstown, Negro heavyweight, who recently knocked out Chuck Taggert, of Butler, in easy fashion in the same ring. It will be the third meeting between Gorman and McFowler, the first two having been fought in Johnstown, and McFowler has yet to win a decision over Bud, who got an official draw the first time they met and grabbed the decision over him in their second clash.

BOXED SHARKEY TWICE

Gorman at one time was rated among the leading heavyweight contenders, and recently he has been showing flashes of his early form, his most notable achievement being the knocking out of Walter Cobb, the Baltimore sensation, who had the East by the ears until Gorman came along and halted his winning st

FOWNES TOPS CHAPMAN

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 28.—William C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, national amateur champion in 1910, blasted the hopes of a 16-year-old school boy in the annual midwinter golf tournament here yesterday, in the first round. Fownes won over A. J. Chapman by 2 and 1. They were even at the thirteenth where the Pittsburgh veteran scored a win. He added another at the fifteenth for victory. The cards:

	OUT	IN
Fownes	445	354	463—38
Chapman	443	455	364—38
	OUT	IN
Fownes	555	443	53
Chapman	455	544	53

Pittsburgh results in the other divisions:

Second—R. G. Morrison defeated H. C. Buckminster, Boston, 8 and 7.

Ray Babcock defeated J. P. Williamson, Wilkes Barre, 6 and 5.

Lawrence Barr lost to B. V. Covert, Lockport, N. Y., 2 up. A. P. Dysart defeated C. V. Paterno, New York, 1 up 20 holes.

National Amateur Cue Dates Set

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP.) — The National amateur billiard championship tournament yesterday was awarded to French Lick, Ind., starting March 17. Eight players, seven of them sectional winners, and the player holding the title at the time of the tournament, will compete. The date of the national amateur 18.2 balkline tournament, which will be held at St. Louis, was changed to March 10, instead of March 3.

PALO ALTO, Dec. 28.—The long-drawn out collegiate football campaign, near a month late now, will stage the next to its grand finale number of the 1929 entertainment here this afternoon, as the powerful elevens of Stanford University and West Point clash in the Cardinal Stadium here.

A crowd of close to 75,000 is expected to peer from the vastness of Pop Warner's bowl as the Red Shirts and Soldiers rip into each other, tooth, nail and cleat. All of the 75,000 to the man, or woman, or child, have it as you will, will be on hand, not only for the game itself, but to glimpse for the first time on the West Coast the scintillating figure of the great Red Cagle, Army all-America halfback ace, one of the greatest football players of the day. Cagle is to this particular football game what Jack Dempsey was to the fight racket. All the can talk about here is Cagle. Cagle. Can he go? Can't? Will he go? Or won't he

ODDS FAVOR CARDS

The Cadets are playing a return engagement, having entertained the Cardinals and their powerful reverses in New York a year ago and having taken a licking for their pains. Odds on the contest favor Stanford at about 10 to 8. They were considerably longer earlier in the week, dropping a bit when it was learned that Walter Heinecke, Pop's all-America center, would not be able to start and hardly is likely to get into the action at all. The sturdy Dutchman is a very important cog in Stanford's machine, and missing, may mean just the difference between victory and defeat.

Stanford, with its powerful line and a flock of good backs, of which Fleishhacker, Smalling, Frentrup, Moffatt and Rothert are leaders, certainly promises a more dangerous and more powerful offensive threat than any Army has encountered all year. On the defense, a slight edge must be accorded the Cadets, provided they play the same brand of football

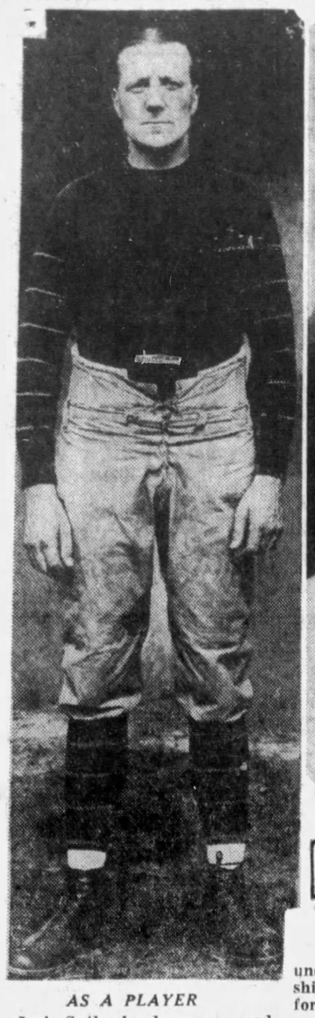
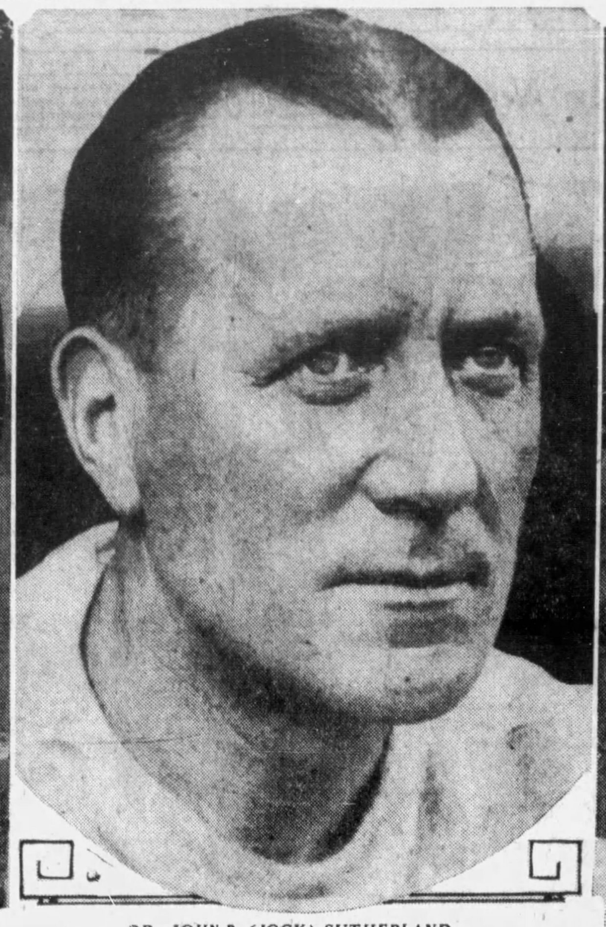
PITT'S COACH FOR FIVE MORE YEARS



AS A PLAYER

Jock Sutherland, as a guard on the undefeated University of Pittsburgh eleven under Coach Pop Warner, in 1916.



DR. JOHN B. (JOCK) SUTHERLAND

Pitt head coach, who is en route to Pasadena, Cal., with his undefeated Panther eleven, contender for the National championship, to play the Southern California Trojans, New Year's Day. Before leaving, he signed a contract to coach the Panthers for five more years, receiving, of course, a sizeable increase in salary. He has been coach of the Pitt elevens for the past six seasons, succeeding his mentor, Glenn (Pop) Warner, now at Stanford University.

ARMY PRIMED FOR CARDS

they exhibited in New York against Notre Dame.

The Soldiers played the best football of their year that day, only an extremely unfortunate break bringing the Irish their triumph.

The Cardinal line will be flanked by Capt. Mush Muller and Preston, a brace of highly-rated ends. Tandy and Thompson are slated to start the game at the tackles. Driscol and Bardin, the usual type of light, fast and tough Warner system linesmen, will be at the guards. Perry Taylor will be in the snapper-back position in the place of the ill Heinecke.

FLEISHHACKER TO START

Pop plans to start Fleishhacker, Frentrup, Rothert and Smalling in the backfield. He won't keep this Kid Moffatt out long, and when Moffatt goes in things are going to happen, if they haven't happened already. He is one of the best ball carriers on the team. Rothert, the weight star, will do the kicking, with Smalling and Frentrup taking care of most of the ball toting.

All year, Cagle has been used as the big offensive gun of the Army attack. Today don't be surprised if they use the titan-haired Keener as a threat—with young Gibner, a fast stepping, elusive back, ready and impatiently waiting to prance into stardom while the alert Redshirts are watching Crafty Cagle. It is this hunch that leads me to think the Army will win today. This, and the fact that the Soldiers are keyed up to a pitch higher than ever before.

Key up a ball club with the potentialities of the Army, and you have a very, very dangerous opponent.

Carlmark and Messing, the Army's fine ends, will hold their posts at the start. Price and Berry, regular tackles, are set to go at those positions. Hillsinger, one of the best guards in the East, and Humber will flank Miller at center. Lazar, the cadet who made the trip from West Point here via plane, will be the second choice for the pivot [illegible]

CARVER AT QUARTER

Carver figures to start quarterback, with Cagle and either Hutchison or O'Keefe at the halves, and the veteran, true and tried, Murrel, at full. If Gibner goes in, he'll take Carver's place at quarter. Murrel will do the kicking and some of the passing. Cagle, of course, handles the ball most of the time, and he and Murrel share the ball carrying entirely.

The Army enters today's game under the direction of Capt. L. McCall (Biff) Jones for the last time. Biff leaves the Military Academy in June to enter regular Army life. In this, we find another factor that is bound to have strong bearings on the outcome of the game. The Cadets love Biff, and they'll be in there fighting their heads off for their departing coach. Murrel, Carlmark and Cagle, all three wind up their varsity careers with today's game.

Stanford's reverse plays, from a variation of Pop's famous "formation B" and the battering attack to be launched at the Army line by Smalling and Rothert, are the things the Cadets must stop today ere a triumph is to be scored. Fleishhacker, backing up the line on the defense, will be entrusted with the task of stopping Murrel, the Cadet's fullback, as he plunges into the seething mass of arms and legs, Torsos, heads and grunts that will be the battling lines. Herbie can sock 'em if he is on, and today, all Stanford prays that he is just that.

Cagle's speed, provided he is not used merely as a decoy, will worry the Stanford ends, who will have to play a wide game. In this event, the Army coaches hope that Murrel will be able to crack the spread defense and that Cagle will be able to drive off the tackles and then, by virtue of his great speed and tricky running, clear the Stanford secondary defense.

The records of both elevens are spotty. Stanford was beaten by Southern California and Santa Clara. The Army lost to Yale, Illinois and Notre Dame, and was tied by a Harvard eleven which had not struck its best stride at the time it met the Cadets.

After losing to U. S. C. and Santa Clara, Pop brought his team along and kicked the stuffin' out of California, just when the Golden Bears thought they had the Pacific title all tied up and ready to be salted away in the Berkeley coffers.

All in all, it is going to be one pip of a ball game—with Pop trying to out-think Cagle and Cagle trying to out run Pop.

WEST LOSES LOM

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Eastern and Western football stars who will meet here New Year's Day in the Shriner's Hospital Charity game, reached the peak of their training activities yesterday with long, hard sessions. From now on the squads will begin a tapering off process.

Each squad has two players on the injured list. Tom Dowler, halfback, Colgate, and Bill Calderwood, fullback, Northwestern, have been out of the Eastern lineup for several days. Dowler, with a wrenched knee, is not expected to be in shape to play, although Coach Andy Kerr believes Calderwood will be available.

The West suffered a blow when Benny Lom, halfback, California, pulled a tendon. He is not looked upon as a likely starter. The two squads will be guests at the Army-Stanford game today.

Chicago's 1930 Race Card Is Announced

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Chicago's 1930 racing season will provide for 158 days of the sport, starting May 1, at Aurora, and closing at the same track October 1, under the allotment of dates by the Illinois Turf Association. In addition to the Metropolitan season, Illinois will have a meeting at the Fairmount track. The complete schedule:

At Aurora: May 1, to May 24, 21 days.
At Washington Park: May 26, to June 28, 30 days.
At Arlington Park: June 30, to August 2, 30 days.
At Hawthorne: August 4 to August 23, 18 days.
At Lincoln Fields: August 25 to September 27, 30 days.
At Hawthorne: September 29, to October 11, 12 days.
At Aurora: October 13 to October 31, 17 days.
At Fairmount: May 10 to July 5, 49 days.

Referees Ordered To Hold Up Purses

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—The Massachusetts Boxing Commission has instructed its referees to take either the whole or a part of the offending boxer's purse whenever they declare a bout "no contest" and state in writing before leaving the ring just what disposition shall be made of the money retained.

The commission, which described the recent Jackie Fields-Gorilla Jones bout as an object lesson, said it was inconsistent with the spirit of the state boxing laws to stop a bout and not impose the money penalty.

BEARS SIGN JONES

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Ralph Jones, who gained National fame as coach of the Lake Forest Academy prep football team during the past 10 years, yesterday signed to coach the Chicago Bears professional team next fall at a reported salary of $12,000.

GRIMES STANDS OUT IN N. L. RECORDS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Burleigh Grimes, stalwart slab star of the Pirates, is shown as a National League standout in the official pitching records of the National League given out today.

The spitball hurler is a good second to Southpaw Bill Walker, of the Giants in earned-run efficiency and third in the league as computed from games won and lost.

Burleigh Grimes

Charley Root, sturdy righthander of the Cubs is the leader of the regular flingers in the point of games won and lost. Guy Bush, further down the list in earned-run efficiency, is second to Root in victories and defeats.

WINS 22 GAMES

Perce (Pat) Malone of the Cubs was the lone pitcher of the circuit to win as many as 20 battles, Pat copping 22. The Altoona strong man is fourth in the earned-run list.

Jess Petty of the Pirates finished ninth among the earned-run hurlers despite his bad season. Jess came strong at the finish of the race.

Other high spots, as compiled by Al Munro Elias, league statistician, follow:

William Walker, New York, is the leading pitcher with the lowest average of 3.08 runs earned per nine-inning game, the highest mark with which a pitcher has led the league in effectiveness since the inception of earned run rating in 1912. Charles H. Root, Chicago, is the leader on the basis of games won and lost, with 19 victories and 6 defeats for .760. Guy T. Bush, Chicago, took part in the most games, 50. Claude Willoughby, Philadelphia, allowed the most runs, 156. Charles F. Lucas, Cincinnati, engaged in the most complete games, 28, the only pitcher to take part in as many as 20 complete games.

McGRAW FINISHES MOST

Robert E. McGraw, Philadelphia, finished the greatest number of games, 24. William W. Clark, Brooklyn, pitched in the most innings, 279, lost the most decisions, 19, faced the greatest number of batsmen, 1189, and allowed the most base hits, 295. Perce L. Malone, Chicago, had the most victories, 22, being the only pitcher to reach the 20 mark in victories. He also pitched the most shutouts, 5, and struck out the most opponents, 166. This was the first time since 1922 that a pitcher other than Arthur C. Vance, Brooklyn, has led the league in strikeouts. Ray Benge, Philadelphia, allowed the most sacrifice hits, 35, and was responsible for the most earned runs, 139.

E. Clise Dudley, Brooklyn, hit the most batsmen, 10. J. Fred Blake, Chicago, gave the most bases on balls, 130. Douglas L. McWeeny, Brooklyn, made the most wild pitches, 11.

Carl O. Hubbell New York, pitched the only no-hit game of the season, holding the Pittsburgh club hitless on May 8, New York winning the game, 11 to 0.

HOLOHAN GOES EAST

Graduate Manager of Athletics John D. Holohan and Assistant Football Coach Joe Bach, of Duquesne University, will leave tonight for New York, where they will attend the annual meeting of American college football coaches tomorrow and Monday. They hope to book a strong Eastern team here for next November 22.

TRIALS ARE CARDED

The Bakerstown Coon and Gun Club will stage two events on New Year's Day. The first event, starting at 12:30 o'clock, will be a coon trial, which will be followed at 3 o'clock by a fox trial.

By JULIUS LEVIN

Revenge will be the objective of the Goldensons tonight when they meet the Homestead Ackermans in the Homestead Elks Hall in one of the two Allegheny County League battles on the program. In the other contest the Fintex aggregation invades Charleroi to tangle with the Lions.

The Ackermans defeated the Goldensons at the South Side Market House recently, the first of two reverses suffered by the South Siders, and it is their intention to turn the tables tonight. The battle brings together two natural rivals and fans are anticipating a tough contest from start to finish.

The Ackermans include in their lineup several former Goldenson stars, who seem to take especial delight in defeating their former teammates. Among them are Moon and Boots Klinzing and Art McGuirk.

The Charleroi Lions should furnish no trouble to the Fintex combine, as they have yet to win a league game.

In the West Penn League tonight, North Side Community House invades Edgewood for the only contest on the card.

One game is carded in the South Side Catholic Lyceum League, St. John appearing at St. Joseph.

East Liberty Y. M. C. A. will face one of its oldest rivals on the Y. M. C. A. floor tonight when it entertains Fred Yetter's Kingsley House passers. Next Wednesday night the Wash.-Jeff. College outfit will be the East Liberty attraction.

California Court Leader Ineligible

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Percy Teneyck, captain and center of the University of California basketball team, was declared ineligible yesterday because of scholastic deficiencies. He will be permitted to take a "make up" examination, but will be unable to participate in the intersectional series with University of Kansas, January 2, 3 and 4 at Kansas City, and Lawrence, Kan.

DAVIES HURT IN FALL

WEE WILLIE IN BAD SHAPE IN HOSPITAL

TORONTO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Wee Willie Davies, Charleroi, Pa., flyweight, was seriously injured last night when he fell through the ropes during his bout with Steve Rocco, of Toronto, at the Coliseum. His head struck heavily on the press table. After efforts to revive him failed, he was taken to a hospital.

The accident occurred in the sixth round after Rocco had led through most of the fight. In the sixth the husky Toronto lad trapped Davies' right arm under his own in a clinch and swung to one side. As he did, Davies broke away but fell head first through the ropes and onto the press table.

After preliminary treatment failed to revive him, Davies was taken to a hospital, where his condition was declared serious. It was feared his skull may have been fractured.

No decision was given after the bout. The match was scheduled for a 10-round semi-final on the Shamrock Athletic Club's flyweight tournament card. A crowd of 7,500 saw the matches.

In an earlier bout, Jackie Phillips, Canadian welterweight champion, 142½, defeated Johnny Sacco, of Buffalo, 140, by decision, in six rounds.

feats, including members of the undefeated Texas Christian and Southern Methodist teams.

The Pittsburgh squad of 33, making its trip to the coast by easy jumps, took advantage of the first ideal weather it had struck to engage in a lengthy workout. Coach Jock Sutherland put his huskies through a long signal drill and then let them romp and pass and kick to their hearts content. Uansa and Donchess came in for a lion's share of attention from the several hundred fans who watched the Panthers practice. Officials said the entire Pittsburgh squad was in great condition and confident of victory over Southern California. The team left for El Paso, its next stop, after the banquet.

Coach Ray Morrison's Southwest all-stars worked out on an adjoining field to the Panthers, while Jimmy Phelan's Midwest boys practiced at Fairpark Stadium, across the city.

TROJANS READY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—The Trojans, of the University of Southern California, are ready for the New Year's Day game at the Pasadena Rose Bowl against the University of Pittsburgh.

Coach Howard Jones said today the team has been prepared for the fray without one actual scrimmage, although dummy scrimmage against the Pitt Panthers' plays has taken place daily.

"If the kids haven't learned to play football by this time," said Jones, "it's time we all quit."

"The players are all in excellent condition and I don't want to take a chance on injuries. They have played lots of football this year and one scrimmage won't help them any. We are ready for a tough game; in fact, we expect a tough game.

"Personally, I expect it will be a pippin, at least from the spectators' viewpoint. I think the contest won't be decided until the last quarter and I'm only hoping to win."

Waynesburg, D. & E. In Two-Year Pact

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 28.—Announcement was made today by James Miller, faculty manager of athletics at Waynesburg College, that a two-year football contract had been signed by Waynesburg and Davis and Elkins College. The games will be played on a home and home basis, the Yellow Jackets being slated to appear at Elkins next fall.

earlier win. Hib gave one of the most brilliant exhibitions of poke checking ever witnessed here in the December 14 fray when he broke up about two out of every three American drives in center ice.

DEFENSE STRENGTHENED

Lowrey is a hustler, a fighter, and a strong attacker, but he falls short of the Milks, Frederickson and Drury standards as a defensive center, and it is likely that the Pirates will have to register several goals if they are to win tomorrow.

Gordon Fraser, defense stalwart who was obtained from Les Canadiens in exchange for Bert McCaffrey, will make his debut as a Pirate in the New York tilt. McCaffrey is to make his debut as a Canadien tonight.

Johnny MacKinnon, who returned to the lineup on Thursday, and who was compelled to limit his appearances on the ice to a few minutes because of the weakened condition of his ankle, will be able to do much more work tomorrow, and with Fraser and Rog Smith in form the defense should be well taken care of.

GORMAN MEETS IKE M'FOWLER

ner, Ted Jamison and Sully Montgomery.

Bud has boxed throughout Europe, as well as the United States, and has engaged Jack Sharkey, now the leading contender for the vacant heavyweight title, twice, winning by a decision in 10 rounds in 1925 and losing on a foul in two rounds in 1926. He is big, a clever boxer and a good hitter.

GRIFFITHS TOPS RISKO; EARL MASTRO WINS

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Gerald Ambrose Griffiths, the rough and tough young heavyweight from Sioux City, Ia., punched out a clean-cut victory last night over Johnny Risko, the Cleveland shock-absorber, in 10 bruising, slashing rounds in Madison Square Garden.

Gerald Ambrose met and beat the veteran at his own rough and tumble, longshoreman's style of fighting. He took nine of the 10 rounds without the slightest question. Although he failed to score anything like a knockdown, Griffiths had the fight well in hand from the start, frequently staggered Risko with savage rights to the jaw and gained the unanimous decision of the judges and Referee Jack Denning.

So convincing was the victory for Griffiths that ringside experts afterward freely predicted that he would draw the much-debated assignment to fight Jack Sharkey in the 1930 edition of the Battle of the Palms at Miami, Fla.

A crowd estimated, in cash customers, at not much more than 10,000 saw Griffiths outbox, outfight and out-rough Risko at close range, where the Cleveland veteran usually is at his best. Risko's big pull in the weights, 192 to 184½ for Griffiths, did not appear to do him any good. The gross receipts for the fight were $42,466.39.

Paul Cavalier, of Paterson, N. J., 192½, battered his way to a decision over Harold Mays, of Bayonne, N. J., 191½, in the 10-round semi-final.

Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, O., considered a formidable light heavyweight title contender at one time, was knocked out in one round by Larry Johnson, of Chicago. Sekyra was counted out from a solid right-hand smash to the jaw after one minute 46 seconds of scrapping.

MASTRO STOPS TAYLOR

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute terror of the featherweights, fell victim to a technical knockout in the ninth round of his sensational battle with Earl Mastro, of Chicago, in the Chicago Stadium last night.

The fight ended with both Taylor and Mastro lying outside the ring, their feet dangling over the second rope. Taylor had floored Mastro and then fell through the ropes with him, wrenching his back as his body hit the edge of the ring.

The finish of the slashing fight sent the crowd of 16,211 spectators into an uproar. The battle up to the knockout was a thrilling encounter. Mastro had a shade the best of it. The two gamecocks of the featherweight division fought toe to toe, ripping punches to the head and body. Neither retreated and they rarely clinched. Mastro stood up under Taylor's fire and gave more than he received. Taylor's big efforts were made in the third and ninth rounds.

It was evident as the fight progressed that Taylor was lying back waiting for one shot. But when he did land that punch that might have won the fight, he went tumbling through the ropes, with subsequent injury, that made him a technical knockout victim.

Mastro conceded 2¼ pounds to Taylor scaling 122¾ to Taylor's 125.

Hein Mueller, clever young German heavyweight, scored his second American triumph by decisively defeating Elzear Rioux, a lumbering Canadian giant, in the 10-round semi-windup. Mueller weighed 184 and Rioux 200¼.

Between Rounds

Jackie Rodgers, Negro bantamweight, of the North Side, will be gunning for his sixth straight knockout victory when he meets Pete Zivic, cagy veteran, of Lawrenceville, in the 10-round main bout of the New Year's matinee at Motor Square Garden. He has stopped Dan Billick in one round; Carl Cavelli in two and then again in four, Pete Mazzo in three and Davy Adelman in two in his last five starts. Zivic contends that a good, fast-moving boxer can spike Jackie's guns and that he is just the type to do it.

Freddie Edwards, of Chester, W. Va., who meets Hans Roberts, the German, in the eight-round semi-final at the Garden, claims a record of 19 knockout victories, 19 decisions and only one defeat in 39 battles. Robert's only defeat since he came here and established himself has been by Tommy Maico, of Soho, who cut him about the eyes and forced him to surrender by the technical knockout route. The Garden card has been completed with the signing of Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, to box Romeo Pacelli, of New Castle, in the second bout, and Sammy Paris, of the Hill, to oppose Young Nanci, of Swissvale, in the opener. Pacelli substituted against Hargraves on short notice at the Garden some weeks ago and held the Negro puncher to a draw. Since then he has knocked out Joey Katkish and U. S. Carpentier in bouts at New Castle.

SCHWARTZ IN BOSTON

Benny Schwartz, Baltimore bantamweight, now is under the management of Johnny Buckley in Boston. He boxes Art Giroux in a 10-round bout at Salem, Mass., New Year's afternoon.

The next amateur boxing show at the Keystone Athletic Club will be between teams representing that club and the Cleveland A. C., on Tuesday evening, January 28.

The Motor Square Club is trying to close a match between Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., and Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, for January 6, and a return match between Tony Herrera, of Chicago, and Tommy Crawley, of the South Side and Steubenville, for January 13.

Promoter Francis Flynn is angling for an opponent for Tommy Maico in the main bout of his show next Friday night. The Temple was dark last night because of Flynn's inability to throw together a good card for the occasion.

Young Guido, of Sharon, is now a full-fledged 160-pounder and will not be found fighting the heavy-weiterweights in the future.

COCHRAN, HOPPE SPLIT

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Welker Cochran, Pacific Coast star, yesterday divided honors with the veteran Willie Hoppe in two blocks of their 400-point three-cushion billiard match. In the four blocks played, Hoppe has a lead of 260 to 178.

Fight Results

DOUGLAS PLAYS SWITCH TODAY

GAME TODAY.

Union Switch vs. Clan Douglas (Brannigan).

By TOM BIRKS.

The outstanding battle of the District League will be fought at Swissvale today when the Union Switch and Signal and Clan Douglas teams decide the leadership of that particular loop. And really, there is a chance that the winner of this game will win the league title. Both teams use the field as their home battle grounds, and that should be an added attraction for the fans.

Union Switch has been playing brilliant football of late, and there is reason to feel that, should its front line function, the game should be put on ice. It will be called at 3 o'clock.

It seems as though the critics are getting their signals crossed regarding the Cecil protest. The local commissioner hinted that it was the introduction of a substitute into the game without notifying the referee that won the protest. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph riddled that flimsy protest yesterday, and now we hear there was a question regarding the status of Grilli and Rossi, who substituted. But the only information the referee was asked to send to the national amateur cup commissioner was to the time and place of Rossi's entrance into the game.

Soccer is getting to be quite a technical game. In basketball, football, hockey or other sports no penalty is inflicted if the man enters the game when the teams line up for the second half. And should a substitute enter the game in football during the game without reporting, it would only be a minor penalty, and not necessitate a replay of the game. In all these sports, if the penalty is not inflicted when it happens, it cannot be inflicted at all. But it seems soccer is different. We have with us certain people who are poor losers and looking for a chance to win games over the table that cannot be won on the playing field. Which, when all is summed up, does not help the game, and the fans are bitterly opposed to it.

Joe and Vi, having spent most of their married life in quarreling, feel it is high time they dwell in peace and amity, and manfully stick to their resolution for two whole weeks. Unwonted extravagance on Vi's part, late poker parties by Joe, and any number of equally potent causes of discontent go unnoticed by this typically American couple, until at last the strain is too great to be born, and with a typically American family quarrel, the two principals resume their cat and dog existence.

HELD FOR DEATH OF STEPFATHER

Vincent P. Sweeney, 26, of 68 Edgewood avenue, Hays, is being held in the county jail today pending a coroner's inquest into the fatal shooting yesterday of his stepfather, John J. Fitzgerald, 65, an industrial policeman. According to city detectives, Sweeney shot his step-father when the two struggled for possession of a revolver.

Sleuths say that Sweeney recently moved with his wife, into the first floor of his stepfather's home, over the wishes of his stepparent. Early yesterday Fitzgerald is said to have ordered Sweeney from the house and attempted to force his demands with a revolver.

Sweeney says they struggled and the gun was knocked to the ground. Sweeney obtained the weapon and ordered the older man away. The father obtained a pitchfork and advanced. Sweeney said he fired at the stepfather only when his life was in danger from the fork.

BOYS SENT TO REFORMATORY

Peter Lucas, 17, of 517 East Lacock street, and Steve Lukaszevcz, who plead guilty to robbery before Judge Harry H. Rowand of Criminal Court, were yesterday committed to Huntingdon until they are 21.

The boys admitted beating and robbing James Alperny, 55, of 2104 Lautner street, while walking in Goettman street, September 10. Lucas told the court he had been drinking. Alperny was handled so roughly by the youths, it was necessary to put a dozen stitches in his head and sew up the left eye, which had been cut.

again. The loser tomorrow night will hold the questionable distinction of having made the poorest showing in either division of the National League. The record of the Pirates to date is just an eyelash better than that of the Americans, due to the fact that they managed to get a tie on one occasion when the New Yorkers lost. Pittsburgh has won three games, lost 11 and tied one, whereas the Americans have won three and lost 12. It's a great race.

Johnny Risko.

FOR once, Johnny Risko failed to pull his old act of coming back when he appeared to be out of the heavyweight running and upsetting the dope by defeating a seemingly superior opponent. Tuffy Griffiths put a stop to the comeback stuff and ran true to the form expected of him by outfighting the Cleveland baker boy and winning the decision over him in their 10-round tilt in New York last night. The result is not to be taken, by any means, as indicating that Risko was too far gone to be able to produce one of his surprising flashes of form. That would not be giving Griffiths the credit he deserves for his victory. Risko still is a tough foeman, and it was no mean achievement for Tuffy to beat him. The Sioux City product is coming along steadily and looks more than ever like a battler who is destined to make considerable trouble for the other heavies who have been enjoying a higher rating.

ANOTHER bout of last night that ran true to the general advance dope was that between Earl Mastro and Bud Taylor in Chicago, from which Mastro emerged a decisive winner by a technical knockout in the ninth round. Though their first meeting in October was called a draw, ringsiders were of the opinion that the verdict was unjust to Mastro, and last night's result bore out the claims of the little Italian's superiority.

Taylor may have slipped some after his 10 years in the ring, yet it takes a fighter of real class to beat him, and the manner in which Mastro disposed of the former bantam champion is new evidence that the Chicago lad is a ring workman of uncommon ability. If the proposed match between last night's winner and Kid Chocolate is arranged it ought to lead to one of the greatest battles fought between little fellows in many moons.

Miss Pat

CHAPTER XLIV.

THEY dropped into a fog, dropped like a shot through chill, blinding mists. The fog roared; it beat against her with terrific clamor. She heard voices bellowing, heard frightful thumping sounds.

It was her heart's mad pulse, it was the child speaking. And her own voice that now set up this loud warning bellow:

"Jump—pull the cord. Jump—pull the cord! PULL IT! YOU'RE CLEAR!"

Hypnotically, unconscious of her own obedience, Pat's finger sought and found the ring. With a bitter jolt that tore her arms from their frantic embrace about the child, the risers jerked her upright.

She found herself crying. She cried in protesting terror of that rough jolt which had torn her arms apart.

Dazedly she felt the child's hands still clasped at her neck; sobbing, she heard his murmurs in her ears.

Then her brain cleared. He couldn't fall. Oh, lucky she'd strapped him so and blinded him so! No sensation of falling told little Billy Bryce that he'd plunged from the stark precipitous ledge.

"Pat, let me get down. Why did you scream? Why do you stand so still? I can't breathe. Take the bandage off."

Through the long, panic-filled moment while the chute opened, Pat felt his arms tugging at her neck, heard his insistent questions. But she glanced upward; she trembled with an insane relief. The huge folds of silk spread out—oh, functioning perfectly—floating on billows of blue tranquility.

She gave a soft, hysterical laugh, wound her arms eagerly about this little struggling form: "Quiet—remember. That's the game. Not a word. Pussy—hush! Leave the blindfold on. I'm running . . . like a fairy runs, so quickly you can't even feel me moving. You'll see. Oh, please—a moment more!"

God—if his terror should spoil it now, should tear him from her now—

They floated past canyon walls, drifted gently down the vast purple chasms. Ledge upon ledge, column by column. Sharp, terrifying, tremendously sheer, the cliffs went plunging. Somewhere, an eternity distant, they mingled with the shadowy, abysmal gorges.

In these they would land. With flashing brightness, all Pat had ever read of parachute jumps and parachute landings went careening through her mind. She must guide the 'chute. Look down now and find a suitable area.

But how? Almost smothered with the overpowering responsibility, Pat looked down. They were frightfully near the canyon floor. They were hovering over a black, rocky creek bed. A black, formidable ravine. Lost if they hurled into that!

She gave a sharp yank at the 'chute. It went further across the ravine. These terrible river beds that in a night, in an hour and without warning fill with raging waters She'd heard of them!

She pulled mightily on the other lines, pulled with all her strength and pleaded bitterly: "Billy—don't jerk—don't cry—we're almost there—almost in fairy land.....wait!"

The 'chute swept over the ravine—swept above smooth, safe ground. Another instant! They went bumping—went flinging, the safe, sweet earth beneath their feet. The 'chute dragged them over the ground. The child clung to Pat's neck and cried frantically.

But for a dazzling moment Pat lay with the youngster hugged in her arms, for a heavenly moment with the tears streaming down her cheeks. Saved! Wondrously saved—oh, beautiful, astonishing goodness!

She rolled the parachute into its pack, she told the little boy hysterical, incredulous tales.

"Yes—we jumped. From way up there."

"No—we DIDN'T! I know when you jump. I can jump."

"Then we flew. See—the parasol carried us down—we floated here."

"Well—I want to see. Why didn't you let me see? How did you do it?"

Pat gave a crazy, delirious laugh: "I don't know! That's one thing I'll never know!"

Shaking from head to foot—unable to believe that the thing had happened and she had lived through it, had brought the child safely out of it, Pat's dazed eyes now searched the ledge from which she had jumped.

Everywhere with endless, stupefying sweep, the walls rose. They shot upward to the skies, bold, abrupt, formidable. Here they were naked walls, and here they were titanic canveses flung from earth to clouds and painted in gorgeous exaggerated red, lavender, blue. But everywhere wall towered above wall, cliff climbed on cliff.

Suddenly the child said: "Look! Can they see us?"

Half way between earth and sky—right there as though poised on a mere black dot, two figures struck out in sharp relief, the figures of [illegible]

They looked small—like pigmies. But they made Pat's hand now clutch violently at Billy's. They made a scarlet heat in her face.

"Pat—look. They see us! They won't come down, will they? Have they parasols to float down with?"

"It's shadowy here," Pat murmured more to herself than to her small, uneasy companion. "They can't pick us out. In another hour the light will be completely gone."

But there leaped up in her heart the terror of that moment as she hesitated, as she leaned against the sandstone shaft, and turning saw the two furious men running across the plateau—driving with burning, raging speed upon her. Ah—they had almost touched her elbow—almost pulled her back.

They were pointing. They had watched her land. Could they mark the spot?

Now they separated. They were running along the rim. They were starting down.

"They dare not! They can not!" Pat closed her eyes. She knelt on the ground and drew the child to her. Speaking to quiet her own dizzy fear:

"They'll go crashing to death if they try it now with the sun gone—with all these black shadows . . . God—they cannot find us now!"

One man plunged on. He ran like a maniac. The other caught up with him. He held to him. For a moment they appeared to be falling. Up there, etched against the sunset sky, they seemed about to tumble headlong. If they would!

Now they receded—their figures drew back against the red wall of rock. Swiftly, visibly the shadows trooping across the canyon walls folded them in.

Now the ledge on which they stood was merged—now it was swallowed up in a purple dusk.

Never in all her life had Pat been so trembling thankful as she was now to see the dark closing down on the pit where she knelt with the little frightened boy in her arms.

"They won't find us, Pat?"

"No! They can't get down here tonight. And before morning—before the sun comes up, you and I will be gone."

He laughed: "I'm hungry, Pat."

She felt in her pockets, for the first time making sure that her provisions were safe. Everything—even the flashlight—even the box of matches.

The girl and the little boy found a miniature cave with a roof of sandstone. They sat here telling each other stories and eating from a can of tuna fish.

"And are we like Robinson Crusoe? Tell me about him all over. I'll be the man Friday. Is this a desert island?"

Pat prayed that night. She sat with the child in her arms. He slept and she prayed. With all her frightened heart she asked for a light to find the way out—the way home again.

The darkness that had terrified her before now seemed a gift, a heaven-sent gift. Long before sunrise—long before these men could track her, she would be on that lighted way.

Cold—the little boy's hands lay on Pat's throat. He shivered. Then Pat undid the parachute and wrapped him and herself in its folds. She, too, slept now.

Morning! With a start—with new-born panic, Pat awakened. She got up quietly—roused the child. She went searching this way—that way. She passed in circles.

But there was a way out—surely a way out.

Now the sun came up.

Not expectant—merely cautious, Pat scanned the cliffs—she found the ledge.

She took the child's hand and began running—running forward—any way.

They were started down. Both men—Ace and Slim—were coming down the cliffs—coming after them.

"SUCH IS LIFE"

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

SUCH, when you see her limned, is the face of Life—Madame Life. She is two-faced. One face is a mask, and beneath it is her real one. Our terrible difficulty in this world is to find out, each of us, which is her true face. I think, I hope, I believe that her true one is the happy one, the beautiful one—smiling, to-be-believed-in, sunny, good, worth-having, gay! I HOPE so—for you as well as me. And that the perishable mark, the passing, false-face that you see is just an aspect, not a reality. The papier-mache covering for a sad space, the warm, sweet countenance of LIFE.

I have made the tragic mask she wears ugly—not the terrible but beautiful face that is sometimes put upon the poetic pictures of "Grief." For real grief, real fear, fear of poverty, disgrace, leaving a beloved child with no money and no one who can be trusted to love and understand it, fear for the work that keeps you, all the sadness and pain that life sometimes shows herself in, are NEVER beautiful! Pain and fear and grief and disillusionment are ugly, and so I have put on the mask's face ugliness, mixed with the paint, the makeup and the sorrow of the clown. Tragic, but ugly. On Life's other face—you remember, we hope it's the real one—is color, beauty, gaiety, sparkle, value; and she is crowned with roses for the perfume and the sweetness of life.

All the way along his highway man encounters, with each shock of change and adjustment, this terrible problem; which is Life's true face? Is she worth the having, fair and candid, or gloomy, ugly and untrue? What is she?

A baby first born into the light and air objects strenuously to the change in the condition of warmth and food and quiet with no smallest effort on his tiny part. For a little space he thinks life in the world a fearful disappointment, a thing of noise, bright lights and effort; and he tells you so!

Again the small child who first has to do "as other say," who first faces that awful moment when life is discovered to be not all play and a fellow has to study a book or two, or "practice"—fiendish word!—who finds that it sometimes rains when a picnic is on the calandar, that the world bucks you and does not always give you your way. Another rough place in the road where Life dimly shows her face to be not always rose-crowned and rosey. Poor child, to find she HAS another face is sorrow!

The youngster hears the word "work" along with his name, being said at his house, or hers, seriously. And feels a dim terror of unknown things, as if he were already far from home, unloved. People do not always tell the truth—people one loves, even! Nobody understands one—everyone expects so much—childhood is behind. Another change. Another glimpse of Life's troubled face. Another struggle, another adjustment.

From then on the grown-up is a warrior fighting for his faith in a lady! To prove to himself the beauty of her face. The beauty of LIFE, who shocks him over and over again with an unlovely or, at least, not perfect visage. There in the word "perfect" is his trouble, from the little boy to the old man; he expected her to be perfect, and alas, Life is very human.

That one who battles along through many spots common to us all, where Life's beauty seems the falseface, her mask of disillusion the real one, and comes out triumphantly sure that she's after all a lovely thing, wholly desirable, has made a success of his own particular war. He's won it!

NELL BRINKLEY.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

That Modish Figure Is Result of Dieting

IT is a surprising fact that the fashions, to a large extent, determine the health of the women of today. Yet this is true.

DR COPELAND

A few years back the great modists of the world decided that the fashionable figure must be the slender one. No woman of curves could wear the clothes they designed.

And so to be stylish, dieting became the rage. Classes in dieting, schools of diet sprang up over night. Everyone, man, woman and child become intensely interested in losing weight. Persons who never gave thought previously to whether they weighed 100 or 200, found their weight to be a matter of vital importance.

In many instances this was an excellent thing. But it was overdone. It was forgotten that in all things moderation should be our watchword.

Your overweight is not important merely as a matter of looks. It is important because it may shorten your life. Then it becomes something of real concern, something far more important than merely being fashionable.

Dieting is a matter requiring real effort. But please remember, it is only good when practiced in moderation.

If you are going to reduce, do it by the natural method of eating less of the wrong foods and more of the proper ones. Exercise more than has been your habit.

You must learn to make a wise selection of foods. It is not necessary to starve yourself, or to grow weak from the need of food. When you study food values it does not take long to find out what substances must be taken sparingly because of their richness in fats and carbohydrates. At the same time, you will learn what food may be taken in unlimited quantities.

Well chosen systematically employed physical exercises are of great value. But they are of no use unless used every single day with energy sufficient to produce what I always refer to as "honest sweat." Simply to persipre is not enough—one can can do that in a hot room. You must produce perspiration by the muscular effort you make. Perspiration of this sort seems actually to dissolve the fat.

Drink plenty of water. All the water the system craves may be taken in safety. Do not drink much with meals. When taken then it serves merely to wash down a surplus of food. But when taken between meals it helps to dissolve the wastes and to put into solution those materials which should be taken from the body.

I am more and more concerned over the fact that so many women dose themselves with powerful drugs which have a reputed value in taking off flesh. It is not safe to use these drugs. You cannot afford to trifle with your good health by any such violent efforts at reduction.

Use common sense in this matter of reducing. Then you will be improving your health as well as your figure.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky's Good Humor Makes It Easier for Madge to 'Confess'

EDITH FAIRFAX'S light, apparently careless laugh floated back to us as she went down the hotel corridor from our apartment to that of the Underwoods, where a bridge game was being held for her. But I shivered at the malevolence which I knew was in that laughter and in the seemingly jesting words which she had addressed to us. She had scored decidedly. Whatever explanation I should make to Dicky now of the rose bowl incident would be accompanied in his mind by Edith's insinuation that I was giving it only because of my fear of her revelations.

He looked after her, frankly puzzled. Then his eyes came back to me with an expression in them which quickened my pulses. It was one of freindly camaraderie so unexpected after his finding me talking to Philip Veritzen in our deserted apartment that I could hardly believe the evidence of my eyes. Then I remembered the weather cock tendencies of my temperamental Peter Pan and knew that, not having seen the true cause of the shattered rose bowl, he had been appeased by Philip Veritzen's plausible, and strictly truthful, reasons for wishing to talk to me undisturbed. My husband was in a most comfortable good humor, and I sent a mental invective after the woman whose parting jibe in all probability would make my talk with by husband a most uncomfortable one.

"What's eating Ede, anyway?" he asked. "She sounds peeved. I hope you two haven't been quarreling."

There was sudden dismay in his voice, and I realized not for the first time how big a role Edith Fairfax, as his business partner, played in his life.

"Oh, nothing so banal," I said airily, for I was resolved to put the whole affair upon as commonplace a plane as possible. "She's just indulging herself in a 'gentle jape,' that's all. Come in and let me tell you about it. She's perfectly right in one thing. I do want to tell you about it myself, although I am sure my version would be the same as Edith's."

"For the love of Adam, also Abimilech!" Dicky exploded. "Will you tell me what all this is about?" His voice sounded the usual masculine distaste for mysteries and I hurried into my explanation as I motioned him to a seat and sat down opposite him.

"It's simply this," I said. "Mr. Veritzen didn't give you the real reason for that bowl of roses upsetting and breaking. He was not admiring it and he had no reason to believe it was a costly piece, for he had not seen it because it was so obscured by the roses. And you were right—it did come from the five-and-ten-cent store."

Dicky stared at me, his eyes shadowing.

"Then what the devil?" he began.

"You know how theatrical Mr. Veritzen is," I said quickly. "He wanted to see me because he is much disturbed over Noel's patent feeling for Mary. He is panic-stricken, the fatuous old fool, for fear something will happen to break up the royal alliance he's worked so hard to bring about. Because we distinctly do not want him interfering, I assuaged his fears about Noel and promised to look after the boy. In his emotional gratitude he caught hold of my hands. I do not care for gratitude manifested in that particular manner"—I tried to make my voice delicately disdainful—"and I twisted them away. The bowl of roses was perilously near the edge, and it fell and shattered. You and Edith came in just at that moment, and—why—what?"

My eyes were wide with wonder, for my husband, instead of frowning or making any other manifestation of anger, was slapping his knee with his open palm and laughing boisterously.

"I'm thinking of the jolt he'll get when he finds out the bowl he was touting as such an 'unusual specimen' really came from the five-and-ten. Maybe it will teach the old goat not to be so ready with his fibs another time. But it evidently is his creed to 'lie like a gentleman,' and protect the lady in every case. And you have to slip it to him. He's a quick thinker. He sure pulled a nifty one. Just for that I'll never let on that I'm onto the joke. But where does Ede come in on this?"

"Edith saw Mr. Veritzen take my hands," I said, trying to keep back a flush.

Dicky's eyes darkened suddenly.

"Is that the reason you told me this?" he blurted out, and then added a quick, horrified, "Oh! Sorry! You know I didn't mean that. And, of course, we both know Ede would never have mentioned it."

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Delegate No One to Express Your Thanks

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A man I go about with and myself quite frequently go out with a friend of ours. He does not take a girl, and we usually go in his car. When we leave him, should I thank him, or is it entirely up to my friend? I never have, as I think it is the duty of the fellow only. Please tell me whether or not I should.

BEATRICE.

IT IS the gracious "duty," the social duty, of the person who has been offered any sort of hospitality or other kindness to thank the one who has been kind. It does seem rather foolish—doesn't it?—to delegate the expression of our thanks to another person. By all means, do your own thanking, as graciously, as charmingly, and as expressively as possible. No fault can ever be found with too much thanking. But much can be found with too little thanking. And this kind friend, who takes you in his car, should feel that both you and your friend are appreciative people. When next you go with him, and thank him, watch how pleased he will be.

Traveling Unchaperoned

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Is it proper for a young lady to travel, unchaperoned, quite a distance with a young man? They are not engaged.

2. Does it seem improper for a young lady to visit in the same house as a young man whom she has no intention of becoming engaged to, or marrying?

3. A lady, while traveling, doesn't necessarily have to wear a suit, does she?

WONDERING.

"QUITE a distance" is a bit vague, for our ideas vary considerably about what "quite a distance" is. If the trip is in the day time, it would be quite all right, if they are old enough, for the young man and the young woman to go on the train together. But if the trip is for over night, on a Pullman, it mustn't be done.

2. No, there is no reason why they should not visit in the same house if they are visiting a family.

3. No, she may wear a dark dress and coat.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

And We Call It 'Pep'!

THIS is an age of efficiency, "pep," high-pressure nerves and high-power vitality!

How we DO love to boast of our energy, our speed, our cold plunges, our super-men and our super-women!

But ARE we so "super"—shush!—or are we just lazy?

We are too lazy to control our children. So we let them do as they please, eat what they please and make themselves as ridiculous as they please—and call it "free verse."

We are too lazy to learn to draw. So we make a few cubes on a canvas—and call it "self-expression!"

* * *

We are too lazy to make our poetry rhyme. So we write it without rhyme or beauty—and call it "free verse."

* * *

Men are too lazy to face marriage and the struggle of supporting a family, and women are too lazy to face the burden of rearing children and keeping house for a man. So most of them stay single—and call it "independence."

Those of us who do marry are too lazy to make the effort to adjust ourselves to each other. So we rush to the divorce courts—and call it "incompatibility."

* * *

We are too lazy to walk. So we ride in taxicabs and automobiles and grow FAT—and then resort to massage and dieting to keep us from arterio sclerosis.

We are even too lazy to endure the high-pressure emotions and rarefied idealism of REAL LOVE. So we run for our lives when we see it coming and just play around with a lot of little imitation loves—and call it "living our own lives!"

* * *

We are too lazy to exercise our spiritual natures. So we stay away from church and spend our Sundays on the golf links—and call it "getting next to nature."

We are even too lazy to FLIRT. So we pass over all the hors d'oeuvres of romance—and get right down to the petting party and the kiss!

Efficient? Peppy? Energetic? Oh, tell that to the insomniacs! It's a beautiful bedtime story!

We are probably the laziest generation that ever graced this gracious old world. We are all acquiring a trophy of the spiritual nature, hardening of the emotions and tonsilitis of the EGO!

* * *

We are victims of the great god Laziness!

Horoscopes

Sunday, December 29

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of very intriguing and perplexing circumstances. It is probable that there may be an unforeseen change, hardly desirable or understandable. Yet it may be concerned with advantageous writings or contracts and will be met with equanimity because of the poised and sensible mental outlook.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of abrupt and perplexing change, possibly provoked by favorable contracts or other writings. And while there may be a great surprise in this sudden visitation the stable and wise mental and spiritual philosophy will bring satisfactory adjustments and emoluments.

A child born on this day should have many unusual and intriguing talents and faculties. It should be extremely versatile and clever and at the same time be of profound spiritual vision.

Monday, December 30

MONDAY'S astrological chart presages many activities and changes, with readjustments of many lines of interest. There may be much excitement and surprise in these, with some unwelcome developments, but industry, fidelity and sterling qualities and talents are assured substantial recognition. Employment and promotion, as well as personal relations, are under most benign rule, and all worthwhile things should flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of preferment, promotion and substantial return for fidelity and good work. There may be sudden changes, but these bring excellent opportunity, better fields of endeavor and the happiness of personal relations and associations.

A child born on this day may have many excellent endowments fitting it for sound and substantial business opportunities in life, with graces and accomplishments assuring its happy personal relations. It should rise in life to good position through its own merits.

TEACHERS NAME OAKMONT MAN

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—W. Lee Gilmore, supervising principal of the Oakmont schools, was elected president of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association at the convention here. The 1930 convention will be held December 26 and 27 in Williamsport.

Dr. Clyde S. Green, superintendent of the New Castle schools, was elected vice president.

Postponement was voted by the house of delegates of action on a recommendation that the association's constitution be revised to provide for an increase in the annual membership fee from $1 to $2. The proposal precipitated widespread debate.

Superintendent D. A. Kline, of Perry County, declared many teachers on his staff received less than $1,000 a year and that any advance in fee was unjust. He suggested establishment of a fee on a sliding scale basis.

The increase had been proposed to finance the program for the proposed teachers' home in Columbia County, plans for which were approved. Postponement of action for one year on the proposal places the burden of providing funds on the executive council.

STREET CLOSED AFTER CRASH

Beechwood boulevard, between Forward avenue and the Schenley Park Bridge, was closed to traffic last night following an accident which resulted in injury to a young couple.

Dirt and formation of ice on the roadway was blamed for the accident in which Charles Murray, 22, of 4313 Lydia street, and his wife, Mrs. Pauline Murray, 19, were injured. They suffered lacerations and bruises when their automobile skidded into a tree. They were treated at the office of Dr. J. D. Donovan, of 608 Alger street.

Fatal Attack Quiz In Rankin Opens

County detectives today were still investigating the attack upon John Coleman, 60, of 53 Ridge avenue, Rankin, who died yesterday in the Braddock General Hospital. The man died during an operation. Both jaws had been fractured Sunday night when he was attacked on the street, sleuths say.

The man staggered into the Rankin police station Sunday and was rushed to the hospital. He was unable to speak. When surgeons were operating on him yesterday, he died.

Hays Street Fight To be Aired Again

Opponents to the closing of Hays street to make way for an athletic field at Peabody High School, will be given an opportunity to express their views at a meeting January 7 in Walker-Moore Inn, Collins avenue, held by the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce. Sponsors of the closing also will be present. Marcus Aaron, president of the school board, will speak in behalf of the board.

"Exquisite Afternoon Frock"

Pattern 1809

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

A bit of lace adds that feminine touch that is so essential today in the fashion world. The scalloped yoke and cuffs are charming on Design 1809. The circular skirt flounce points down in interesting manner, creating slender lines of chic.

This lovely frock may be fashioned of printed or plain silk crepe or satin. If a print is chosen, we suggest one with a dark ground; if a plain color, the favorite are raisin, red, dalhia, black, brown and green. Ecru or cream lace would be charming.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 40-inch material and ½ yard 36-inch lace. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

The FASHION BOOK is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth St., New York City.

PIANO LESSONS SIMPLIFIED

The Sun-Telegraph will give free piano lessons to any person wishing to take them. The course, covering the usual two-year training by old methods, takes three months.

The Wurlitzer Music Foundation Piano School, 719 Liberty avenue, conducts the classes. It has been found, officials of that institution declare, that it is unnecessary to teach and drill the pupils in the scales. They say it is quite sufficient to teach them the keys by teaching them melodies first.

The method has met with wide recognition throughout the country. It simplifies preliminary piano lessons, makes music far more agreeable for the beginner, it is said.

Any person who secures three 26-week new subscriptions to the Sun-Telegraph is eligible to take the course. The only cost to the pupil is one of $2.50 for materials, which become the student's property. Order blanks may be obtained by filling in the coupon appearing elsewhere on this page and sending it to the Sun-Telegraph.

LABOR DEFENSE HOSTS MEET

Representatives of labor organizations from all parts of the country are arriving in Pittsburgh today to attend the fourth national convention of the International Labor Defense, which opens tomorrow in Labor Lyceum, Miller street. The convention will be preceded by a mass meeting to be held tonight at the Carnegie Music Hall, North Side.

Among those who are to speak at the gathering tonight: Fred Beal, of Gastonia, N. C.; J. Louis Engdahl, secretary of the International Labor Defense; Ella R. Bloor, woman labor organizer; Yetta Stromberg, and Pat Toohey, secretary of the National Miners' Union.

Messages will be read at the convention from Tom Mooney, who for 13 years has been in the San Quentin Prison on a charge of bombing, and one from Upton Sinclair, novelist, who recently covered the coal and iron police trial here.

In his greetings to delegates, Mooney expresses his desire to see the successful building of a mass defence organization of the militant labor movement. He appeals to leaders to organize the entire working class.

WILSON AWARD GIVEN LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—The Woodrow Wilson Foundation announced last night that the 1929 award of $25,000 has been voted unanimously by its board of trustees to the League of Nations for 10 years of service in the cause of world peace.

The announcement, which came on the eve of the seventy-third anniversary of Wilson's birth, was made by Newton D. Baker, president of the foundation and secretary of war in the Wilson cabinet.

Baker expressed the hope that the money would be applied by the League of Nations "to erect a memorial to Mr. Wilson in the new building to be erected by the League of Nations in Geneva." The cornerstone of this building was laid last summer.

This was the fourth award of the peace prize. Previous prizes have gone to Viscount Robert Cecil, Elihu Root and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Things That Burn Me Up and Knock Me Cold

AFTER reading the enviable notices accorded Ginger Rogers, a newcomer to the Broadway musical comedy stage, one wonders whether or not the sponsors of the show appreciate star material when they have it. Of the principals in the "Top Speed" troupe Miss Rogers is billed in the agate manner, while the others who are just good-enough entertainers, saw their names in capital letters.

At any rate, Ginger Rogers, who was "discovered" by Ralph G. Farnum and not Lou Shurr, as was erroneously reported, bagged many honors at the premiere with her irresistible charm, and if the "Top Speed" management permits her name to remain billed as small as their minds, it will be something to groan about.

AS A MATTER OF FACT

GEORGE L. M'GUIRE, of St. Louis, contributes to our Crisp Cracks From Critical Cusses Department "Alan Dale's comment on the opening of a new theatrical season: 'Let Him Who Is Without Sin—Stone the First Cast!'"

But Alexander Wollcott said it, Mr. McGuire.

HOWEVER—

There's Heywood Broun's Capsule Criticism on Montague Love in "The Survival of the Fittest," which Broun penned in the Tribune several theatrical seasons ago.

"Mr. Love's idea of a he-man," wrote Broun, "was to extend his chest three inches and then follow it slowly across the stage."

A PIECE OF HER MIND

Marie Leder of the chorus is quoted by a Sunday rag as remarking: "I deserted New York and Broadway for Chicago because you cannot get a job on Broadway unless you appear without clothes. Chicago men are not provincial; they recognize talent and brains, and never bother a girl for her phone number. They seek art in a girl's entertaining, not just areas of flesh."

Oh, all right, you old clothes-horse!

POWER OF THE PRESS?

ART BOSSIN, of the Toronto Star reports that up there they now put it this way: "That's pediculous with a capital L!"

DRAMA

He rates high in his profession. His income, they say, was up around $250,000 a year. When his wife stranded him nine years ago, the gal who inspired him to do better things finally became his "heart" and because of her cunning his money was invested wisely. They've been sweethearting it for eight years now and a few weeks ago he finally got rid of his squaw via the divorce court. Before the marriage was melted, however, he had to give the wife a settlement—half his coin.

Then he became very ill. The stock market calamity dwindled his money down to almost nothing and the reports were that he probably would die before the week ended.

The woman he adored and planned to marry, as soon as he got well, was 28 when they met. Today she is 36. She will inherit very, very little, plus poor prospects of winning a husband, now that she has "given her best years" away.

A pretty tough break, if you asked us, and even if you didn't.

ADD SIMILES

MR. DE WITT BENJAMIN applies for entry into Frank J. Wilstach's book of Best Similes with these worth-whiles: As grave as a fat woman trying on a new pair of corsets . . . As ready with an explanation as a broker's customers' man . . . Louder than Schrafft's at tea-time . . . As careless of his company as a New York magistrate.

THE VERY IDEA!

Edward Carewe, the Hollywood director, reports that in the Hollywood belt trucks are employed to dispatch actors to location. One truck-load of actors in costume and make-up went by, when a stranger asked Carewe: "What's that?"

"Oh, responded Mr. Carewe, "that's just a load of junk and actors."

"I beg your pardon, sir," indignantly interrupted an eavesdropping ham, "you might have said actors—and junk."

NIFTY

WHENEVER you fracture a leg, The Thing to Do is have your friends autograph your cast. Lois Long's leg cast is crowded with names of celebrated persons and the latest name collector is David Hutcheson, of the "Son o' Guns" show, who, incidentally, is one of the few English comedians who is not offensive. The other week-end Hutcheson shattered a pedal and is now in the sick-room. The celebrities from here and there call to comfort him and they sign their tags to his shaft dress.

The crispest crack on it, however, is by Jack Donahue, the star of the show. It reads: "Out of one cast—into another."

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

THE BUNGLE FAMILY

Regret and Hope

By Tuthill

FAMILY TREE EXPERTS ENJOYING AN ANNUAL DINNER TREAT WHEN A TELEGRAM ARRIVED FOR THEIR HOST, WERE NOT REMINDED OF A FAMILY TIE IN THE NAME OF PONTOON BUNGLE. BUT THIS DID NOT LESSEN THE COLONEL'S BELIEF THAT THE HOT-DOG KING IS A RELATIVE.
12-28.
NO SIR, I WASN'T ONE BIT SURPRISED WHEN HERMAN BUNGLE LOOKED OVER YOUR SHOULDER AND READ THAT TELEGRAM. THINGS LIKE THAT ARE JUST BORN IN THOSE CORNFIELD BUNGLES. WHAT A TRIBE! FILLED THEMSELVES FULL OF OUR TURKEY AND THEN SAT AROUND GIVING ME DIGS.
FIVE MINUTES — YES ONE MINUTE AFTER HERMAN READ THAT TELEGRAM EVERYONE IN THE HOUSE KNEW ABOUT IT, AND EXPECTED ME TO TAKE THEM OUT IN THE HALL ONE AT A TIME AND ANSWER THEIR QUESTIONS ABOUT, WHO IS PONTOON BUNGLE?
NOT ONE OF THEM EVER HEARD OF THAT MAN. THAT PROVES WHAT I SAID WHEN YOU READ THE ARTICLE ABOUT HIM.
OH LET'S NOT BE TOO NARROW-MINDED ABOUT THAT JO. WHY LET A LOT OF RELATIVES WHO MERELY CAME HERE FOR A FREE FEED DISCOURAGE US? NOT ME. NO SUH!
AFTER WHAT I WENT THROUGH CHRISTMAS WE SHOULD SPEND OUR TIME TRYING TO GET RID OF RELATIVES RATHER THAN FIND NEW ONES. THEY BROKE MY PIANO — THE BIG VASE — PHONOGRAPH RECORDS — AND ON TOP OF THAT THEY —
THIS PONTOON BUNGLE IS DIFFERENT. I KNOW, EVEN WITHOUT SEEING HIM, THAT IF HE BUSTED ANYTHING HE'D AT LEAST OFFER TO PAY FOR IT. HE'S O. K. I FEEL IT. I KNOW IT.

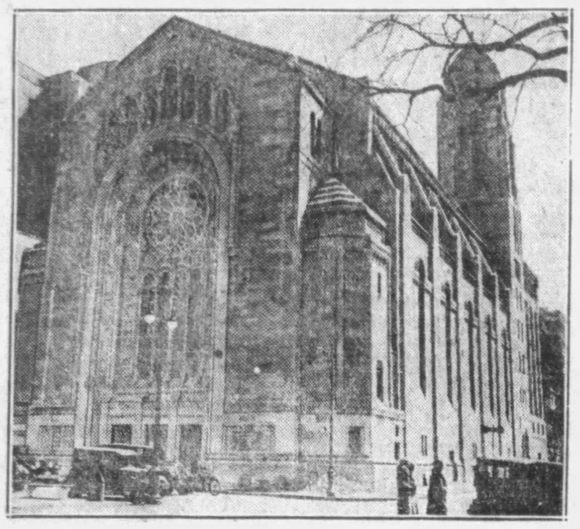
The World's Biggest Synagogue

And One of the World's Wealthiest Congregations.



TEMPLE EMANU-EL, ON FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

This new and magnificent Jewish Synagogue on Fifth avenue, built opposite Central Park, in New York, is the largest synagogue ever built in the history of the world.

The Jewish population of New York City is the greatest that ever existed in history, far greater than the population of ancient Jerusalem and its surroundings multiplied many times. Ancient Jerusalem could be located in one small corner of New York's Central Park.

The concentration of Jewish population in New York City is of great political importance.

That population alone could hold in check race and religious prejudice, for its votes might easily control an election in New York State and thus control a presidential election.

Not only is this the biggest synagogue in the world, it is also the largest place of worship in New York City, excepting only St. Patrick's Cathedral and the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The congregation of Temple Emanu-El is probably much richer than the congregation of either of the great New York cathedrals.

Wherever just laws enable people to compete on an equal footing, the people of Jewish blood make their way to the top.

And in one way, please observe, the Jewish people show especial intelligence.

They combine their charities in one organization for greater efficiency. The charities are most generous and show a lower percentage of cost of management than any other.

Instead of keeping children cooped up in orphan asylums, dwarfing their minds and depriving them of a chance in life, Jewish charities send their children to live scattered in families, and rather than take the children of a dead man from their mother, they give her money enough to keep herself and her children.

Also in Jewish institutions the little boys are sent out to the PUBLIC SCHOOLS every day. They mix on terms of equality with OTHER American children and when the time comes they are able to take their place in life's struggle.

This magnificent Jewish synagogue has been erected on New York's finest street, because those that worship there are good and intelligent citizens.

Motion Pictures

Noted German Novelist Likes Them.

Thomas Mann, German novelist and winner of the Nobel Prize for literature, likes motion pictures. His reactions are significant, because intellectuals, as a rule, have been very critical and very impatient with motion pictures.

Says Mann:

"I cannot—dare not—quarrel with motion pictures; they are too permanent, too specialized, too securely molded in their own triumphant pattern. It would be as reasonable to criticize the tides of the sea, or to belittle Mount Everest because it is not Heaven."

He tells how he "bawled like a servant girl" on seeing "The Big Parade," and points out how such impulsive, full-flood reactions are not to be expected in the colder sphere of art. Motion pictures are not art, but—they are motion pictures.

It's Not News

But It's Pleasant to Read.

Honesty is too prevalent to be mentioned in the papers, but now and then some story of fair dealing slips in along with the daily chronicle of vice and crime.

Such a one is that of Mary Sullivan, chambermaid in a New York hotel. Last Monday Mary found $2,000 under a pillow, left there by a careless patron. She turned it in to the office.

The record shows that she has returned similar finds, one of $500, one of $1,500, and one of $40,000.

An unusually big-hearted guest gave her a cash reward of $5.

The case of Mary Sullivan is one of many. Seldom are they "news." But they give you, when you hear of them, a refreshing perspective of the human species.

And, though this may have nothing to do with it, she's from Killarney.

Engineers Work Well

Nearly a Billion Saved Yearly.

Engineers, representing the entire automobile industry, a scientific standardization of minor parts, have arranged to save automobile owners of America $840,000,000, nearly one billion dollars a year.

The Engineers' Society and the United States Bureau of Standards have worked to reduce multiplicity of shapes and sizes in bolts, couplings, screws, nuts, etc.

This helps to understand why the United States leads in the world's automobile industry.

If automobile makers would now combine to standardize repair shops, garage work, cost of maintenance, generally, the public would bless them, and buy more cars.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Resolutions

SOME New Year resolutions from a child who dreads the hot stove-ins:

I will not listen to the voice of the ticker for it is a circe that transforms gravy into vinegar.

"Bugs" Baer

I will take my paper profits before the clown jumps through the hoop.

I will heed not the painted prospectus for its steps lead down into the bilge.

I will put my money in the bank. Four per cent is better than forty per slump.

The next time I play another man's game I will be the umpire.

If I am a lawyer, why should I go down to Wall street and be the defendant?

If I am a doctor, why should I consult a broker and be the patient?

If I am a mechanic, why should I let the others bolt and leave me with the nuts?

If I am a chauffeur, why should I allow some one else to do the steering?

I ran a shoestring into a bankroll and then had to borrow another shoestring for a tourniquet.

When you dance you pay the fiddler. When you speculate you owe the whole symphony orchestra.

The next dollar I get I am going to buy a cake of powerful soap and blow my own bubbles.

My broker told me that my bankroll would grow three chins and I would have to use a spare tire for a rubber band.

Well, here's one rich man who went through the eye of a needle.

It was autumn when the leaves started to fall. And they're still on the ground.

We enjoyed that talk with prosperity. But it was a long distance call. And they reversed the charges.

We will not spec next year. Neither will we bet on hoss-racing, which is another form of four-legged banking.

We learned our lesson and we love our teacher. But we don't bring any more big, red apples to school.

Isn't It So?

It's a poor farm that can't acquire a mortgage.

Perhaps some men are chronic kickers because they are well heeled.

The average man would rather blow his own horn than listen to a band concert.

If a man thinks that he knows it all it always hurts when he happens to learn the truth.

NO TOW-LINES

By Herbert Kaufman

IF THE bell isn't ringing you've missed the mark. Pay envelopes promptly tell where all well-aimed effort lands. Business only fares far while it plays fair.

Employes who cheat merit, double-cross their own pockets.

Competition has a bushel basket job waiting for every shining light cramped in a pint measure.

If you're a star you won't long twinkle unseen. The want ads will find you in time.

Good men are so scarce that opportunity grows corns questing the country for 'em.

DOLLARS and cents can't afford to lose first-class workers, or overpay incompetent ones.

Wherever you hear mutters of "inappreciation," "raw deals" and "no chance," it's generally the empty noise of a blank cartridge muffing his target.

The fairest haired boy sooner or later winds up in the red ink-well.

The balance sheet finally calls the four-flusher. Where the profit and loss account doesn't regulate promotion, bankruptcy is turning the knob.

CAPITAL in sheer selfishness must recognize the dividend producer and pay him full market value for services rendered.

Experience warns management that it costs less to retain ability than to replace it.

The presidents of International Harvester Company, Rock Island and New York Central railroads, Standard Oil Company of New York and the New York Telephone Company, all risen from the humblest ranks of their organizations, give the lie to your whine that it takes pull and influence to get ahead.

"CONSTANT readers" who wonder how some folk have all the luck are barking up the manna tree.

Success doesn't drop from its branches.

It's the fruit of reliability, concentration, exactness and persistance, which anybody, including the deaf, dumb and blind, can cultivate.

As long as Helen Keller manages to make the grade with 60 per cent of her cylinders missing, no able-bodied, full-motored failure is entitled to a tow-line.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Walls

THERE are walls to keep folks out,
Walls to shut folks in,
Walls we fashion of our doubt,
Walls we build of sin.
Hate rears walls that shut away
All for which man strives.
Walls that bar the mellow day
From dim, stunted lives.

But, whenever we may find
Barriers on our path,
Sombre walls of thoughts unkind,
Jealousy or wrath,
Though they stand, forbidding, tall,
Comes this truth sublime:
Life has never raised one wall
Love has failed to climb!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

DO you remember these lines from Kipling's "IF?"

"IF YOU CAN KEEP YOUR HEAD WHEN ALL ABOUT YOU ARE LOSING THEIRS, AND BLAMING IT ON YOU—"

If you have ever tried to do something which you knew to be right, but which was also difficult and unpopular, you will appreciate these lines . . . you'll know how much courage it takes to live them.

It is not the danger and hardship of the act itself that keeps most of us from embarking on new and noble adventures . . . IT'S THE FEAR OF BEING MISUNDERSTOOD . . . LAUGHED AT . . . CRITICIZED . . . SNUBBED.

Human beings are gregarious animals. We like to live with the herd, think with the herd, be in right with the herd.

We can stand starvation and disease easier than we can stand unpopularity or ostracism. And ostracism is not merely a sentimental handicap.....it is a very real danger. Unpopularity can wreck our business and our reputation.

The old saying: "Sticks and stones may break my bones, but words will never hurt me," IS NOT TRUE. Words CAN hurt us terribly. They can do irreparable harm.

And nothing will arouse the vicious criticism of the herd as surely as DOING SOMETHING DIFFERENT. The thing you are about to do may be a brave and honorable act.....it may be the only thing you CAN do to keep your self respect..... but these arguments do not count with the herd.

IF IT'S DIFFERENT, IT'S DAMNED.

It's damned because the herd is afraid of things that are different. Things that are different are apt to be dangerous to the herd. They make things difficult for lazy people and cowardly people. They upset the existing order. It has taken a long time to establish that existing order . . . to get things sitting pretty. Naturally, the herd resents any interference with its comfort. You can commit no greater crime than to set up new and disturbing standards of conduct . . . to be different.

Christ was crucified, and Socrates given the hemlock, not because they advocated new radical philosophies. The public knew nothing of their philosophies and cared less. But they did know that they were Different . . . and different people got their collective goat. So they did away with Christ and Socrates . . . and thereby hoped to make the world safe for Smugocracy.

All of which you will realize very keenly if you are trying to do something different in your own life . . . something that seems necessary and righteous to you, but, nevertheless, violates the traditional law.

And you must face that fact very frankly when you're laying out your course. YOU CAN'T EXPECT TO HAVE YOUR CAKE AND EAT IT, TOO. If you can't stand criticism, if you can't exist without the approval of your contemporaries, then DON'T START ANYTHING.

But, on the other hand, if you have the stamina to stand the gaff of being a maverick, IT'S WORTH IT.

You may be lonely, but you will be FREE.

You may miss the comforts of companionship and the plaudits of popularity . . . BUT YOU WILL FEEL A PRIDE AND FIRE AND FURY OF ADVENTURE WHICH THE CORRALLED CAN NEVER KNOW.

And your youth will be renewed and your spirit will be resalted, and life will open out into splendid possibilities.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

THERE was a rough guy at a restaurant in Atlantic City. He was sitting at a table, making a terrible noise drinking his soup. The fellow at the next table was a life guard from the beach. The customers all around were looking terrible daggers at the noisy soup-swallower, but none of them done anything about it. So the life guard stepped out and come in with his pulmotor, running and all excited. He rushed right over to the noisy soup-strainer.

"What's the matter?" says the soup warbler.

"Oh, thank heaven, you're safe!" says the guard, accidentally knocking the soup off the table. "I thought you were drowning!"

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

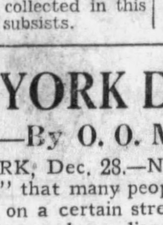
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

IN passing we must note certain odd lowly forms of invertebrata which naturalists, after the most careful consideration, have decided to throw back into the vertebrate branch. They are not full vertebrates certainly, but they are put very near them as associates, distant cousins, semi-vertebrata.

The lancelet—Amphioxus (sharp at both ends) is its systematic name—is an inconspicuous little marine animal, whitish, translucent, shaped like a flat toothpick, and less than two inches long.

It lives a retiring life, burrowed in sand in shallow water round most coasts, and was considered by its discoverer to be a slug. But subsequent investigation has removed it from the low phylum to which it was assigned and placed it with the vertebrates.

If it is not legitimately a vertebrate, it is at least a poor relation.



H. G. Wells.

This little two-inch slip of life has a smooth, limbless body. Its mouth is surrounded by tentacles and leads into the pharynx, a perforated, nearly cylindrical structure not unlike a gas-mantle.

The fabric of the gas-mantle is covered with cells bearing tiny vibrating hairs or cilia of the same nature as those in our air-passages, and these microscopic hairs are continually working water through the perforations in an outward direction.

The space round the gas-mantle opens into the sea by a special pore: thus there is a continual slow current of water—in by the mouth, through the slits of the gas-mantle, out by the special pore.

This apparatus is not unlike the gill-apparatus of a fish, for here also there are clefts in the side of the throat through which water passes out, and it was for a long time regarded as a similar respiratory device. But it is now known that the chief duty of the apparatus is to collect food.

As it passes through this animated sieve the water is filtered; minute organic particles are collected on strands of sticky mucus and passed down to the gullet, which opens at a place corresponding to the blind end of the gas-mantle. On the suspended matter which is collected in this way the animal subsists.

Amphioxus resembles the vertebrated animals in several important respects. In the first place, it has a tail.

In the invertebrate animals the anus generally opens at the extreme hinder end of the body, and there is never the muscular backward prolongation of the body-wall, containing the end of the spinal cord, that is found in all embryo vertebrates, and in the great majority of adult members of that group.

Secondly, it has a spinal cord down its back, which like that of a vertebrate, is a hollow tube traversed by a continuous narrow canal.

Thirdly, although its digestive tube runs straight from mouth to anus, there opens out of it a blind pouch which may be the homologue of our liver.

The blood that has supplied the intestine is carried by a portal vein to this pouch and there traverses a second system of capillaries, a portal circulation, just as all vertebrata have it: and although the liver of an adult vertebrate is not a simple pouch it nevertheless develops in the embryo from a pouch that grows out from the intestine like the liver-pouch of Amphioxus.

And another most important point of resemblance is a structure called the notochord.

Amphioxus has no vertebrae, but has a stiff, elastic rod, lying along the whole length of the body, between the spinal cord and the alimentary canal.

This notochord, like our backbones, is the mechanical axis of the body on which the muscles play. It is made of a highly characteristic kind of tissue—its cells have large spaces inside them, containing water under pressure, and it is surrounded by a thin elastic membrane secreted by the cells, so that its rigidity and elasticity are like the rigidity and elasticity of a rubber tube filled with water under pressure.

Now, in the embryos of all vertebrated animals a notochord precisely similar to the notochord of Amphioxus appears.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—New York has become so "address conscious" that many people pay a premium to live at a certain number on a certain street. Newer apartment houses in aristocratic areas have discarded customary brass name plates and are known only by number.

The custom of naming them in the flamboyant manner of Pullman cars vanished almost over night. And the de luxe buildings become No. 1 Fifth avenue, No. 290 Park Avenue, No. 370 Madison avenue, No. 5 Sutton Place and so on.

In other days Rozbury Chambers, Haddon Towers, Scuyler Mansion, Brickley Arms—and if there are such names they are a coincidence for I made them up going along—were quite swanky. Similar names still exist on Riverside Drive and West End avenue.

But today the single number indicates certain what-ho. The value of a smart address is manifold. Almost like a touch of magic it serves to establish immediate credit without preliminaries. One asks that charged purchases be sent to No. Soandso. And Voila!—it is done.

The reason is easily explained. No tenant may lease quarters in these aristocratic districts without having their pasts raked with a fine-tooth comb by a discriminating management. A single and slight deflection in one's life automatically puts up the bars.

Before the final papers are signed, a prospect's entire career goes under the microscope. Illustration: A prominent millionaire was a year ago denied a tenancy. He was first non-plussed, then threatened suit. Six months later his wife and her gigolo were coupled in scandalous headlines.

The restrictions are often so severe that only the eminently respectable will accept them. There are two buildings which have a clause which gives the owners right to break a lease over night. A late party featuring a few ribald songs may bring the moving van.

Rudy Vallee's living apartment is over the night club where the Peter Pannish youth of maidenly sentimentalities holds forth with his orchestra. It has, I am told, gold walls and mirrored ceilings and the bath rooms are pink and black. The lights are all frosted and the bedrooms in a rich seal brown. Vallee's young brother is a switchboard operator in the club and is one of the greatest hero worshippers of a young man who symbolizes America's darling.

Rudy—or Hubert if you use his baptismal name—shows no signs of becoming another fad of the moment. He continues to attract the flock of wide-eyed maidens who seem eternally thrilled by his Byronic collar, tired eyes and poetic hair. He typifies the perfect dream lover.

To write about Vallee critically brings a back-fire of scorching letters, accusing a writer of jealousy. It strikes me as utterly absurd. He is to most of us somewhat of a curiosity—a delicately fashioned phenomenon spewed suddenly out of a jazz age. In this fashion he becomes interesting, and I believe there are very few who do not wish him well. It tickles America mightily for someone to come flashing out of obscurity and make a fortune, but it does not follow that we have to think of them as tremendously important.

Nor is it quite fair to say Vallee is an accident. He has proved himself to be a marvelously alert actor. His seizing upon the dreamy and softly crooning style of singing when America was at the pinnacle of its poo-poo-bu-doo and vo-deo-do screeching was a perfect piece of timing. His sing-song greeting "Heigh ho! Everybody!" showed he possessed something at its heigh-ho-est.

* * *

"No matter what they pay you boys who write columns, you deserve it," writes Colonel S., Lynchburg, Va.

Louder! The editor has a tin ear.

A rather grewsome bit of humor was attempted when a famous New York rounder lost an eye in a joy-ride smashup. A group of his cronies called at the hospital and gravely presented three glass eyes in plush boxes, numbered thusly:

No. 1—A steadfast eye for family use.

No. 2—A lascivious eye for the boulevards.

No. 3—A bloodshot eye for morning wear.

Grape vine rumors trickle from Europe that Frank O'Malley, who quit America "for good" in a burst of indignation, has cooled off. O'Malley, one of Park Row's most celebrated reporters, has a quick temper, and an imp of fury suddenly sent him on a rampage. Anyway he is said to be coming back—not right away, but in a year or so—which is as it should be.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HAVING an objective is necessary if worthy achievement is won.

To exemplify this think of your auto trips. When you have no particular destination you merely drift along. When you desire to reach a certain point there was an urge to regulate your speed accordingly. You might not drive faster than when you were going along aimlessly, but you did not permit other things to interfere to the point where you would not be able to do as planned. If there were unforeseen delays you drove faster to make up for loss of time.

With no objective you had no occasion for increase in speed. There is no use in hurrying when you have no particular place to go.

You had a lazy, restful time.

But you can see that that is not the method to use when you should be at work making a name and a place for yourself.

Are you merely drifting through life?
